SENATE VOTES AT $500 EACH

President Kingsley of New York Life Says Buckley Offered to Get Six for $3,000.

HINT OF A LETTER IN PROOF

Armstrong Code Amendment, Which Kingsley Favored, Had Passed Senate in a Rush.

KINGSLEY DECLINED TO PAY

Measure Rescinded as Lobby Lawyer Said It Would Be—Steersman's Bad Day on the Stand.

President Darwin P. Kingsley of the New York Life Insurance Company came down to the State Insurance Department yesterday, where Supt. William H. Hotchkiss is holding an investigation of the legislative expenses of fire insurance companies, and accused William H. Buckley of offering to buy him six Senatorial votes for $3,000 during the legislative session of 1906. Mr. Kingsley was emphatic and specified details in his charge, explaining that Buckley's offer was made immediately after the passage of the New York Life's amendment to the Armstrong Insurance Code striking the publicity feature out in the section relating to the election of Trustees by mutual life insurance companies.

This testimony created a sensation for two reasons. In the first place, the fact that Mr. Kingsley had turned upon Buckley, who had been the retainer of the New York Life up to October, 1905, and had been an understudy for Col. Andy Hamilton, the New York Life's legislative generalissimo, was in itself a surprise. In the second place, the offer of the delivery of votes in connection with that particular amendment to the insurance law connected Buckley with the life insurance companies in a way not before realized.

On the preceding day of the fire insurance graft inquiry it had become known that the life companies would figure in the situation before long. Mr. Kingsley's testimony offered the connecting link. The Armstrong Insurance Code, as drafted by Gov. Hughes when counsel for the legislative committee, contained a provision for the annual exposure of the lists of policy holders in mutual life insurance companies for a certain period of time prior to election, so that policy holders' committees formed to contest for the control of any companies might have a chance to communicate with the individuals they desired to reach.

This section was bitterly opposed by the companies, and particularly by the New York Life, but it seemed certain of passage when the bills came before the Legislature of 1906, for the public feeling behind the insurance reform laws was such that no organized opposition developed. Suddenly an amendment advocated by the New York Life, as represented by President Kingsley and James H. McIntosh, the general solicitor, appeared and was rushed through the Senate. It took the publicity feature out of the section of the bill relating to elections and substituted a provision to the effect that policy holders' committees might place matter for distribution in the hands of the companies.

State Outcry Defeated It.

Instantly there was an outcry from all over the State. Gov. Hughes in New York City gave out an interview strongly condemning this amendment, which had been introduced by Senator Horace White, now Lieutenant Governor. Gov. Higgins, then in the Executive Chamber, demanded a caucus of the Republicans, and urged that the Armstrong code, as originally drawn, save for some minor amendments, should be passed. The caucus was accordingly held and the code was passed, minus the Kingsley amendment. Until yesterday no one had ever heard that an offer was made to deliver any votes for or against the passage of the code in its original form after Gov. Higgins had rallied the Republicans to its support.

With the exception of this testimony of Mr. Kingsley, yesterday's session was entirely given to a continuation of the Buckley correspondence, and Buckley had the most uncomfortable day he has put in on the stand. Starting with a profession of inability to explain what he did for $21,400 received from the Travelers Insurance Company in 1903, he continued with an admission that his thirteen-thousand-dollar loan in the Phenix Life represented originally a gift of 100 shares of the International Banking and Trust Company's stock when the company was formed in 1899. He heard George B. Eldridge, formerly Actuary of the Mutual Reserve Life, tell how a fee had been demanded for services performed while Buckley was still in the Insurance Department, and was confronted with a letter which he wrote to George B. Sheldon, as his client, explaining that no part of a given legal fee of $5,000 had remained with him.

This fee, of course, covered services in a period when Buckley's only discoverable activities for Mr. Sheldon and the fire companies had been in connection with legislation. And in the end Buckley was confronted with letters in which he had assured Sheldon, immediately following the appointment of Supt. Hotchkiss, that the new Superintendent was "all right in every way," and would not disturb any of "our friends" at either end of the department.

Coupled with this were letters telling Sheldon at a time when an investigation of the Phenix Fire Insurance Company was imminent that he need have no concern and assuring him that a trusted employe of the New York office of the department under Mr. Hotchkiss was, like the Superintendent, "all right." It was poetic justice that this particular employe in whom Supt. Hotchkiss has the most implicit confidence, should have been the man who discovered the irregu-

HORSE DRAGGED BY A CAR.

Motorman Hurt and Trolley Runs Wild After a Collision.

Before the motorman could avert a collision by applying the brake on the down grade at 161st Street and Park Avenue, the head and shoulders of a horse attached to a heavy express wagon crashed the glass vestibule of a west-bound Sedgewick Avenue car last night. Recoiling from the shower of glass that cut his hands and face, the motorman, Michael Reynolds of 1,131 Walker Avenue, the Bronx, released his hold on the heavy brass knob of the brake. It swung around violently, striking him in the side, and throwing him back into the car with inernal injuries.

The car, left to its own devices, bowled on, dragging the imprisoned horse out the broken wagon shafts for nearly 100 yards, until Policeman Doyle of the Morrisania Station, who was riding in the car, could turn off the current and apply the brake. The express wagon was owned and driven by Hugh Martin of 173d Street and Park Avenue, who escaped injury by jumping to the ground when he saw that the car must crash into the wagon. Reynolds was removed to the Lebanon Hospital by Dr. Bower. The passengers of the car suffered only from shock. The horse had to be shot.

NEW STRIKING "JOAN OF ARC."

Stampedes a Meeting of Suit Case Workers Into Instant Revolt.

Stampeded strikeward by the "Joan of Arc of the Neckwear Makers," otherwise known as Miss Minnie Tadonier, a mass meeting of 1,000 dress suit case makers at 236 Eldridge Street, last night voted unanimously and vociferously to go out on a general strike this morning.

"Follow the example of the American Revolutionists who took the advice of Benjamin Franklin!" shouted the Joan of Arc. "Franklin said: 'You must either hang together or hang separately.' Now, I tell you you must either stand together in a great general strike, or go down and out. How many of you will strike?"

Immediately there was an uproar, in which Miss Tadonier called for the vote. It was unanimously in favor of following the advice of Benjamin Franklin and Miss Tadonier.

The strike will affect practically the entire dress suit case industry of the city. The strikers demand recognition of the union, a nine-hour working day, an increase of 10 per cent. in wages, recognition of shop committees, better treatment, and time and one-half for overtime work.

WEALTHY MAN MISSING.

Much mystery surrounds the disappearance of Vincent R. Delnoce, a wealthy resident of 3 Neptune Avenue, New Rochelle, who has been missing since last Saturday, and for whom the police have sent out a special alarm.

Mr. Delnoce is a friend of Second Deputy Police Commissioner Kirby, who also conducted a search among different hospitals and police stations without getting any trace of the missing man.

Mr. Delnoce is a retired business man and owns much property in New Rochelle. At one time he was a dealer in dress goods at 605 Broadway, Manhattan. He is a member of the Wykagyl Golf Club on North Street, New Rochelle, and on Friday afternoon last, when he played several games, he appeared to be in good spirits.

On Saturday morning he took a train to this city, intending to visit the graves of his parents in Woodlawn Cemetery, but after that all trace of him was lost. The members of Mr. Delnoce's family are much worried, as they fear he has met with foul play. He is 45 years old and 5 feet 9 inches in height. He wore a dark suit and a tan overcoat.

TRAIN HITS CAB; TWO DEAD.

Party on Way to Wedding Run Down at a Crossing in Massachusetts.

WAVERLY, Mass., March 29.—Charles A. Bryer of Centre Harbor, N. H., and Ernest M. Harlow, a cab driver, were killed, and Mr. Bryer's wife, Katherine, was seriously injured to-night, when a cab in which they were on their way to a wedding was struck by a train on the Fitchburg Division of the Boston & Maine Railroad at the Waverly Centre crossing. The wedding, which was that of Mrs. Bryer's sister, Miss Flett, daughter of George C. Flett, First Selectman of the town, was postponed as soon as news of the accident reached the church.

Mrs. Bryer's injuries may prove fatal. She is 21 years old and was married only a year ago. Her husband was 28 years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryer had employed Harlow to drive them from the Flett residence to the First Congregational Church, where the wedding was to have been held. The driver attempted to get over the crossing ahead of the train and misjudged the distance. Mr. Bryer was mnagled under the wheels of the train, while his wife was thrown to one side of the track, suffering severe injuries. The body of Harlow was found in the cowcatcher of the engine when the train was stopped.

JEFFRIES NOT INJURED.

Rumor That He Fell Off a Wagon and Broke Left Arm Is Untrue.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 29.—A rumor that J. J. Jeffries, who is bear hunting in the San Bernardino Mountains, had met with a mishap was circulated in Los Angeles to-day. According to the report the former champion had fallen off a wagon while traveling along a rough mountain road and broken his left arm.

The rumor is without the slightest foundation. When Jeffries was communicated with he said:

"D'ye think I'm trying the negro's [Johnson's] stunt of speeding and getting into trouble?"

MOJAVE, Cal., March 29.—Rumors that J. J. Jeffries had been injured in an accident while hunting were dispelled to-day, when John Hayes, an automobile stage driver came in from the desert, and reported that the pugilist was enjoying himself at Little Lake. "Nothing the matter with him," said Hayes.

Jeffries was at Indian Wells last night, and he said he was feeling fine. He tramped all the way to Little Lake this

GAYNOR OUT WITH AN EXCISE PLAN

PLAIN ORDERS TO BAKER

No More Entries and Arrests at Will—Orderly Procedure Through the District Attorney.

In a letter to Police Commissioner Baker Mayor Gaynor set forth yesterday in detail his ideas concerning the enforcement of the excise law. In the letter he points out that a widespread system of blackmail and extortion by the police has sprung up here out of the present method of enforcement, which, he says, the law itself never contemplated.

"The hotels and saloon keepers," says the Mayor, "have been paying money weekly and monthly to policemen in plain clothes, and also to the agents of private societies, who have called regularly for it.

"The police authorities of this city have ignored the statute and pursued the contrary course of having policemen in plain clothes visit liquor saloons and witness or procure violations, and then threaten and make arrests on the spot at will. No better means of extortion could be devised. The result has been general extortion, the bargain for the amount to be paid, often being struck on the way to the station house, and the prisoner immediately let go from custody."

The Mayor speaks of this as "an eating canker of extortion," and says:

He finds in the law itself the method of its enforcement, which is by means of the State Excise Commissioner and his deputies, who proceed through the District Attorney. The local police, he points out, may act only through the same agency, and he directs that this be done. Then he issues this order:

"The State agent or officer is not permitted to reveal his identity in the liquor place at all. The same rule must be prescribed for the city detectives or plain clothes men, with the penalty of dismissal if they reveal their official character or identity while on duty. In this way the possibility of their extorting money is greatly reduced, if not wholly taken away."

THE MAYOR'S LETTER.

"Office of the Mayor, March 29, 1910.

"Sir: After a careful examination of all of the conditions, I am now ready to consider with you the way to enforce the liquor tax law. That way is the way prescribed by the said law itself, and which has been followed throughout the State outside of this city, where it has been ignored from the beginning. The way adopted and followed here was well adapted for the collection of extortion, and even blackmail of the liquor dealers, and that result inevitably followed.

"The only way to effectively enforce the laws is the way prescribed by law. If public officials are suffered to go outside of the law and do as they like in the ostensible enforcement thereof, the inevitable result is oppression, and hence extortion and blackmail. As you know, I began in January by notifying the district associations of liquor dealers throughout the city, which contain about 8,000 members, that they had to cease collecting money of their members by means of so-called monthly dues, averaging about $20 a month, and paying the same over to persons of supposed influence and police officials for 'protection,' as it was called. I had the leaders of these organizations come here, in order to make them understand that such a system could no longer be permitted to continue if we could stop it, and that we thought we could. I am informed that all of these associations have voted to discontinue such collections of money, and I believe that they have done so.

Every Seller Paying Graft.

"The hotel and saloon keepers, especially the 2,000 which do not belong to such organizations, have also been paying money weekly and monthly to policemen in plain clothes, and also the agents of private societies, who called regularly for it. This was not only made possible, but fostered by the irregular methods adopted for enforcing the liquor tax law here, which I have already mentioned, and the action of some good people who know nothing of the difficulties of government in the enforcement of laws, in urging such methods on. Policemen in plain clothes were sent or permitted to enter saloons on Sunday, purchase liquor, and then show their shields and arrest or threaten to arrest the properietor on the spot and lock him up. The result was extortion of money from the proprietors of saloons and hotels all over the city.

"The provisions of the liquor tax law were carefully drawn to prevent all of this, as I shall point out presently, and they have been followed all over the State, outside of this city, resulting in the reduction of extortion to the minimum, and a safe, orderly, and effective administration of the liquor tax law. It is now time that we also follow in this city the method prescribed by the law itself, and in that way enforce the law as well as or even better than it is enforced throughout the rest of the State.

What the Law Provides.

"Let us now formulate the system prescribed by law, and which the police force of this city are to follow, not, however, until you have carefully considered it and conferred with me, and subject to your better judgment, in any particular in which I am misinformed or inadvertent.

"First—The liquor tax law specifically requires that there shall be no screens, blinds, curtains, or other covering on the windows of any barroom or anywhere in such barroom, or any opaque or colored glass therein, during the hours when the sale of liquor is prohibited, so that the bar and all parts of the barroom shall be open and visible from the outside and to all passersby. Let every policeman inspect every barroom from the outside continually during prohibited hours to see that this provision of the law is complied with to the letter. If the law is violated in this respect the policeman must note the particulars thereof carefully and fully in his book, and report it at the desk when he comes in from his beat. The Captains and Inspectors must also make a similar inspection, and see that the patrolmen do their duty. Let any neglect of duty on this head by patrolman, Captain, Inspector, or other be cause for dismissal. There is no reason and can be no excuse for such neglect. Arrests and prosecutions for such violations shall then be had in the manner hereinafter pointed out.

Enforcement the State's Business.

"Second—The liquor tax law (Sec. 6) provides for a system of enforcement thereof throughout the whole State by the State itself by a Commissioner and a corps of deputy Commissioners and special State agents appointed by him and

GET POSTAL THIEVES; RECOVER $30,000

TRUNKS GAVE THE CLUE

A trail which was picked up by Post Office Inspectors in Richmond, Va., soon after the vault in the cashier's office of the Richmond Post Office had been robbed of $85,000 in stamps and $3,000 in cash, led last night to the Grand Central Station in this city, where after a desperate fight several Inspectors and Headquarters detectives arrested two men who they say are the men who committed the robbery.

In three trunks, two of which were found in the baggage room of the Grand Central Station and one in a room at the Hotel Avon, in East Thirtieth Street, much of the loot from the Richmond Post Office vault was found, also one of the most complete sets of bank burglars' tools ever seen by the Postal Inspectors here.

The men arrested said they were Frederick Cunningham and Frank Chester. Cunningham, who is 34 years old, says he is a banker from London, England. Chester, who is 54 years old, says he is a surveyor from St. Paul, Minn.

With nothing to work upon except the record of three trunks having been checked out of Richmond by several strangers not long after the Post Office vault had been robbed, the Inspectors picked up the trail, followed the trunks over two railroads and through several transfers, finally getting two of the men they were after while they were trying to get two of the trunks into an automobile.

The Post Office at Richmond was robbed some time between Saturday night and Monday morning. The safe was not blown open, as is usual in such cases. It had been cleverly drilled. No one but a skilled mechanic could have done the drilling. When word of the burglary reached Washington early Monday morning three Post Office Inspectors were sent to Richmond.

They were Frank R. Barclay, James B. Robertson, and John C. Koons. They had not been in Richmond more than three hours before the trail of the three trunks was struck. The trail led first to a Washington hotel. But when the Inspectors arrived there the owners of the trunks had left. One trunk had been checked over the Pennsylvania and two over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The destination of one was Hagerstown, Md. Two were to go to Philadelphia. But as the Inspectors followed along the trail they found that the trunk checked originally for Hagerstown had been rechecked by the baggagemaster to Philadelphia. At Philadelphia all three were rechecked to New York over the Pennsylvania. One arrived Monday night and another was found yesterday at the Grand Central Station.

Upon reaching here, the three Inspectors from Washington traced one trunk to the Hotel Avon. They learned that Chester had registered there. They learned, too, that Chester had used at least two other names since Monday last. One was Charles Hatfield and the other J. Alams.

Soon after the arrival here of the Washington Inspectors they reported to Chief Postal Inspector Walter S. Mayer, and he assigned Inspectors Kincaid and O'Brien to help the Washington men. Police Headquarters also detailed Detectives Daly, Bedner, and Sullivan to lend a hand, for trouble was anticipated when the burglars were cornered.

Late yesterday afternoon Chester called at the Twenty-third Street ferry of the Pennsylvania Railroad to see about a trunk he was expecting. O'Brien, Barclay, and Robertson were waiting for him. They had instructed the baggage man to tell Chester that his trunk was lost. Chester insisted on looking all the trunks over.

He picked out one which he said was his own and ordered it shipped by an express wagon to the Grand Central Station. That was just what the detectives and the Inspectors wished. They hastened over to the Grand Central to be ready for Chester there.

They didn't arrest him at the ferry because they wanted to get all the members of the gang, if there was a gang. At the Grand Central Detective Daly had been stationed in the baggage room disguised as a baggage handler and dressed in cap and jumper. Bedner, who doesn't look much like a policeman, was also on hand.

Soon Cunningham appeared. He looked into the baggage room several times and seemed to be uneasy. Half an hour later an express boy entered the baggage room and said:

"There's a man outside with an automobile who wants the trunk this check calls for."

The boy presented a check to Daly. Chester was pointed out to him by the boy. When Chester arrived, Cunningham walked close to him, but the two did not speak. The other detectives and the Postal Inspectors began to close around the two.

"Who are all those men?" asked Chester of Daly. But before Daly could answer, Chester exclaimed, "I'm going to screw." And with that he started to run. But Daly grabbed him and hung on. Just then Cunningham bolted. He ran out into Madison Avenue, and started south with half a dozen Inspectors and detectives in hot pursuit.

In his flight Cunningham knocked down two policemen on post who tried to block his way. Just south of Forty-second Street the pursuers overtook Cunningham and bore him to the ground.

In the meanwhile Daly was having trouble with his man. Chester put up a game fight, and it required the combined efforts of the detective and several onlookers to get him under control.

When the handcuffs were on the two men they were taken to Police Headquarters and locked up. In one of the trunks the Postal Inspectors found $30,000 worth of the stolen stamps. Just what else they discovered they will not say, beyond the fact that a remarkably complete set of burglars' tools and a 44-calibre revolver were in the trunk found in Chester's room at the Hotel Avon. It is believed that a third man was implicated in the Richmond Post Office burglary, but that he slipped through the hands of the Inspectors yesterday.

RICHMOND, March 29.—Blood stains found on the floor of a cheap hotel in the neighborhood of the Richmond Post Office, which, some time between Saturday evening and Monday morning, was robbed of $85,000 in stamps, has led the police to believe that the robbers in a fight between themselves wounded one of their number. It is believed that the robbers quarreled while they were packing their booty, before taking a night train out of Richmond.

Witnesses are coming forward with tales of a pushcart at the door nearest the cashier's office in the Post Office, of great activity in the basement room, of a wagon in the hotel alley, and of a horse galloping through the night toward the river.

EGYPTIANS RESENT ROOSEVELT SPEECH

MODERATES ARE PLEASED

Former Assistant Secretary of State.

Copyright, 1910, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

CAIRO, Egypt, March 29.—Egypt was in a state of ferment to-day as a result of the publication in the newspapers throughout the country of the address which Theodore Roosevelt delivered at the University of Cairo yesterday. He was praised for his straightforward declarations by the Christian journals, and even the organs of the Constitutional Nationalists were inclined to uphold his views, for they denounced the extreme radical Nationalists.

Following a meeting called this afternoon 200 students from 15 to 18 years old marched to the front of Shepherd's Hotel, where the Roosevelts are stopping, shrieking, "Vive la Constitution!" "A bas le Despotisme!" "A bas les Hypocrites!" but they did not mention Col. Roosevelt's name. Col. Roosevelt was not in the hotel at the time, being at tea with Prince Eitel Friedrich, son of the German Kaiser. After a few minutes the students dispersed.

One Blames the Dutch Blood.

At the meeting which preceded the demonstration Ali Kamel, a brother of the founder of the Nationalist Party, said it was surprising that Mr. Roosevelt should oppose the granting of a Constitution to Egypt, since he came from a free country. He thought that the secret must lie in the fact that Mr. Roosevelt was of Dutch descent and that the Dutch were well-known oppressors of the colonies. He quoted the Arab proverb, "El erk masses," which translated means "Blood will tell."

The Alwatan, a Kopt paper, expressing the sentiments of the Christians, said:

"We are glad to see this man, who has come among us in the figure of a human being, but in quality a good man who has been raised to eminence not by inheriting a perishable crown, but by his protection of the weak and his guardianship of liberty."

Calls Blessings on Him.

The Almo, the organ of the Constitutional Nationalists, said:

"We put him above the plane of wishing to slander the Egyptian people in the words he has spoken. He has spoken well of the relations existing between Moslems and Christians. He spoke of the criminal who assassinated Butros and in similar fashion of the prosecutor and Judge. In short, we will say, 'May God therefore bless Col. Roosevelt, whose great words of wisdom warm our hearts.' Some criticism is due to the bad translation made in reference to the strategic position of Europe, which seemed to indicate that he desired England always to remain in Egypt. He has insisted that the Egyptians are as fit for a Constitution as the people of Turkey, which movement Mr. Roosevelt has approved."

The Alshaab, an organ of the radical Nationalists, says:

"We had expected that Mr. Roosevelt would give us a lesson on liberty, his country having suffered the tyranny of England similar to that we are suffering. But he declined, advocating the occupation by the English." It is suggested that the flatterers of the English, "who are paid agents," supplied Col. Roosevelt with all his information, and the paper adds: "We find that he has lost the respect of his own people and his Senate, which is shown by their refusal to grant him a yearly pension on account of his retirement from the army."

Telegrams of Protest.

Col. Roosevelt received a telegram signed by the President of the Nationalist Party protesting against his speeches on the ground that they tended to discourage their struggle for a Constitution. At least twenty-five other telegrams were received from all parts of the country commending him, and a like number condemning his address. A protest was also made by the Nationalists because the authorities had permitted a political speech to be delivered at the university, which is contrary to its rules.

A protest was likewise filed against the degree given to Mr. Roosevelt. The Egyptians say that the demonstration to-day was a tenth as large as those which have frequently occurred among the 20,000 students of Cairo.

Col. Roosevelt has nothing to say in response to their criticisms, merely referring to his speech, which is admittedly impossible of a successful answer, as it deals accurately with the conditions here, according to all the information he has gathered from every source.

Visits Bazaar and Shops.

Col. Roosevelt spent the morning visiting the bazaar and shops and receiving the Koptic delegation, some of whom thanked him for his university address, while the others expressed their appreciation of his courageous declarations. He lunched with Count

IN FAVOR OF AN INCOME TAX.

Mississippi Legislature Adopts Resolution Favoring Amendment.

JACKSON, Miss., March 29.—The Mississippi Legislature adopted to-day a resolution favoring the income tax amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

The resolution was enrolled.

The first State to pass the income tax was South Carolina. The Senate had previously passed the amendment, and on March 12, 1909, the House passed the measure by a vote of 97 to 6. On March 2 the House of the Illinois Legislature passed the measure by a vote of 78 to 8. On August 2, 1909, the House of the Alabama Legislature passed the measure unanimously, and on Aug. 5, the Senate of the Georgia Legislature refused to consider the proposition at that session by a vote of 37 to 2.

INCOME TAX HEARING.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 29.—Little interest was shown at the hearing given to-day by the Assembly Judiciary Committee on the resolution providing for the Legislature's approval of the income tax amendment to the Federal Constitution.

Assemblyman Murray, who introduced the resolution, read a brief in support of it, declaring that the defect pointed out by Gov. Hughes was of an imaginary character.

It is expected that the Judiciary Committee of the Senate will take up the question of approval of the income tax proposition within the next few days.

Pennsylvania Railroad Gives Notice of Concession to Employes.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company posted notices to-night that all employes of its system drawing less than $300 per month in pay would receive an increase of 6 per cent., to take effect on April 1. The order, it was said at the office of the press agent, was made at the last meeting of the Board of Directors.

Between 180,000 and 190,000 persons are employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. The wages paid out amount to about $125,000,000 a year. The increase is approximately $7,500,000.

Singer Struck by Opera House Curtain Weight in Boston.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, March 29.—Mme. Tetrazzini of the Manhattan Opera Company was slightly hurt to-night at the performance of "Lucia" in the Boston Opera House. At the end of the first scene of the second act Tetrazzini, with Polese, who took the part of Ashton, was responding to a curtain call. The curtain descended ahead of time, and Polese, seeing the danger, jumped back and tried to drag the priman donna out of harm's way. He was too late, however, for the base of the curtain struck her on the wrist.

HILL IS NOT PESSIMISTIC.

Likens Chicago Reporters to Pancakes, and Tells What He Meant.

James J. Hill came to town yesterday on the heels of an interview telegraphed from Chicago in which he renewed his prediction, made just before the panic, that the country was on the verge of the greatest railroad congestion in its history, fixing next Fall as the time when the first effects were to be felt.

Mr. Hill was not inclined to discuss the Chicago interview to which he refused to give the stamp of his approval.

"The trouble with Chicago newspaper men," he said, "is that they are like pancakes, well browned top and bottom, but pretty soft in the middle.

"When I talk about inadequate railway facilities," he said, "and the amounts that the country must spend to keep up with the growth of traffic, I am not prophesying. Any one can look up the relative increase in transportation in a period of years and see what must be done in the future."

WOMAN AUTOIST'S SACRIFICE.

Runs Her Motor Into a Telegraph Pole to Save Others.

Turning east into 230th Street, at Kingsbridge Avenue, to avoid running over two women who were repairing their disabled automobile in the middle of the road and who did not seem to heed the warning of the auto horn, a 60 horse power automobile driven by Mrs. Elizabeth Alice De Giers, who was one of the prize winners in last year's automobile race from New York to Atlanta, crashed into a telegraph post at the southeast corner of Kingsbridge Avenue and 230th Street early last night.

So powerful was the force of the collision that the pole was snapped short ten feet from the ground and thrown across the street. The lamps, water tank, machinery, and tires of Mrs. De Giers's car were crushed into bits, but neither she nor her husband, Dr. F. J. De Giers, or their chauffeur was thrown from the car or injured.

Leaving their wrecked auto, they were able to return in the Subway to their hotel.

PAULHAN TELLS OF FLIGHT.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 29.—Louis Paulhan, the aviator, who is now in Paris, said to-day that he had learned by cable that all the differences between him and his manager, Edwin Cleary, had been settled in his favor. He described how he escaped from the detectives to go on board the President Grant. He disguised himself in his chauffeur's rig and put up at a New Jersey hotel under a false name while the detectives were hunting high and low for him. He said: "I got on good terms with the Captain of the steamship and induced him to let me come aboard the day before its departure. There my wife joined me."

Paulhan declares it will be pretty warm in America when he goes there again. He expresses intense disgust with the cold treatment accorded him by the American public.

There has been no legal settlement of the Paulhan-Cleary dispute here.

ALLDS RESIGNS; IS FOUND GUILTY

HE GOES HOME FOR REST

MOVE TO OUST CONGER, TOO

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 29.—Jotham P. Allds, who began the legislative session as the leader of the Republican majority in the Senate, was found guilty of official corruption by that body to-day. By a vote of 40 to 9 it was decided that in 1901, while majority leader in the Assembly, he took a bribe of $1,000 to kill a bill to which bridge companies objected. He would have been expelled from the Senate by the men who formerly honored him, had he not resigned his seat before the session began on the ground, as put by his counsel, that political influences had been brought to bear from Washington and elsewhere and a fair verdict would not be given.

This move was made suddenly in the hope that a vote on the charges would thus be averted, but the case against him was carried to a conclusion. Only four Republicans, Messrs. Coats of Franklin, Grattan of Albany, Holden of Syracuse, and Kissel of Brooklyn, upheld him on the ballot, the other five votes coming from Messrs. Grady, Frawley, C. D. Sullivan, and T. D. Sullivan, Tammany men and Cullen of Queens. Allds returned tonight to his home in Norwich to rest.

Before the vote on Allds, Senator Cobb, the majority leader, moved that a committee be named to bring charges against Senator Benn Conger for his part in the bribery transaction. This matter was put over until next Thursday, when Senators who think Mr. Conger has performed a service to the people will fight any action against him. There were rumors about to-day that Mr. Conger was ready to resign, but his counsel declared flatly that he had no such intention.

An attempt was made by Senators Newcomb and Wainwright to force a broader bribery inquiry, but all they accomplished was to gain a promise from Chairman Hill of the Finance Committee that a resolution bearing on the question would be reported soon.

Mr. Allds was in the Capitol when the vote was taken in his case, but he did not enter the Senate Chamber. Senator Conger with his wife and his personal attorney, ex-Judge David W. Van Hoesen of Cortland, sat in the Senate throughout the proceedings. Mr. Conger listened attentively to the debate and even made notes.

Crowd in the Senate Chamber.

The Senate Chamber and galleries were crowded with visitors when, after a brief routine session, the Senate resolved itself into Committee of the Whole to take up the final consideration of the Allds case shortly after 11 o'clock this morning. The Senators friendly to Allds had grave faces, for they knew [illegible] that they would have preferred to see [illegible] before the Senate adjourned.

The rumors that Allds had filed his resignation [illegible] reached the Chamber before the proceedings began. [illegible] the desk of Senator Edgar Truman Brackett of Saratoga, the parliamentarian of the insurgents, became the centre of an animated group of Independents who conferred with him [illegible] under the impression that with the resignation [illegible] there was no necessity for [illegible] action before the Committee of the Whole. This council had not reached a conclusion when Lieut. Gov. White entered the rostrum as the hands of the Senate clock pointed to the hour of 11, and with a loud whack of his gavel, sent the conferring Senators scurrying to their seats.

Allds's Resignation Is Read.

"The Clerk will read a communication from the Secretary of State," said the Lieutenant Governor after he had called the Senate to order. The communication was signed by Horace G. Tennant, Second Deputy Secretary of State, and contained formal notification that Allds had resigned.

Dear Sir: I, Jotham P. Allds, do hereby resign the office of Senator representing the Thirty-seventh Senatorial District of the State of New York in the Senate.

This resignation to take effect immediately.

JOTHAM P. ALLDS.

Senator Cobb moved that the Senate go into Committee of the Whole, but Senator Brackett objected.

"I ask that the Senate stand adjourned for an hour," he said. "My judgment is that the situation is such that a little consideration of it will be valuable to us, and a precedent [illegible]. An hour is [illegible] to such consideration."

"If I could see any advantage in a postponement I should certainly be willing to advocate it," replied Mr. Cobb. "If there were a question as to whether Senator Allds should be expelled [illegible] a postponement [illegible]. I have reason to believe [illegible] be taken [illegible] him should [illegible]. In my judgment there is no reason why we should escape the responsibility, and I renew my motion."

"If there is to be an execution," retorted Senator Brackett, "I cannot imagine an executioner so earnest in his job that he could not [illegible] right."

Decide to Vote Anyway.

After some more discussion there was a roll call on Senator Brackett's motion for an hour's recess. It was carried by a vote of 28 to 21. This vote zigzagged in the most curious fashion across party lines. The insurgents, who as a unit had been the most persistent in pushing the Allds investigation, and even the two Sullivans, split.

During the recess Senator Brackett and a number of [illegible] him for [illegible] Senate library, where a conference was held behind closed doors. Mr. Cobb was invited to join them, but declined. Those present were Senators Davis, Hill, Hamilton, Emerson, Wainwright, Brough, Coats, Burlingame, and Meade.

regulars; Hinman, Davenport, Agnew, and Newcomb, insurgent Republicans, and Bayne of Staten Island, a Democrat.

While the conference was in progress Lewis E. Carr of counsel for Allds was called into the room. He made a speech in which he raised the point that with Allds out of the Senate there was no need to consider the Conger charges. Then Mr. Conger's counsel, ex-Judge Van Hoesen, was summoned. He had a precedent in the trial of Secretary of the Navy W. W. Belknap in 1876. Belknap resigned, but a vote was taken on the charges. That satisfied the conferrees, who emerged ready to vote on the question of the guilt or innocence of Allds. The Senate convened again at 12:15. The roll call showed every Senator in his seat.

Senator Cobb arose at once and offered the following resolution:

> Resolved, That the President of the Senate appoint a committee of five Senators to prepare and present to the Senate charges against Senator Benn Conger of the Forty-first Senatorial District, growing out of his connection with legislation and the use of funds to influence the members of the Legislature, or other persons, with reference thereto, and that said committee report to the Senate with all convenient speed.

"I had assumed that before taking up another investigation we should dispose of the one we have in hand," said Senator Hinman.

"The resolution speaks for itself," said Senator Cobb. "It will take only a few minutes to pass on it."

"Before this resolution is taken up I want notice so that I may discuss the question involved in its minutest detail and from its legal aspect," said Mr. Hinman.

After some more discussion the resolution was sent to the Senate Judiciary Committee, with the understanding that the committee would consider it to-morrow.

The Senate then went into Committee of the Whole. Senator Davis, who has presided at the Allds hearings, took the chair. Mr. Cobb offered this resolution:

> Resolved, That the charges of Senator Benn Conger, representing the Forty-first Senatorial District, duly verified with the Clerk of the Senate Jan. 28, 1910, against Senator Jotham P. Allds, representing the Thirty-seventh Senatorial District, have been sustained.
> Resolved, That the Committee of the Whole arise to-day and report such fact to the Senate.

After a brief discussion on the form of the resolution, Senator Davis ordered the roll called. The first seven men whose names were called merely voted "Aye" to record their belief that Allds had accepted the thousand-dollar bribe.

Caffrey Startles Tammany Men.

Then the name of Senator William J. A. Caffrey was called, and he arose to explain his vote. The little Senator, who represents the Thirteenth District, on the lower west side in New York City, has attended every session of the Allds investigation. When not an absorbed listener he has been poring over a large volume containing a transcript of the Allds evidence. He occupies the seat next to Minority Leader Grady. He startled his Tammany brethren to-day when he made himself the advocate of the accusing Conger and the much denounced Deacon Moe.

"I have stood in courts of justice for over fifteen years," he said, "and I have always been on the side of the defendant. I have seen many and many a witness on the stand, but I never in my life saw a witness take a grilling and stand it so well as this man Moe. Maybe Moe is lying, maybe Conger is lying, and maybe the other two men are telling the truth, but my judgment and my experience lead me to believe that these two quiet men, who sat there in the witness chair and in an unobtrusive way and with a calm, quiet and dignified manner told their stories, gave us the truth. I cannot believe that Moe and Conger lied, because the circumstances in this case amply corroborate their testimony.

"It has been said that the letter written by Senator Platt to the respondent would have been sufficient ground for him to have acted as he did. Perhaps so, but unfortunately I have seen men in my time take money for doing things they ought to do and had to do. I have arrived at my conclusion after careful consideration. With regret, with sorrow, with pain, but in the performance of inexorable public duty, I vote to sustain these charges, which, in my opinion, have been amply proved."

The next man reached on the roll call also arose to explain his vote. This was Senator Coats of Franklin and St. Lawrence.

"We are not now called upon to decide whether the Senate, the Republican Party, or the State would be better off with the respondent out, but we are here to decide under our oaths whether Allds accepted a bribe of $1,000 on the last day of the 1901 session. I do not believe that charge has been proved. I would as soon strike the accused man down in the dark and rob him for what I might gain thereby as to vote him guilty when feeling that his guilt has not been proved, in order to further my own personal or political ends."

Senator Coats voted not to sustain the charges, but later on the question of whether the Senate should adopt the report of the Committee of the Whole declaring Allds guilty of the bribery charge reversed himself.

Grady Hotly Defends Allds.

The only other Senator to speak was Thomas F. Grady, the veteran minority leader. Mr. Grady said the Platt letters and the "dear Assemblyman" letter written by Conger to Allds after the session of 1901 had convinced him absolutely that the charge made by Senator Conger was false.

"Can you imagine that the leader of the majority on the floor, having knowledge of Platt's interest in that bill, even if he had previously corruptly bargained to take $1,000, would dare to take it with the possibility that Platt might be made acquainted with his accepting a bribe regarding legislation in which Platt himself was personally interested?" Grady fairly roared. "Would any man with a spark of reason left dare to take $1,000 with the possibility of facing a dominant political force, such as Platt was, and when he asked for his first advancement to be told: 'No, I know all about the dirty bribe that was handed to you.'

"I am not going to apologize for my vote. I am content with explaining to you who with me constitute the jury. I quarrel with no man who takes his view from an entirely different standpoint from mine. We are called upon to judge Allds and the law says that we shall give him the benefit of every and any reasonable doubt arising from the whole case. A Senator, remember it, stands accused here of the meanest act possible in his official capacity. The testimony that is before us in all its important features negatives the charge. I vote, 'No.'"

The rest of the roll call was over with in a hurry. The landslide against Allds was a complete surprise even to those who all along had maintained that the Senate must find him guilty.

The vote did not follow party lines. Eleven of the sixteen Democrats in the Senate voted to find Allds guilty. Five Democrats, following the leadership of Thomas F. Grady, joined hands with four Republicans in the vote to acquit. Here is the vote in detail:

Of the Republicans who voted for Allds, Senator Herbert B. Coats comes from Franklin County. He was elected last Fall to fill out the unexpired term of Senator William T. O'Neill, who died during the last session. William J. Grattan represents the district dominated by William Barnes, Jr., the Republican boss of Albany County. Hendrick S. Holden comes from Syracuse, where former State Superintendent of Insurance Francis Hendricks is the Republican boss. Senator John Kissel represents the ninth Senatorial District in Brooklyn, and owes political affiliation to Republican State Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff. Of the Democrats, all, except Thomas H. Cullen, who comes from Queens, are Tammany men.

The Committee of the Whole immediately rose after the vote and reported to the Senate. This body adopted the report by a vote of 38 to 8. Three Senators—Davenport, Harte, and Platt—were absent on this roll call. Senator Coats changed his vote from the negative to the affirmative.

Demand for Broader Inquiry.

Scarcely had the vote against Allds been announced from the rostrum when Senators J. Mayhew Wainwright of Westchester and Josiah T. Newcomb of New York, both of whom have concurrent resolutions providing for a broader investigation of legislative corruption pending in the Senate Finance Committee, were on the floor clamoring for prompt and favorable action on these measures. Each disclaimed pride of authorship so long as the cause he advocated was served without unnecessary delay. Senator Henry Wayland Hill of Erie, Chairman of the committee, replied that pressure of business would prevent any action this week, but that in the course of a few days he hoped the Finance Committee would be in a position to report some measure acceptable to all concerned.

All day long there had been rumors that after his conviction Senator Allds would plead the privilege provided for in the Senate rules of making a personal statement of his position. It was hinted that he would perform the Samson act, shake the pillars of the temple, and take others with him to destruction. Nothing of the kind happened. After resigning, Mr. Allds went to the office he had fitted up for him as President pro tem. of the Senate in the days not long ago when he was at the zenith of his political power. He dictated letters to his stenographer, received friends who condoled with him on his sad fate, cleared out his desk, and went to the Fort Orange Club for luncheon.

Allds's Attack on "Washington."

The only official utterances representing his position came from his counsel, Mr. Carr, after the vote had been taken. He laid the blame for his client's downfall to "influences from Washington." The statement read:

> The resignation of Senator Allds in advance of the vote as the result of the investigation demanded by him Jan. 19, 1910, was advised by his counsel for the reason that they became satisfied that other influences and considerations had so affected the minds of the Senators that it could not be expected that any just conclusion would be reached upon the evidence given during the investigation.
> The issue presented was a narrow one, and the matter to be determined by the Senate was whether the charge made was supported by the evidence given. It was entirely clear to the minds of his counsel that the evidence produced under the rules that should apply in the weighing of such evidence and coming to a conclusion did not sustain the charge made. They felt satisfied that if other influences than those relating simply to the evidence were not permitted to have force and effect the conclusion must necessarily be that the charges had not been sustained.
>
> It became apparent to them that pressure had been and was being brought to bear from Washington and elsewhere, that political expediency had become a large factor in the determination of this case, and that the possible effect upon the fortunes of the Republican Party in the coming campaign was being made use of to sway, affect, and influence the minds of members of the Senate, and when that became apparent it was entirely clear that Senator Allds could not expect a result such as he had a right to expect and have.
>
> The wickedness and wrong of such proceedings and efforts on the part of those outside the Senate, some holding official station and others not, is beyond fit expression in any words that can be used. Nothing could be done by counsel or any one else to guard against such influences, and the result was certain to be a mockery of justice and not the determination of a grave question in accordance with the rules of law.
> Under such circumstances it was entirely clear to his counsel that it was wise on his part to withdraw himself from the jurisdiction of a body so influenced, and this he could only do by resigning his place as Senator. For these reasons his counsel did so advise, and they are satisfied that the advice so given was not only proper, but wise.

Mr. Allds was asked later in the day if he had anything to add to the statement made by his counsel.

"No," said he, "I have nothing to say—for the present."

When asked about his future plans he said he would go home to his mother in Norwich to-night. After a brief vacation he would return to the Capitol to "wind up his business" with the Legislature. Later he took a train for Norwich.

Many Senators, both Republicans and Democrats, said that if Senator Allds had not resigned they would have voted against sustaining the charges. With him out, they did not care to expose themselves to the displeasure of their constituents, without serving any useful purpose.

It was learned to-night that Gov. Hughes will order a special election to fill the seat occupied until to-day by Allds. His district, the Thirty-seventh, comprises the counties of Otsego, Madison, and Chenango.

Fight to be Made for Conger.

The resolution providing for the preparation of charges against Senator Conger may come up for debate on the floor on Thursday. Had it not been offered when it was there is a probability that it would not have been needed. All morning there was a rumor about that Mr. Conger would follow the example of Allds and resign. It was even hinted that his resignation had already been drafted and signed by him, in readiness to be placed on file with the Secretary of State as soon as the charges made by him had been sustained by the Senate.

Senator Conger himself declined to make any statement, or any comment on this report, whatever. He referred all inquirers to his counsel, Mr. Van Hoesen. The latter said:

"At no stage of this investigation has my client given the slightest indication that cowardice is any part of his make-up. He stands pat on his earlier assertion that there is no reason why he should resign. I can say for him, without foreclosing the future, that at the present time he has no thought of resigning."

For all that there is a strong impression here that his colleagues will make it too hot for Senator Conger for him to remain, and that before long he will resign.

He does not lack friends and supporters in the Senate, though. There is a small but determined group of members, composed largely of the insurgent element, who are preparing to meet the issue on Thursday with the contention that every consideration of public policy is adverse to inflicting punishment on a man who, at great personal sacrifice, has performed a conspicuous public service. Senator Hinman of Broome and Senator Newcomb of New York, in all probability, will assume the leadership in this fight.

SURPRISE AT ALLDS'S HOME.

Neighbors Had Believed Him Innocent —Bonney May Be a Candidate.

Special to The New York Times.

NORWICH, N. Y., March 29.—The resignation of Jotham P. Allds from the State Senate and the vote of the Senators sustaining the Conger charges of bribery caused much surprise in Norwich, Mr. Allds's home town.

Throughout the investigation most of the people here have believed Mr. Allds to be innocent, and to-night the general opinion seems to be that the vote of the Senate was dictated more by political expediency than careful consideration.

It is reported that Nelson P. Bonney, who fought Allds as a Republican and was twice defeated for Assemblyman when running on the Democratic ticket, will be a candidate for the vacant Senatorship. Mr. Bonney was of Senator Conger's legal staff.

ALLDS LONG HAD POWER.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 29.—Jotham P. Allds, who left the Senate to-day convicted of bribery, was born in Claremont, N. H., forty-six years ago, but removed to this State in 1876. He was first elected to the Assembly in 1896, and had been a member of the Legislature ever since. He continued an Assemblyman from 1896 to 1902, and in November of that year he was elected to the Senate from the old Twenty-sixth Senatorial Disrict.

In three years from his first election to the lower branch of the Legislature, Mr. Allds became Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means and majority leader on the floor. This is the most influential position outside the Speakership in the House.

His rise in the Senate was almost as rapid. From the outset he was made Chairman of influential committees. Last year he was made Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and at the beginning of this session was elected President pro tem. and majority leader of the Upper House.

It was at this time his troubles began. A number of independent Senators who had stood with Gov. Hughes declined to enter the caucus that voted to nominate Allds for this place, the most powerful in the Senate. On the evening of Jan. 4 this little group held a conference for the purpose of getting together on a statement giving their reasons for breaking away from their party on the leadership question.

It was before this body that Senator Conger first made his charge against Allds, whom he accused of having demanded and accepted a bribe of $1,000 in 1901 to aid in the defeat of the Malby-Stevens Highway bill, providing for the submission to the voters of towns and counties of propositions for the construction of bridges when the amount involved was more than $1,500. The Conger family was interested in many bridge companies affected by this measure, which would render it impossible for them to do business direct with Boards of Supervisors whom the bridge concerns, sometimes by the use of corruption funds, had been able to control in the matter of bridge contracts.

If there is a good pianist in the household, this is not a difficult matter. Observation proves that the home where there is plenty of music, is invariably the most popular home in the neigborhood.

The attraction of the PIANOLA Piano is two-fold. It furnishes an inexhaustible supply of suitable music for all tastes and occasions, and it is the means by which everyone may experience the fascination of personally producing music.

Besides its other marked advantages, the PIANOLA Piano is of invaluable assistance to the young music-student. It enables him to become familiar with the classics of the art he is studying. Thus it stimulates his ambition and makes the hours he must necessarily spend in finger-drill, less arduous.

The PIANOLA Piano is the "home" piano par excellence, and is rapidly superseding the instruments of older type.

It should be borne in mind, however that the genuine PIANOLA Piano is obtainable in Manhattan only at Aeolian Hall.

How Kingsley Met Buckley.

When President Kingsley was called he took his seat at the end of the table in the inquiry room, generally occupied by Mr. Hotchkiss. Buckley sat at the opposite end. Mr. Kingsley explained that he had been President of the New York Life Insurance Company for a little less than three years, and that he was trying to have passed an amendment to the Armstrong bill which would eliminate the provision for publicity of policy holders' names.

Q.—Do you remember what disposition of the amendment was made upon the first vote? A.—It was carried.

Q.—By how much of a majority? A.—I forget, but not more than two or three votes.

Q.—A very small majority? A.—I think so.

Q.—And of course you were pleased, with the amendment carried? A.—Very much so.

Q.—As it was your amendment? A.—Exactly.

Q.—And an amendment of which you approved? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you have a conversation with any person after the amendment carried? A.—I did.

"Did you have a conversation with Mr. Buckley after your amendment carried?" asked Mr. Hurrell.

"As nearly as I can recall the circumstances," said Mr. Kingsley—"of course this happened five years ago—it was like this: In the evening at the Ten Eyck Hotel, after the Legislature adjourned, some one called me on the 'phone, and I am not sure now who it was—it may have been Buckley, but I am not certain of that—and remarked that I had won a great victory that day, but that probably I would lose it; that I would have to have help, or what I had gained would be lost, and suggested that that evening I walk up the street from the Ten Eyck toward the Capitol on the right-hand side, and I would probably meet some one who would be able to tell me some way by which this thing could be protected.

"After dinner I went up the street, and in a doorway or entrance of one of the buildings, as I went along up, I met Mr. Buckley. He said, 'Well, you won a very notable victory to-day; but they are going to take it away from you unless something is done.' I was not very wise as to the ways of Albany, and I said, 'I don't see how they can take it away from me. The amendment has been carried.'

"'Well,' he said, 'they will. The wheels are busy on that proposition right now, but,' he said, 'it need not happen in that way.' He said, 'For $3,000 I can deliver you six votes.'"

Six Votes in the Senate.

"In which House?" asked Supt. Hotchkiss.

"In the Senate," said Mr. Kingsley, "the bill was in the Senate. 'Well,' I said, 'Mr Buckley, we can't do anything of that kind.' 'Well,' he said, 'did you come up here to run a Sunday school?' He said, 'This is Albany.' I said, 'No, I didn't.' 'Well,' he said, 'Have you considered what it will cost your company to make these lists and the damage it will do by having these names exposed and your business looted all over the world?' I said, 'I have very seriously.' He said, 'I can stop it for $3,000.'"

"Were you on the street then or in his office?" asked Mr. Hurrell.

"We were, as I recall it now, in a hallway or doorway of an entrance," said the witness.

Q.—On the same side of the street as the Ten Eyck Hotel is? A.—Yes. I said: "Mr. Buckley, I am extremely anxious to keep what I have got in this contest, and I will sacrifice almost anything, but I won't sacrifice my self-respect and you can't have a damn cent."

Q.—Did he tell you what six votes he could purchase for $3,000? A.—He named some men.

Q.—Do you recollect any of those names? A.—I don't recall. I didn't know at the time more than three men in the Senate, and to show me a list of the men in the Senate would be a good deal like a city directory. My memory is not distinct as to the names at all.

Q.—Did you know at the time any of the names of the members that he named? A. No, Sir.

Q.—Did he say it would require $3,000 for the six men, or did he say it would be $500 apiece? A.—As I understood, it was to be $500 apiece, and was to be paid in money as soon as the votes were actually delivered.

Q.—That is to say, he offered you a sort of contingent contract, so to speak. If the votes were not delivered you were not to pay the money? A.—Yes.

Q.—And asked you to agree with him that when your vote was held you should pay him the three thousand? A.—That was the effect of it.

Caucus to Rescind the Vote.

"What did he tell you as to what they were going to do next day to deprive you of the amendment that the Senate had already passed?" asked Mr. Hurrell.

"My recollection is that he said they were going to hold a caucus and rescind the vote, which, as a matter of fact, they did," said Mr. Kingsley.

"Did he say that upon the vote of reconsideration he would get six Senators who voted against you before to vote with you on the next day, so as to offset the corresponding vote to be against you the next day?"

"I don't know whether he said that specifically," was the reply.

"What happened on the next day, Mr. Kingsley?"

"I can't testify as to whether it was the next day or not, but as a matter of fact the Republican Party held a caucus and again made it a party measure, with some slight modifications made in the bill, not material, however, and it was passed substantially in the original form."

When Mr. Kingsley had left the stand Buckley was recalled. He admitted that he had met Mr. Kingsley on the night in question, but said he believed that the interview was of the latter's seeking.

"I told him," said Buckley, "what everybody knew—that the vote of the Senate would be rescinded, but I never said anything whatever to him about money.

"Why, it would have been asinine to talk about money in connection with that matter, for the Republican Party was pledged to those bills and they were bound to go through as party measures."

"Did you ever talk to anybody about delivering Senators for $500 a vote?" asked Supt. Hotchkiss.

"Never," replied the witness.

"If I show you a letter," the Superintendent continued, "proving that you did, will you admit it?"

"If you have such a letter," replied Buckley.

Then the matter switched to the payments by the Travelers' Insurance Company of $21,400 in the Spring of 1903, and Mr. Hotchkiss called attention to a check for $10,000, representing a part of this money, which was cashed by Buckley at the New York Security and Trust Company, which the New York Life Insurance Company then used as one of its important depositories.

"What did you do with that cash?" asked the Superintendent.

"I kept it," said Buckley.

"Were you in the habit of carrying $10,000 around with you?" Mr. Hotchkiss demanded next.

"I will not answer that question," said Buckley.

"What did you do with it?" pressed the Superintendent.

"I refuse to state," Buckley replied.

Buckley's $21,000 Fee.

Mr. Hotchkiss related that this check for $10,000 bore the same date as another check for $8,900, which was also a part of the $21,000 fee. The latter check was deposited to Buckley's account in the National Commercial Bank of Albany, and the bills in payment of which these checks were received covered almost exactly the same period, namely, services from November, 1902, to May, 1903, but Buckley would not make any comment upon these circumstances, nor would he explain anything about two other checks, one for $1,000, which he received from the Travelers' on June 24, 1903, and one for $1,500, which he received in November of that year.

The testimony at this point showed how intimate was Buckley's connection with the New York Life prior to the insurance investigation. One of the letters produced by the Travelers' Insurance Company referred to an appointment made at the office of the New York Life with Buckley, and following this Buckley was forced to admit that his office was not only in the New York Life Building, as he had previously stated, but that he was in on the same telephone switchboard. The reason for this he would not discuss, other than his connection with the company as its counsel.

Then Mr. Hotchkiss reverted to the $13,000 loan with the Phenix Fire Insurance Company which Buckley had previously testified was made to take up a prior loan at the International Banking and Trust Company which later became the North American Trust Company, and is now merged into the Trust Company of America. Mr. Hotchkiss stated that investigation by his department showed that a bill giving a charter to the International Banking and Trust Company passed the Legislature in 1899.

"What do you know about that bill?" he demanded of Buckley.

"I refuse to discuss it," said the witness.

"What were your duties in the Insurance Department?" Mr. Hotchkiss then asked.

"I decline to discuss the matter," said Buckley.

"Why?" demanded the Superintendent.

"Because it is not a pertinent and legal inquiry," retorted Buckley.

"Will you think it is a pertinent and legal inquiry," Mr. Hotchkiss continued, "if I show you that you got money in connection with the passage of that bill?"

"I decline to answer," said Buckley still.

Got Stock When Charter Was Given.

"Where did you get the 100 shares of International Banking and Trust Company stock which secured your loan of $13,000 with that institution?" the Superintendent next asked, but still Buckley declined to answer.

"Would it refresh your memory if I told you that that stock was issued to you on Sept. 1, 1899?" was the next question.

Buckley said that he did not remember when it was issued, but that he had paid par for it.

"Is it not a fact that you paid or were supposed to pay $150 a share for it?"

Buckley said he did not remember.

"But," said the Superintendent, "you borrowed $13,000 the same day from this same trust company, then being an employe of the Insurance Department."

"I certainly did," said Buckley, in view of the record.

"And now," demanded Mr. Hotchkiss, "is it not a fact that you got $2,000 more of the money raised to pass the bill incorporating this trust company, making up the $15,000 which was paid?"

"I decline to answer," said Buckley.

"Who got the rest of the money?" asked the Superintendent.

"I decline to answer," Buckley answered once more.

Mr. Hotchkiss now reverted to Buckley's letters to Sheldon, which had figured in the preceding day's testimony, in regard to raising a campaign fund from the fire insurance companies for "our friend from Saratoga" in the Fall of 1904.

On the preceding day Mr. Hotchkiss surmised that the man to whom Buckley referred in his letters must be Senator Brackett, and Senator Brackett immediately wrote to the Superintendent asking that the fullest inquiries be made of Buckley to see whether he would stand by the implication of his letters to Sheldon. Mr. Hotchkiss told Buckley that yesterday, and Buckley promptly admitted that he never paid a dollar to Senator Brackett for campaign purposes, or otherwise; never had any financial dealings with Brackett, and never discussed with the Saratoga Senator the possibility of campaign contributions.

Declines to Answer About Bribes.

Q.—Did you ever make campaign contributions to other insurance companies? A.—I decline to state.

Q.—Did you ever suggest the making of such contributions to other insurance companies? the Superintendent asked next. A.—Very likely I did.

Q.—Will you now say or will you deny that you ever gave a dollar from any insurance company to any member of the Legislature or candidate for the Legislature? A.—I decline to answer.

Mr. Hotchkiss then resumed the chronological reading of the letters to Sheldon and began with the session of 1905 when the President of the Phenix Life was interested primarily in two measures, one a perfectly legitimately bill which the Insurance Department favored, regulating the basis of dividend payments by fire insurance companies, and the other, an anti-compact bill, introduced by Senator Ambler, now dead, who was then Chairman of the Senate Committee on Insurance. This latter bill Sheldon and the fire insurance people of course opposed, as it was one of the measures which they traditionally considered as strike bills.

The first few letters of this series related primarily to Buckley's dicker for a retainer from the fire insurance people. In the course of these letters he said to Sheldon in an epistle dated Feb. 22, 1905: "Your friends can get anything which you want personally, notwithstanding opposition from any source."

Buckley was unable to state yesterday what he meant by this after his usual fashion of answering questions about correspondence. Another letter of the following month remarked "the disposition of everybody here is very ugly."

"What do you mean by that?" asked Mr. Hotchkiss.

"I don't know," said Buckley.

"That means," said his counsel, "that his retainers were growing more and more scarce."

At this point the examination was suspended for the time being and George D. Eldridge was called. He said that in 1900 the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company, of which he was then actuary, was anxious to get an amendment passed to Section 52 of the insurance law, and that in connection with this amendment he had several conversations with Buckley.

"Buckley saw me frequently when I went to Albany," said Mr. Eldridge, "and he discussed the attitude of the Legislature, of the Insurance Committee, and particularly that of the employes of the Insurance Department. The bill passed in 1901, although it was defeated in 1900."

A Strike That Failed.

Q.—You knew that Buckley was still in the department when you consulted him at Albany? A.—I did.

Q.—Did he present a bill for his services? A.—He did. F. A. Burnham, the President, called me into his office and told me that a bill had been received from Buckley. I asked him how much it was, and he told me to guess. I said I thought it might be possibly $500. He said, "Put on another cipher and you'll have it!"

Q.—What was done? A.—It was turned over to counsel.

Q.—Did the Mutual Reserve ever pay the bill? A.—Not to my knowledge. George Burnham, the counsel for the company, told me he offered Buckley $500, and this was refused, and then Mr. Burnham told Buckley to sue.

Q.—Did he sue? A.—No.

"And so," put in Attorney Hurrell, who has been assisting Mr. Hotchkiss in the examination, "that was a strike that failed."

"I want no comments from you," snarled Buckley.

Buckley was then put back on the stand and asked what he had to say about it. He said that if he rendered any such bill at all, it was for services in connection with the reincorporation of the Mutual Reserve in 1901, after he was out of the Insurance Department, but Buckley was unable to recall what he did in connection with that reincorporation, nor did he remember whether he had ever brought suit.

Mr. Hotchkiss came back to the Sheldon correspondence, and noted a letter of April 11, 1905, in which Buckley had said that arrangements had been made so that the Anti-Compact bill would not go any further.

"That was just a statement," explained Buckley when Mr. Hotchkiss wanted to know what it meant.

When the Anti-Compact bill was being put to sleep the Dividend bill, in which Mr. Sheldon was interested, was prospering finely and developed little or no opposition.

Sheldon's Bill Became a Law.

It was finally passed by the Legislature and signed by the Governor. The next thing was for Buckley to send in his bill, and in so doing he explained in a letter to Sheldon:

"The bill is for services in legal matters on which I was retained. I don't get any of this. It is more than you ought to be called upon to pay, considering what you got."

Mr. Hotchkiss demanded who Buckley paid his $5,000 to if he didn't keep it himself. Buckley said he kept it.

Q.—Then what did you write such a letter for? A.—That was a confidential communication to my client.

Q.—Oh, ho! So that's your track, is it? Very well, do you say, as a member of the bar of this State, that you wrote a letter like that to a client? A.—I won't discuss it.

Q.—Did you pay over that money? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Then you were deceiving your client? A.—Oh, no; he understood all about that.

At this point Buckley was in so deep that he decided to confer with his lawyer, and after much conference, the latter, John H. Dugan of Albany, submitted that while Buckley remembered the incident, he did not recall whether he kept the money or paid it, and he ought not to be cornered. This argument did not impress Mr. Hotchkiss, and he, therefore, read again from the letter the statement that Buckley did not get any of the money.

"Did you pay that out for the killing of the Ambler anti-compact bill?"

"I refuse to discuss the matter in any way."

Then Mr. Hotchkiss read a further quotation in which Buckley said:

"I don't want to be considered in the matter except to have your continued good will."

"I am not sure," said Buckley, "that I did not write that at Mr. Sheldon's suggestion."

"Do you mean," demanded Mr .Hotchkiss, "that you, a member of the bar of this State, would write a letter like that at a client's suggestion?"

"I might," said Buckley.

"Is there a bar association at Albany?"

"I don't know," said the witness.

"Well," the Superintendent observed, "I don't know whether there is a statute of limitations on such matters, but I think I'll call this to the attention of the Bar Association."

Busy Again in 1906.

Mr. Hotchkiss now came down to even more recent times, but there were not so many letters, for Buckley was out of the State from June to October of 1905, and kept himself pretty scarce down to the time of the legislative session of 1906. In fact, no trace of him appears in the Sheldon correspondence until the latter part of that session. Mr. Hotchkiss worried him considerably by bringing out the fact that Buckley had never registered under the Anti-Lobbying bill, which became effective on Jan. 1, 1906, requiring the registration of all individuals who appear before legislative committees or any State department in connection with legislation.

Buckley said that he had never appeared before any legislative committees since 1905, but he was not sure about appearing before State departments, and had, as his only defense, the excuse that he did not know that the bill applied to such appearances. Mr. Hotchkiss sought to obtain from him some description of what he had done as a lawyer aside from his legislative activities.

"Have you ever done anything as a lawyer except in connection with legislation?"

"Plenty of things," said Buckley.

"I done them all right," said Buckley, "but I can't remember."

Mr. Hotchkiss now came down as late as Oct. 26, 1908, with a letter to Sheldon in which Buckley had said, from Albany:

"If it is your intention to do anything for the men here in Saratoga and in New York it will have to be done tomorrow or the next day."

Q.—Does that not refer to the Senators from those respective districts? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Who was the Senator running for election in the Albany district in 1908? A.—I won't discuss it at all.

Q.—Will you swear that the individual to whom you refer as "the man here" is not Senator Grattan? A.—I won't discuss it.

Q.—Does not that letter refer to campaign contributions to Senators Grattan, Brackett, and Grady? A.—I won't discuss it at all.

To See Grattan and Grady.

Just by way of throwing light on this situation, Mr. Hotchkiss read another letter written early in the session of 1901, in which Buckley said he would see "Grattan to-night and Grady to-morrow" in regard to the amendment of Section 63 of the insurance law, a departmental bill, giving the Superintendent the right to take charge of insurance companies which might be conducted in an unsafe manner. Sheldon was somewhat disturbed about this bill.

Then came the famous letter of Feb. 7, 1909, written while the name of Mr. Hotchkiss was awaiting confirmation by the Senate.

"The new man's name," said Buckley, "will probably be confirmed in time. He is absolutely all right, and it will mean a retention of all of our friends at both ends."

"What information did you have on which that statement was based?" demanded the Superintendent when a roar of laughter had subsided.

"None," said Buckley.

"That was just hot air?"

"Well," said Buckley, "I knew you were a high-class man."

Mr. Hotchkiss let a second laugh from the crowd furnish its own answer to this sally and then he continued in the letter:

"I tell you this so that you may have no concern about any new head coming to take the initiative. There is not the slightest reason for you to be concerned. I have the best of assurances at both ends."

"You knew when you wrote that that Sheldon's company had been visited by this department in the early months of 1909, and that an order for its examination had been issued in 1908 and nothing done about it?"

"No," said Buckley.

"Trying to Sell Out" Another.

Then Mr. Hotchkiss read a later letter in which Buckley referred to the man in charge of the New York office whom he said was "all right."

"What were Sheldon and you trying to do with this department right after I became Superintendent?" demanded Mr. Hotchkiss.

"Nothing," said Buckley.

"Had you got tired of meddling with legislation and were trying to meddle with this department under my administration?"

"No, oh, no," said Buckley.

"Who was this man you were professing to sell out?"

"I had no intention to reflect on him," said Buckley. "He is a high-class man."

"But you were saying about him what you said about me."

"Well," said Buckley, "I had no intention of reflecting on either of you."

Just at the end of the day Supt. Hotchkiss asked the witness how much he had received from insurance companies between 1901 and 1907. Buckley said he did not know, but he would accept any figure that Mr. Hotchkiss made up, whereupon the Superintendent remarked that he had traced about $100,000 up to date and knew that that was not all. Mr. Hotchkiss then showed Buckley a Sheldon check payable to bearer, dated Sept. 1, 1909, drawn on the Liberty National Bank, for $1,500, with a memorandum on the back "3-500." Mr. Hotchkiss called attention to the fact that a check of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters in payment of Sheldon's bill of $5,000 for legislative expenses had been drawn on the same day and deposited in the Liberty National Bank.

"Do you know what that $1,500 was for?" demanded the Superintendent.

Buckley said he did not.

"Was it the price of three Senators at $500 each?"

"I decline to discuss it," said Buckley.

There was also a letter from Buckley to Sheldon arranging an appointment just about this time, but Buckley insisted that this letter had nothing whatever to do with the $1,500 check.

His examination was then concluded and Supt. Hotchkiss adjourned the inquiry until to-morrow at 11 o'clock so that he might have to-day to devote to some pressing departmental matters.

THE AMERICAN DISEASE.

Neurasthenia, or nerve exhaustion, is not unknown in Europe by any means, but it has reached a development in America hitherto undreamed of, and has come to be known distinctively as The American Disease. Every possible means of cure, or even relief, has been resorted to; sanitariums and pleasure resorts are filled and all kinds of mental healing have their advocates. Neurasthenia, however, has undoubtedly a physical basis; it is a literal starvation of the nerve centres, which are deprived of their albumen and phosphorus by the constant strain exerted by hurry, concentration, and overwork, whether incurred in business, social duties, or pleasure seeking. In a handsomely illustrated booklet, the work of a well-known medical editor, the rational treatment of Neurasthenia is pointed out as being embodied in Sanatogen, the food-tonic; this is a chemical union of albumen and sodium glycero-phosphate in the form of a soluble powder, easily taken in tea, cocoa, &c., and speedily productive of vigor and contentment, because it is a direct food to the tired body and exhausted nerve centres. This book is published by The Bauer Chemical Company, 506 Everett Building, New York, who will send a copy free and prepaid, to any applicant, and contains the most extraordinary testimony, not only from physicians of international reputation, but also from many distinguished men and women in other walks of life, whose onerous duties have induced them to use this harmless aid to physical and mental well-being in order to avoid absolute breakdown. Prevention being better than cure, this book is recommended to all who find themselves under special strain and do not care to resort to deleterious stimulants, while those already attacked will find therein a unique and pleasant means of relief.

COUNT ADMITS HE HOAXED KAISER'S SON

ROYAL NOTE IN COURT

The trial of Noah E. Barnes for grand larceny was continued in the Supreme Court yesterday before Justice Goff. Barnes is charged with converting to his own use funds of the Cottonwood Creek Copper Company. The principal witness against him, Count Hans Ferdinand von Hochberg, who took the stand at the opening of the trial, was the only witness yesterday.

The Count experienced several uncomfortable minutes on cross-examination, when he admitted he had signed false reports of the company issued to stockholders. He asserted he had done this through ignorance and at the suggestion of Barnes. He admitted writing letters to his parents, to the Crown Prince of Germany, and other titled friends at the dictation of Barnes, and gave a list of German nobles who, he said, had purchased stock in Barnes's company.

The Count said the following was a translation of a letter he had received from the Crown Prince of Germany, whose aide de camp he had been:

> Potsdam, Jan. 11, 1907.
> Dear Mucki: Many thanks for your last letter, from which I learn something in detail of your present life. Everything seems all right what you write. And you can believe that your parents have not influenced me, but, nevertheless, you cannot switch around your written declaration upon honor.
>
> If I had written that "in case of marriage with poor people I will change my noble name," I then had done so, anyhow.

Why He Resumed His Title.

The Count, in fact, did change his name to Hans Ferdinand Barnes after he was exiled by his family for marrying below his station. He said he had resumed his "noble name" because his father failed to keep an agreement to send him $75 a month. The letter continued:

> Dear Mucki: Believe me, personally it is quite indifferent to me if you have this or another name; you will yet be my old and good friend to whom I will always stick, but with your new home and the new friends you cannot at once get new ideas about honor. Are reservations of mind not impossible for a gentleman?
>
> And then this offer of Mr. Barnes—that is genuinely American and theatrical. I find it peculiar. Please write me about that again and with details.
>
> The dictated letter [Barnes's dictation, the Count's signature] to your parents, too, excuse me, I look upon it as silly and bombastic.

The letter referred to was written by the Count at the dictation of Barnes and contained some of Barnes's observations on the futility of titles in America; that love was worth more than a title, and that the Count was happy with his new wife and would not give her up.

> Dou you not see that he [Barnes] simply uses you as an advertisement for himself? This picture [representing Hochberg and Barnes standing together] with the good man. Poor Mucki!

"Papa" Kind to Him.

> Now please write something about your home, &c. Here it is all the same. I am for a few days confined to stay home on account of the every-year-repeating cold; Cecilie, too. The baby develops itself in a splendid way.
>
> I enjoy my squadron very much. It is nicer than a company, although the Corporals of the First Regiment of the Guards are better. At the same time, I am now occupied with the Government speeches with the Ober-Praesident—and the other day I have spent two hours with Buelow.
>
> Papa, [Kaiser Wilhelm,] too, is now always very kind toward me, and we have approached one another a good deal. Some days ago he has talked with me for a long time about politics. I am so thankful for it, feeling as if the oldest sailor of a vessel never is allowed to conduct it, still knowing that very moment the steersman may have to be replaced by him.
>
> Some time ago Gustav came to see me and was very nice.
>
> Now, good-bye, old chap. Remain to be a German and do not become such an old Yankee business man. Your
>
> CAESAR.

In reply the Count said he sent a letter which Barnes had prepared in English and which contained these passages:

> Dear Caesar: * * * Mr. Barnes, as you know, learning that I was in great trouble and distress, offered myself, wife, and baby a beautiful home in Barnes City, which is located in the mountains of Colorado. I finally consented, and while there I assisted him and his mining expert in making a survey of some new property.
>
> Mr. Barnes showed me two claims on which a lot of work had been done, and stated that he intended to abandon the work and to allow those two claims to revert to the Government, as he thought they were not of such great value as they afterward have proven to be.

Barnes Was Generous.

> On his allowing them to revert back to the Government, I asked Mr. Barnes's mining expert to restake the claims for me. When this was done I put miners to work, to do the necessary assessment work, and while they were doing this they uncovered one of the richest copper veins in Colorado. On learning this, I offered to deed the claims over to Mr. Barnes, but he, like a noble and good fellow, replied:
>
> "No, Ferdinand, the claims are yours. And I am glad they have proven to be as good as they are, and now that you have proven to be such a lucky man I will not ask you, in fact there is no need for you to remain my amanuensis. But I want you to be my partner."
>
> Well, dear Caesar, I am now a partner of Mr. Barnes in one of the richest copper mines of the world.
>
> Your papa talks to you about politics? I am surprised and very glad. In some trouble the Captain generally likes to have the opinion of the oldest sailor, I suppose, and I think you had a few stormy days with the elections of the new Reichstag. Did you not? I am delighted that the German people have proven to be conscious of their national duties, and about the Socialists I would advise you not to be too optimistic. I hope they will utilize what they have been taught.

As the case was not concluded yesterday it will be continued to-day.

HIGH COST OF BAKED BEANS.

Increase of 33 1-3 Per Cent. in Last Two Years and Consumption Decreases

BOSTON, March 29.—The price of Boston baked beans has increased over 33 1-3 per cent. during the past two years, and caused a decrease in the consumption of approximately 9 per cent. Two years ago beans retailed at 7 and 8 cents per quart, while they now cost 10 and 11 cents.

Boston's bean bill in 1909 was nearly $5,000,000, an increase of about $1,700,000 over the cost of beans in the previous year, notwithstanding the decrease in the amount used. In 1908 there were consumd in this city 589,919 bushels of beans. Last year this amount fell off to 536,863 bushels.

Salt pork, used in cooking beans, has also taken a decided jump in its price since 1907. Three years ago pork sold for 11 cents a pound. To-day the same quality costs 18 cents a pound, an increase of about 63 per cent.

BREWER'S DEATH MAY REOPEN TRUST SUITS

Depends Largely on How the Vote of the United States Supreme Court Is Divided.

CHOOSING HIS SUCCESSOR

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The death of Justice Brewer of the Supreme Court of the United States last night has raised a number of grave questions as to the situation of the several extremely important cases now awaiting decision by that court. Also it has started discussion of the question of his successor on the Supreme bench.

As to the latter question it can be said with a good deal of emphasis that the probabilities are very largely in favor of the early nomination of Lloyd W. Bowers, Solicitor General of the United States. The death of the Kansas jurist was talked over at the Cabinet meeting this morning, and the possibility of the selection of Mr. Bowers to succeed him was broached.

There was also some talk at the Cabinet meeting regarding the situation in which the death of Justice Brewer leaves the three unusually important cases now before the court; those of the Government against the Standard Oil and tobacco companies, and that involving the constitutionality of the corporation tax.

The lawyers in the Cabinet and in Congress have been besieged all day for opinions as to whether or not a rehearing of any or all of these cases will be necessitated. Nothing has ever better illustrated the complete secrecy which surrounds the proceedings of the court. The only semblance of a fact as to the status of the three cases was that there had been only one general consultation of the Justices since the argument of the Standard Oil and corporation tax cases.

Court's Attitude Unknown.

There is an impression that the decision in the Tobacco case was submitted several weeks ago, and there has been time enough since the argument for a decision to be reached. But the question as to what is to happen in the three cases depends for its answer very largely upon what has already taken place in the court. And that no one outside of the court knows.

For example, if a conclusion has been reached in the Tobacco case with six or more of the Justices on one side, the death of Justice Brewer will not alter it, and the decision may be rendered soon, regardless of the vacancy. If such a conclusion has been reached with only five of the Justices supporting it, one of whom was Justice Brewer, then his death may result in the court determining to have a rehearing. Attorney General Wickersham said on this point as he was going into the Cabinet meeting this morning:

"I see but one possibility of Justice Brewer's death causing a rehearing in the Standard Oil and Tobacco Trust cases. The matter would lie entirely at the discretion of the court. If the court, before Justice Brewer's death, stood four to four on a proposition, it is probable that a rehearing would be ordered rather than allow the death of a member to decide the case.

Wickersham's View of It.

"The court might consider that justice to the country and to the litigants would be served better by awaiting the appointment of a successor and holding a rehearing for his benefit. That presents the only probable contingency of the case being reopened."

The illness of Justice Moody preventing him from taking any part in the work of the court and the death of Justice Brewer leave only seven members for duty who have heard the arguments in three great cases now pending. If the court should stand four to three on any of these cases, it is probable that a rehearing would be granted as soon as the new member had qualified.

The court might order a rehearing on its own motion, for the benefit of the new Justice, or it might entertain a motion by counsel on either side for such a rehearing. The court could render a legal opinion where the vote was four to three, but in that case, as soon as the bench was again filled, there would certainly be an effort on the part of the defeated party to obtain a rehearing.

In view of the situation President Taft is expected to name the new Justice as promptly as possible. As was said, there is at present every probability that Solicitor Bowers will be the man. The President has known Mr. Bowers ever since they were at Yale together, Mr. Bowers having graduated a year later than the President. Mr. Taft has the highest opinion of the Solicitor General's legal ability and judicial qualifications.

Bowers's Ambition.

It is understood that Mr. Bowers gave up his $30,000 place as general counsel for the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad, which he had held since 1893, to enter the Government service at about one-fourth that salary, largely because of the expectation that sooner or later the opportunity would come to him to go on the bench. That has been his ambition for years, and there is no doubt that it fits entirely with the President's desire.

But it has been pointed out that there are two or three technical difficulties in the way of the appointment. It is known that they are all regarded as minor technicalities, and it is not believed that they alone will prevent the appointment at this time. One of them is the fact that as Solicitor General Mr. Bowers prepared and argued the Government's side of the corporation tax cases. That would disqualify him from sitting in those cases as a member of the Supreme Court, and in the event that the court without him should stand four to three his appointment would not relieve the situation.

Several other names have been mentioned to-day as among the possibilities for the place, chief of which is that of Judge Vandeventer of the Eighth Circuit. He joined in the Circuit Court decision against the Standard Oil Company, the appeal from which is now before the Supreme Court.

The Funeral Arrangements.

The body of Justice Brewer will be taken back to his old home in Leavenworth, Kan., for burial. A short funeral service will be held at the Brewer residence here Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Members of the Supreme Court will act as pall bearers. At 3:40 P. M. the funeral party, including practically the entire court, will start on the journey to Kansas. The funeral train is scheduled to arrive in Leavenworth at 7:20 A. M. Saturday.

Chief Justice Fuller will head the list of members of the court, who will attend the funeral in Leavenworth. It is probable that only one member of the court will remain in Washington. It will be his duty to open court Monday when it must convene under an order issued at the time of adjournment for the Easter recess. In the absence of the legal quorum of six, he will adjourn until the next day. The funeral party will return from Kansas Monday afternoon.

President Taft to-day sent the following letter to Chief Justice Fuller in answer to the latter's communication to him earlier in the day announcing Justice Brewer's death:

> I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter announcing the death of Mr. Justice Brewer and to condole with the members of the court upon the loss of so able, learned, genial, and respected an associate. May I ask from you the details connected with the funeral in order that I may pay the tribute to Mr. Justice Brewer's memory which a friendship and profound respect covering many years require?

Taft Condoles with Mrs. Brewer.

The following letter of condolence was sent by the President to Mrs. Brewer:

> I write to convey to you the sincerest sympathy of Mrs. Taft and myself in your great sorrow. Your husband was one of the great jurists and Judges of this country, and in your loneliness I earnestly hope that the thought of the great service which he has rendered to his country may offer some consolation in the sad hours that await you.

Resolutions of condolence and respect were adopted by the Yale Alumni Association of Washington, Justice Brewer having been a member of the Yale class of 1856.

At 1:55 o'clock to-day, on motion of Senator Curtis of Kansas, the Senate adjourned out of respect to the memory of Justice Brewer. Senator Bailey opposed the adjournment on the ground that it would establish a bad precedent.

JUSTICE MOODY IMPROVING.

Expects to Return to His Supreme Court Duties in the Fall.

BOSTON, March 29.—The situation on the bench of the Supreme Court of the United States, due to the death yesterday of Associate Justice David J. Brewer and the illness of Associate Justice William H. Moody, brought forth two authoritative statements to-day to the effect that Justice Moody is steadily improving in health and undoubtedly will return to his place on the Supreme Court bench. These statements were made by Justice Moody's physician and by J. Otis Wardwell, a former law partner of the jurist.

"It is our expectation," said Justice Moody's physician, "that Justice Moody will be well enough to be back at his work next Fall."

After the Justice leaves the hospital it is expected that he will spend the Summer at some quiet Summer resort preparatory to returning to Washington in the Fall.

SEIZES FALSE MEASURES.

Head of City Bureau Takes a Truckload from Peddlers.

Acting Chief McCoy of the Bureau of Weights and Measures began an investigation yesterday among the peddlers of the city which from early developments promises to be important. A full truckload of short weights, scales, and various kinds of measures was confiscated by him and his Inspectors yesterday on the east side and brought to the storeroom of the bureau at City Hall.

Every kind of device possible for the swindling of the small purchasers who patronize these dealers was discovered, and from them Mr. McCoy hopes to obtain information which will assist him materially in extending his crusade to the shopkeepers of the city.

The activity on the part of the bureau arose out of the investigation of conditions in the city made by the State Superintendent of Weights and Measures which resulted in the resignation of Chief Derry of the local bureau. He had been under charges in the administration of Mayor McClellan, but the investigation of them had not progressed to the point of a report. The Municipal Civil Service Commission is at present considering the question of taking the place out of the protected class and the successor to Mr. Derry will undoubtedly not be named by the Mayor until this is done.

Mr. McCoy and his Inspectors started in yesterday morning at Chatham Square and proceeded uptown to 102d Street on the east side, testing the scales and measures of every peddler and huckster that they met. Every weight or measure that was found to be short was confiscated at once and by early afternoon they had in their possession of a full truckload of incorrect scales and appliances.

Some of the dishonest devices seized were cleverly arranged and concealed, but the majority of them were so crude that it was impossible to understand how the traders could have plied their traffic successfully. For instance, one two-quart measure was taken from a pushcart peddler which would not hold much more than a quart. Inside the wicker basket was an inverted cone-shaped bottom of tin. These false bottoms of various kinds were found in great numbers.

HINT OF MOODY SUICIDE.

Relative Tells Vaguely of a Mysterious Illness—Say Another Ate of Steak.

CHICAGO, March 29.—It developed to-day that the piosoned hamburger steak which proved fatal to Alexander J. Moody was partaken of by another man without injurious effect. This testimony was given at the secret inquest held at the Moody home on March 10 last by Mrs. Anne Moody, widow of the baker, who declared that Frank Ott, her brother-in-law, ate some of the steak on the night of Feb. 20, the date of her husband's death. According to Mrs. Moody Mr. Ott came to her and said:

"Well, Anne, don't feel bad. If there was anything in that meat I certainly would have been dead. They had the platter standing on the table, and I ate one of the meat balls."

The Coroner interviewed Ott to-day, and told reporters later that he attached little importance to the story of Ott's experience, as Ott probably was fortunate enough to have eaten a piece not impregnated with the poison.

Subpoenas to attend the inquest, scheduled for April 12, were issued to-day for Mrs. Moody and Peter Peterson, the latter a former employe and later friend of the Moody family. Peterson frequently occupied a room at the Moody home.

Members of the Moody family, his attorneys, and others to-day dwelt vaguely on some mysterious illness from which it is said Mr. Moody suffered, and which might justify a suicide theory, but in the absence of definite details the police paid little attention to this phase of the case.

McANENY'S AIDS MUST WALK.

Aldermen Refuse to Buy Seven Autos for Borough President's Office.

After a long and bitter wrangle, the Board of Aldermen yesterday refused to buy seven automobiles for the use of the office aids of Borough President McAneny. McAneny put in a request for the machines, asking for an appropriation of $16,000.

The request precipitated a heated discussion, and when the question was put to a vote it failed of passage.

Alderman Wendel introduced a resolution, which was adopted calling on the Corporation Counsel to appeal from D Cady Herrick's Eleventh Avenue track decision if it is affirmed and asking him to prepare a bill for submission to the Legislature to require the immediate removal of the tracks.

Republican Leader Johnson precipitated a row by moving that the Committee on Salaries and Offices be discharged from further consideration of the request of the District Attorney for help, insinuating that overtures had been made from the Tammany side of the house to find how Mr. Whitman intended to "divide" the appointments. The motion was lost.

Resolutions in memory of the late Daniel E. Finn were passed by a standing vote.

acting under him. This is separate and apart from the local police. It provides for a deputy Commissioner for each of the boroughs of this city, and for special State agents to visit hotels and liquor saloons under their guidance and direction to discover violations of the liquor tax law. It carefully provides that such agents are to make written complaints on oath of any violation they discover and turn the same over to the Commissioner, who is thereupon required to examine them and turn them over to the District Attorney, who is directed to prosecute the same by obtaining warrants thereon of a Magistrate for the arrest of the offenders. This is the time-honored, safe, and orderly method prescribed by the statute itself, and is strictly followed by the State authorities; whereas the police authorities of this city have ignored the statute and pursued the contrary course of having policemen in plain clothes visit liquor saloons and witness or procure violations and then threaten and make arrests on the spot at will. No better means of extortion could be devised, and the result has been general extortion, the bargain for the amount to be paid often being struck on the way to the station house, and the prisoner immediately let go from custody. The State agent or officer is not permitted to reveal his identity to the liquor place at all. The same rule must be prescribed for the city detectives or plain clothes men, with the penalty of dismissal if they reveal their official character or identity while on such duty. In that way the possibility of their extorting money is greatly reduced if not wholly taken away.

How Local Police May Only Help.

"Third—The liquor tax law (Sec. 40) also provides for the enforcement thereof by the local police. Here again it specifically points out the method to be pursued, namely, that prescribed for the State's own officers and agents, as I have already set forth in the foregoing. Let us quote it:

> It shall be the duty of every Sheriff, Deputy Sheriff, police officer, or constable having notice or knowledge of any violation of the provisions of this chapter to immediately notify the District Attorney of the county in which such violation occurs by a statement under oath of the facts of such violation, and it shall be the duty of such District Attorney when such complaint on oath is made of such violation forthwith to cause the arrest of the offender and prosecute him.

"This provision has been set at naught, and instead the arbitrary and disorderly method which I have described adopted and followed in this city, with the inevitable result that not only has the law not been enforced, but that large sums have been collected annually as extortion; a greater evil (an evil which is sapping and destroying government) being thus substituted for a lesser one. No wonder that many right-thinking persons would rather see the free sale of liquor than to have this eating canker of extortion continued. The policeman not only makes the arrest on the spot in this city, but is left to prosecute the case as best he can before the Magistrate, and when the hearing comes on his memory is often so vague that his evidence fails to show any violation. He should not be subjected to the temptation and danger of having anything to do with the defendant at all. I do not now go into the details of having blank affidavits of violations prepared for use at the station houses, and of other things.

No Arrests Without Warrants.

"Fourth—Turning to the decisions of the courts, they are found to be no less plain that the method of procedure is not by arbitrary arrests, but by reducing the evidence to a deposition and obtaining warrants. The Larkin case (23 Misc. Rep. 63) arose under the liquor tax law, and carefully lays down this rule and points out the method for State agents and local constables and policemen to follow as I have given it in the foregoing. And the decisions of the courts in respect of offenses in general which are not felonies and for which it is not presumable that the culprit wiuld run away, agree that the orderly, safe, and proper way is for officers not to arrest on the spot, but to first obtain a warrant. 'As a general principle,' they say, 'no person can be arrested or taken into custody without a warrant.' (41 How. Pr. B. P. 489; 40 N. Y. 466; 175 N. Y. 55.)

Embarrassment by "Certain Persons."

"Fifth—It might well be disheartening to you and to me that while we have been collecting the facts and preparing to act in this matter, certain persons who profess to be good and just, and anxious to have public officials succeed in doing their duty, have gone behind our backs time and again to try to embarrass us, instead of giving us the counsel and help which we asked and would have been so grateful for, and which others who never seek notoriety and sensation, and the respectable newspapers, have given us so freely and generously. While we have been planning a legal and effective enforcement of the law, such persons have not even hesitated to encourage two patrolmen in acts of plain insubordination.

"If policemen were suffered to leave their own precincts and go at large throughout the whole city, away from the knowledge or supervision of their superior officers, visiting saloons and other houses and threatening and making arrests, the force would be disorganized and the door to extortion and blackmail thrown wide open. The majority of the force are good men, but even they should not be exposed to such temptation. As for the dishonest minority, no one can fail to perceive the use they would certainly make of such liberty of action.

"Let it be made known to the entire force that a policeman is on duty only under his superior officers and subject to their direction. And when he is given the regular time off prescribed by law or the rules for sleep, rest, and relaxation, so that he may return recuperated and fit for his work, and not droop or sleep on his post, his duty is to comply with such rules and take such needed rest. If he feels that he does not need rest, let him so report to his superior officers and be assigned to duty by them if they deem it wise to do so. It is true that if, while off duty during such periods of rest, a policeman should witness the commission of a serious crime or breach of the peace, he should act officially and make an arrest, if necessary. But this is far from the notion that he may go where he pleases and do as he pleases, away from the supervision of his superiors, and where they could not find him if they had to send for him in an emergency.

Very truly yours, W. J. GAYNOR,
Mayor.

W. F. Baker, Esq., Police Commissioner.

Whitman Cordially Approves.

District Attorney Whitman, after reading the Mayor's letter last night, expressed his cordial approval of it.

"The Mayor's plan will mean a lot of extra work for this office," he said, "and that will mean the need of three more assistants. I am willing, however, and the Mayor, in his talk with me this afternoon, has agreed to a further appropriation for the purpose. They will, of course, work in Special Sessions, where we handle such excise cases as come to us under the present system."

The last paragraphs of the letter were taken to mean the death knell of Cunningham and Keenan, the two raiding excise policemen, who were found guilty on the charges preferred against them before Deputy Police Commissioner Walsh yesterday. As to who were the "certain persons" who have aided and abetted these raids, there was some idea at the City Hall that certain so-called law-enforcement societies were meant.

RAIDING POLICE GUILTY.

So Says Deputy Walsh—Baker Is Now Expected to Dismiss Both To-day.

Deputy Police Commissioner Walsh, at the close of the case against Policemen Charles F. Cunningham of the Eldridge Street Station and Thomas Keenan of the Madison Street Station yesterday morning announced that he believed they had violated all theories of discipline, and that while members of the force they had borrowed money from saloon keepers. Then the tongues of the police gossips were set going.

Keenan and Cunningham are still members of the force. Whether Police Commissioner Baker will take the same view of their actions as his trial deputy and dismiss them from the force he has not indicated, but the impression around Headquarters is that if the two accused policemen are ever returned to duty it will be as the result of the mandate of a higher court. That they will appeal the case if they are dismissed is certain, and there is reason that they will have all the backing both moral and financial that they need.

The case is without a parallel in the history of the department, in that it is the direct outcome of the enforcement of the laws of the State by the two policemen. Had Cunningham and Keenan let the Bronx saloon keepers alone there is no reason to doubt that they would remain members of the force.

The case against the two men was resumed at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in the trial room at Headquarters, Capt. McCauley of the Westchester Station, in which the pair made their first excise arrests, was recalled and asked a few unimportant questions, and then it was announced that the department's case was complete. Mr. Santora, counsel for the two men, said his case also was complete and asked for the dismissal of the charges against his clients. Mr. Walsh denied his motion.

Mr. Santora then asked that the Commissioner decide the case quickly, as his clients were poor men and wanted to get other work to support their families if the result of the trial was to be adverse to them.

"In my judgment," said Deputy Commissioner Walsh, "you have both been guilty of acts which violated all theories of discipline and demonstrate that you are unfit to be policemen. I find you guilty and will recommend your dismissal to the Commissioner."

As Cunningham and Keenan, two of the youngest men in the entire force, left the building they met several of their fellow-policemen on their way out. Many of these shook hands with them and wished them good luck. One or two, it was said, even called the result of their trial "a rough deal."

Both policemen were smiling when they left the building, probably for the last time. They were still members of the force, however, and amenable to the rules, and as Keenan had been taken to task on Monday by Deputy Commissioner Walsh for talking with a reporter, they said that until Commissioner Baker announced his decision they would have nothing to say for publication.

A great deal of comment was heard yesterday about two questions put to Capt. McCauley on Monday by Mr. Santora. The lawyer wanted to know if Inspector Flood had issued an order last Saturday night to the Bronx stations that if any citizen made a complaint about an excise violation the policeman was to let the case alone and tell the citizen to get a warrant. Commissioner Walsh would not allow Capt. McCauley to answer this question. When Mr. Santora asked to have the blotter produced to prove whether or not any such order had been recorded the trial deputy directed Capt. McCauley not to produce it.

The Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst and Supt. McClintock of the Society for the Prevention of Crime were in court on Monday and were interested listeners to the testimony. Neither would admit that he was present through sympathy for the accused policemen.

Commissioner Baker, it was said yesterday, is likely to decide the cases to-day. In the meantime all the saloon keepers and bartenders arrested by the two policemen since Jan. 30 last, and they are many, are awaiting trial in Special Session for violating the excise law.

EGYPTIANS RESENT ROOSEVELT SPEECH

By JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN,

Copyright, 1910, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

CAIRO, Egypt, March 29.—Egypt was in a state of ferment to-day as a result of the publication in the newspapers throughout the country of the address which Theodore Roosevelt delivered at the University of Cairo yesterday. He was praised for his straightforward declarations by the Christian journals, and even the organs of the Constitutional Nationalists were inclined to uphold his views, for they denounced the extreme radical Nationalists.

Following a meeting called this afternoon 200 students from 15 to 18 years old marched to the front of Shepherd's Hotel, where the Roosevelts are stopping, shrieking, "Vive la Constitution!" "A bas le Despotisme!" "A bas les Hypocrites!" but they did not mention Col. Roosevelt's name. Col. Roosevelt was not in the hotel at the time, being at tea with Prince Eitel Friedrich, son of the German Kaiser. After a few minutes the students dispersed.

One Blames the Dutch Blood.

At the meeting which preceded the demonstration Ali Kamel, a brother of the founder of the Nationalist Party, said it was surprising that Mr. Roosevelt should oppose the granting of a Constitution to Egypt, since he came from a free country. He thought that the secret must lie in the fact that Mr. Roosevelt was of Dutch descent and that the Dutch were well-known oppressors of the colonies. He quoted the Arab proverb, "El erk masses," which translated means "Blood will tell."

The Alwatan, a Kopt paper, expressing the sentiments of the Christians, said:

"We are glad to see this man, who has come among us in the figure of a human being, but in quality a good man who has been raised to eminence not by inheriting a perishable crown, but by his protection of the weak and his guardianship of liberty."

Calls Blessings on Him.

The Almo, the organ of the Constitutional Nationalists, said:

"We put him above the plane of wishing to slander the Egyptian people in the words he has spoken. He has spoken well of the relations existing between Moslems and Christians. He spoke of the criminal who assassinated Butros and in similar fashion of the prosecutor and Judge. In short, we will say, 'May God therefore bless Col. Roosevelt, whose great words of wisdom warm our hearts.' Some criticism is due to the bad translation made in reference to the strategic position of Europe, which seemed to indicate that he desired England always to remain in Egypt. He has insisted that the Egyptians are as fit for a Constitution as the people of Turkey, which movement Mr. Roosevelt has approved."

The Alshaab, an organ of the radical Nationalists, says:

"We had expected that Mr. Roosevelt would give us a lesson on liberty, his country having suffered the tyranny of England similar to that we are suffering. But he declined, advocating the occupation by the English." It is suggested that the flatterers of the English, "who are paid agents," supplied Col. Roosevelt with all his information, and the paper adds: "We find that he has lost the respect of his own people and his Senate, which is shown by their refusal to grant him a yearly pension on account of his retirement from the army."

Telegrams of Protest.

Col. Roosevelt received a telegram signed by the President of the Nationalist Party protesting against his speeches on the ground that they tended to discourage their struggle for a Constitution. At least twenty-five other telegrams were received from all parts of the country commending him, and a like number condemning his address. A protest was also made by the Nationalists because the authorities had permitted a political speech to be delivered at the university, which is contrary to its rules.

A protest was likewise filed against the degree given to Mr. Roosevelt. The Egyptians say that the demonstration to-day was a tenth as large as those which have frequently occurred among the 20,000 students of Cairo.

Col. Roosevelt has nothing to say in response to their criticisms, merely referring to his speech, which is admittedly impossible of a successful answer, as it deals accurately with the conditions here, according to all the information he has gathered from every source.

Visits Bazaar and Shops.

Col. Roosevelt spent the morning visiting the bazaar and shops and receiving the Koptic delegation, some of whom thanked him for his university address, while the others expressed their appreciation of his courageous declarations. He lunched with Count Hatzfeldt, the German Diplomatic Agent, and later had tea with the Kaiser's son.

He then received the American Franciscan Sisters, Catholic missionaries, to whom he gave a contribution for their new building here. He wrote a letter expressing his sincere sympathy with their work for Christianity, as has been done in the case of other denominations. He spoke cordially of the Catholic mission he visited in Central Africa.

To-night Mr. Roosevelt dined alone with his wife, the first meal they have had together since they met at Khartoum.

ANGER OF NATIONALISTS.

One Organ Finds It Not Surprising That He Lost American Support.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
Dispatch to the London Standard.

are furious with Mr. Roosevelt for his speech yesterday. The Shab, the organ of the extremists, says that his "delusions are based on what has been told him by hired intriguers and parasites," and accuses him of currying favor with the English.

"How," asks the writer, "could a man who would so deny liberty and individual rights have been chosen to be the President of a free people? It is not surprising that he lost their support and respect."

The Moayyad, which is more moderate, admits that it was a great speech in many respects and is assured of its sincerity, but it says that Mr. Roosevelt has no qualifications to discuss Egyptian affairs.

LONDON PRESS IS STIRRED.

Radical Papers Criticise Mr. Roosevelt, but Tories Praise Him.

LONDON, Wednesday, March 30.—The Standard this morning devotes a long editorial to ironical references to Col. Roosevelt's progress.

Alluding to a recent rumor that he had received an offer of the post of Adviser General to the Chinese Empire, The Standard says he is obviously the very man for the position. It remarks that the ordinary traveler requires months of study and observation before venturing an opinion on foreign nations. With a "man of genius" it is otherwise. A few weeks, spent mainly on the cars and steamers and at the hotels, qualifies him to pronounce judgments for the instruction of the listening nations.

"We look forward with keen anticipation," the editorial concludes, "to Mr. Roosevelt's discovery of the British Isles and his candid remarks on our shortcomings. We might return the compliment by sending, say, Mr. Asquith, to lecture the citizens of the United States on their National defects and imperfections."

The Radical afternoon press took exception to Mr. Roosevelt's speech at Cairo, and even the Moderate Westminster Gazette said editorially:

"Disquisitions upon the readiness or the reverse of Egypt for self-government, while permitted to men without great position, are, perhaps better hushed in the breasts of ex-Presidents."

The Gazette recognized Mr. Roosevelt's desire to be friendly and helpful to Great Britain, but said that his pronouncement is not calculated to make easier the path of the Government in Egypt.

On the other hand, the Tory press was highly laudatory of the fearless declarations. The Pall Mall Gazette considered that the American statesman had done a service not only to the Egyptians, but to the cause of human progress throughout the world.

"Mr. Roosevelt," it added, "is providing our puling sentimentalists of the Keir Hardie breed with a healthy spectacle of the representative of the greatest democracy in the world giving pseudo-democracy a sound trouncing."

The Evening Standard warmly approved the address as "the wise words of a great statesman."

England to Surrender American.

LONDON, March 29.—At the request of the American Department of State the Magistrate in the Bow Street Police Court to-day issued a warrant for the arrest of Frank Mathusic, who is wanted in St. Louis to answer to the charge of robbery. Mathusic is now serving a three months' sentence at Crewe for robbery.

Mr. Morgan Goes on Motor Trip.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

PARIS, March 29.—The Institute of International Law, which is holding its convention here, to-day elected James B. Scott, Solicitor of the Department of State at Washington, and Antonio de Bustamante of Havana University regular members, and Prof. G. G. Wilson of Harvard University associate member.

MONTE CARLO, March 29.—The Museum of Oceanography, which was founded by the Prince of Monaco and occupies an imposing position on the cliff, was dedicated this afternoon with much ceremony in the presence of the diplomatic representatives of the European countries. The museum is unique and of great scientific value. It contains an extensive collection of botanical and animal life of the seas, photographs and charts, and elaborate geographical data.

SAN DOMINGO, March 29.—The United States gunboat Dubuque arrived here this afternoon and exchanged salutes with the fort. Owing to recent outbreaks in San Domingo the American Government ordered the Dubuque here, but the country is now quiet.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 29.—The Insular officials are negotiating with the Federal Government for a plot of ground of 400 acres which is now used as a military post at Cayey, twenty-five miles from San Juan. The officials offered to exchange for this the asylum property adjoining the military barracks at San Juan, as the Insular Government is desirous of obtaining the Cayey property for asylum and penitentiary purposes.

PARIS, March 29.—President Fallieres to-day opened the third convention of the International Congress of Physio-Therapeutics at the Sorbonne. Ambassador Bacon and other members of the Diplomatic Corps were present. The American delegates include Dr. G. B. Massey of Philadelphia and Dr. F. H. Morse of Boston. An interesting feature is the exhibition of the latest apparatus for treatment by light, heat, electricity, and mechanical means.

SILENT ON PRINCETON GIFT.

Procter Will Not Say He Has Renewed $500,000 Offer for Graduate School.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, March 29.—William Cooper Procter, the soap manufacturer, who withdrew his offer of $500,000 to Princeton University about six weeks ago because of differences between his plans for the graduate school and those of President Woodrow Wilson, to-day declined to discuss at any length his position in the matter. It had been reported from St. Louis that Mr. Procter and President Wilson came to a pretty fair understanding regarding the gift at the dinner given there last Saturday evening by the Princeton alumni. He said this afternoon to a representative of THE TIMES:

"I had a very enjoyable trip, but do not care to make any statement regarding the Princeton gift. It has been talked of a great deal, and my position in the matter, I think, is clearly understood by the public."

Asked if any plans had been laid before him looking to a renewing of the gift, Mr. Procter again said he could say nothing regarding the matter and that it can be settled only by being allowed to develop outside the gaze of the newspapers.

FIGHT ON THE LORDS WILL BE BITTER

ASQUITH EXPLAINS REFORM

Opens Debate on His Resolution to Limit Power of the Lords—Has the Support of Nationalists.

LONDON, March 29.—The first day's debate in the House of Commons on Premier Asquith's resolutions dealing with the veto power of the House of Lords proved conclusively that the Lords will not yield their privileges without a great struggle. A. J. Balfour, the Opposition leader in the Commons, declared plainly that it was the intention of his party to take the first opportunity to repeal any measure restricting the House of Lords' power of veto.

On the other hand, Premier Asquith's speech seems to have put fresh heart into his conglomerate party, and George Nicoll Barnes, for the Laborites, as well as those of the representatives of the Welsh constituencies, all breathed defiance to the Lords. The only dissatisfaction expressed was that the Premier's proposals were not drastic enough.

The House held an excited crowd when Premier Asquith rose to move that the popular body go into committee of the whole to consider the Government's resolutions. Briefly stated, these three resolutions provide that the Lords shall have no part in financial legislation; that their power over other legislation shall consist only in compelling deliberation, but not beyond the life of a single Parliament, and that the term of Parliament shall be limited to five years, instead of seven years, as at present.

Mr. Asquith traced the course of events culminating with the Lords' interference with the budget measure in the last Parliament, and declared that the subsequent general elections had given the House of Commons express authority to bring that state of things to an end. There was both room and need for a second Chamber, he said, but of such a body the present House of Lords was only a travesty and caricature.

Mr. Asquith said that he desired to see the predominance of the House of Commons in legislation. The Government believed that this was the sheet anchor of Great Britain's representative system. A proper second Chamber must, he contended, be relatively small in numbers and must rest upon a democratic, and not a hereditary, base; it must be a body which by virtue of its composition and atmosphere will not be governed by partisanship, tempered against panic, but at the same time responsive to and dependent upon the opinion and will of the nation.

He said he did not favor a referendum as the means of settling the deadlock of the two Houses. He would like a joint session, provided both chambers had democratic bases, but he did not think that a joint session was applicable to Great Britain's existing Constitution. Therefore, the only means for overcoming the present difficulties was the limitation of the veto of the Lords, coupled with a shortening of the duration of Parliaments, which he thought would insure that the popular will would not be frustrated. The royal veto was as dead as Queen Anne, he added, and the absolute veto of the Lords must follow before the road could be cleared for the advent of a full-grown and unfettered democracy.

Mr. Balfour followed the Prime Minister, whose proposal he characterized as "the most absurd experiment in constitution making upon which any government ever embarked." It would be madness, he said to adopt the changes which would remove all safeguards from the affairs of finance. He could not conceive a more inauspicious moment for the suggestion that the Lords had exceeded their powers in rejecting the money bill than now, when everybody knew that if the House of Commons voted on the merits of the budget without regard to ulterior issues like home rule, the financial measure would be rejected. Mr. Balfour contended that the existence of the House of Lords was more necessary than ever now, when "modern radicalism has revolutionary ideals and aims upon which the people should be consulted before their final adoption."

Mr. Balfour intimated that if this "really grotesque proposal" ever became a law, the Conservatives would promptly remove it from the statute books when they returned to power.

John E. Redmond, leader of the Nationalists, congratulated Mr. Asquith upon the substance of his resolutions, which, he said, would be supported heartily by himself and his friends. He was glad that all reference to a reform of the House of Lords had been dropped, for, if the Government had proposed any plan of reform, the Nationalists could not have supported it.

The debate will be continued throughout the week and division will be taken Monday. Mr. Redmond has summoned a meeting of his party for to-morrow for further consideration of the situation.

CLAUSEN JURY STILL OUT,

Returned to Court for Information Once—Verdict Expected To-day.

There was no verdict in the suit of William T. Evans, the art collector, against William Clausen, the art dealer, when the Supreme Court was closed last night. Justice Page directed the jury to bring in a sealed verdict this morning. The jury came into court yesterday and asked to hear the charge reread and also to hear the testimony given by Mrs. Arabella Wyant, widow of the painter.

Though the suit is over two alleged paintings by Homer D. Martin, the testimony of Mrs. Wyant is regarded as of importance as bearing on the relative credibility of the parties to the suit, both of whom testified as to transactions with Mrs. Wyant.

Justice Page's charge was short and conventional. It occupied twenty minutes at the opening of court, and dealt with the elements which must be proved by a plaintiff in an action for fraud.

DENNISON KILLED THE BOYS

Says the Coroner's Jury, and Criticises His Liberation from Asylums.

The Coroner's jury which inquired yesterday into the murder of Robert Lomas and Arthur Shibley, the two little boys who were shot at Highbridge Park on Jan. 12, found yesterday that the crime was committed by Herbert Jerome Dennison, now confined in Matteawan, while he was "mentally deranged." The jury added a rider calling on the authorities "to exercise in future greater care in the liberation of persons shown to be subject to homicidal mania."

Among the witnesses was Lawrence P. Casey of 2,502 Eighth Avenue, who saw a man running on the Speedway at 163d Street, two blocks from the scene of the shooting, just after it happened. He said that he had picked out Dennison as the man on Jan. 20 as he sat at dinner in Amityville Asylum.

Inspector McCafferty, said Casey, showed Dennison an account of the murder and asked him if he had done anything like that.

"I hate all children and Yankees," was Dennison's answer. Then he bared his breast and showed the witness a Spanish flag tattooed over his heart, and said that he had Spanish blood in him.

Evidence was put in to show that just after the murder Dennison boarded a car at Jerome Avenue and rode to 161st Street and Third Avenue. He changed to the elevated and got off at 129th Street. Mrs. Agnes Mulligan testified to remarking on his demented appearance.

It Can Now Collect a Similar Amount from Mrs. Russell Sage.

The American Bible Society announced yesterday that its efforts to raise $500,000 to meet an offer of a similar amount from Mrs. Russell Sage had at last been successful. The entire amount is to be invested as a perpetual endowment for the society, the income to be used in meeting the current expenses, if necessary, and in extending the work of the organization here and abroad.

It was only after two extensions by Mrs. Sage of the period for which the offer was made that the $500,000 was obtained, and now only $275,881.07 has been paid in. The balance, however, is in good subscriptions, most of them payable this year. In its official statement the society says:

> The officers and Board of Managers reverently recognize the Divine favor that has rested upon this undertaking and desire most cordially to return thanks to the thousands of interested colaborers in all parts of this country and in many foreign lands that have helped to bring about this result; to the givers who have given out of their abundance, and to those who have given from their limited store, for this we believe to be a treasury of God.

The society announces that it will be able to enlarge appropriations for both home and foreign work for the fiscal year beginning April 1, and thus meet more adequately the appeals which have recently come from all parts of the world.

BOXBOARD TRUST ENDS.

Two More Concerns Pay Fines—Only Three Others to be Heard From.

Before Judge Hand in the United States Circuit Court yesterday a plea of guilty to an indictment charging conspiracy in restraint of trade was entered by the United Boxboard and Paper Company of New York and the Stony Brook Paper Company, Haverhill, Mass. A fine of $2,000 was imposed in each case.

These companies were two of the hundred or more others forming the boxboard manufacturers' combination for the purpose of regulating prices, against which an omnibus indictment was found last December. Some twenty-five or thirty different constituent companies have already pleaded guilty and paid the fines imposed. Altogether $00,000 in fines has been collected by the Government in these cases without the necessity of going to trial.

Only three companies involved still remain to be heard from. They are the Chemical Paper Company, Holyoke, Mass.; the Reynolds-Boyle Company, Newark, N. J., and the George W. Downs Company, Newark, N. J.

Assistant United States District Attorney Crim, who has handled the cases for the Government after the imposition of the fines, asked that the charges against a dozen or more other companies and individuals be dismissed. All of them, he said, had either dissolved or withdrawn from the pool before the Government began its investigation, when they found it to be illegal. Judge Hand granted the request.

SHERWOOD INDICTED.

Banker Involved in Windsor Trust Scandal Charged with Larceny.

For his part in the Windsor Trust scandal of last Summer John F. Sherwood was indicted for grand larceny in the first degree yesterday. It is charged that on August 2 last he stole from Mathew M. Joyce shares of Davis-Daly and Ohio Copper stock. The shares appeared on the market after they had been given as security for a $50,000 loan.

Sherwood, so runs the complaint, came forward with the money and, gaining possession of the stock, sold it, the profits, it is said being divided among several who are now under indictment.

The first of the Windsor Trust cases will be brought to trial by Assistant District Attorney Nott before Supreme Court Justice Marcus on Monday. When Sherwood was brought here from Boston a few days ago Justice Davis fixed bail at $15,000.

MRS. N. MARCUS RUN OVER.

A Runabout Knocks Her Down in Fifth Avenue.

Mrs. Nathan Marcus of 604 Riverside Drive, wife of Nathan Marcus of Marcus Brothers, the Canal Street clothing manufacturing concern, was run over and injured on Fifth Avenue, near Forty-eighth Street, late yesterday afternoon.

The police say that Mrs. Marcus slipped and fell directly in front of a horse going northward at a good speed, and that the horse sprang over the prostrate woman without touching her, but that the wheels of the vehicle passed over her legs.

The driver of the runabout, who said he was William Fleischman of 31 East Twenty-eighth Street, was arrested and charged with reckless driving, although Mrs. Marcus declined to lodge any complaint or to go to a hospital. She was driven home in a taxicab.

$1,000 FINE IN REBATE CASE.

D. O. Ives, Late of the Wabash, Admits Favoring Holland-America Line.

David O. Ives, President of the Boston Merchants' Associations Board of Trade and former Traffic Manager of the Wabash Railroad, appeared yesterday before Judge Holt in the United States Circuit Court and pleaded guilty to one count of an indictment charging him with rebating while an official of that railroad to the Holland-America Steamship Company. The specific amount was $600. He was fined $1,000, which was paid.

Last week Grip pleaded guilty to two counts of an indictment and was fined $4,000. Ives's case is the first of the railroad indictments to be disposed of.

Petition to Disfranchise Negroes.

GUTHRIE, Okla., March 29.—Gov. C. N. Haskell has signed a legislative resolution submitting to the voters of the State an "initiative" petition for a constitutional amendment which, it is said, will disfranchise many negroes, so far as voting on constitutional amendments is concerned.

Motor Coats for Women

In the creation of our assemblage of Spring Coats each point has received the critical study of experts. Perhaps you do not realize just what this means.

In our workrooms it means that months of thought and experiment are given to the designing of a single model—the comfort and convenience of our wind-shield vest, the coziness of the inner wrist shield and adjustable cuff, the combined easy fit and fashionable cut of our type of raglan sleeve, the generous sweep of the skirt.

These and other unusual features of the Saks Coats are not accidental happenings or afterthoughts; they are achievements made possible only by prolonged study and experiment.

The widely representative character of the assemblage presents unusual advantages for the selection of individual styles.

Cloth coats for present wear, buttoned high to the neck, with full sweep, single or double breasted. Of fancy or "mannish" mixtures, Scotch tweeds, or diagonals, in gray, green, tan or blue.

HUGHES DEMANDS THOROUGH INQUIRY

REMEDY IN THE PRIMARY LAW

We Cannot Leave with Those Who Make a Business of Politics the Choice of Candidates, He Says.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., March 29.—Gov. Hughes, who was the guest of honor at a dinner in Germania Hall here to-night given by the New Rochelle Forum, was asked before the dinner to comment on the turn the Allds case had taken. He refused to make any direct answer to the question, remarking that one could draw his own inferences about his opinions on that and other cases from the speech he was about to deliver.

In his speech the Governor attacked political corruption and the men who fatten on it. He said he liked to go about the State visiting cities and sections rich in historical associations which were also making the best of the present day. New Rochelle was such a place, he said. He then complimented Senator J. Mayhew Wainwright of Westchester County for his work as head of the commission to draft the Employers' Liability bill.

Gov. Hughes's Speech.

In his speech Gov. Hughes said:

"Political corruption is not partisan. It is the common enemy. The essential operations of government inevitably furnish opportunities for scoundrelism, and against this curse all parties and the people as a whole must continually wage an unrelenting war.

"These are wholesome days for the people of this State, full of opportunity and promise. It is not when the pestilence is known, the infected quarters ascertained, and every effort made to limit and eradicate, that we have reason to be alarmed, but rather when ignorance or indifference permit it to spread unchecked. We may be humiliated by disclosures, but these mark our safety as well as our danger, our progress and not our decline.

"I am a Republican, strongly attached to my party and earnest in the desire for Republican success. But I cherish a concern deeper and more vital than that. And that is a concern equally cherished by the great mass of the voters. I want to see the springs of government pure and its waters sweet to the taste. I want to see the illicit efforts of privilege frustrated, bribery and corrupt arrangements destroyed, and the market places, where governmental favor has been bought and sold, converted into true assemblies of honest representatives of the people. With that desire and purpose every honorable citizen is in accord, and it is only as a party shows, by virtue of its aims and its leadership, and of the dominating spirit of its organization, that it may be trusted as an effective agency of progress toward these ends, that it is worthy of confidence or can hope to receive a sufficient measure of support to assure its success.

"We should seek to the fullest extent possible the benefit of the purifying influence of publicity. This is not a time for concealment, for adroit finesse, for pleasant schemes to hoodwink the people. There must be straightforward dealing. Some object that it costs money to investigate. That is true, but it will cost more not to investigate. The political household needs disinfecting, and we shall save money by making the process a thorough one.

"Let there be the fullest inquiry by every competent means.

"It is needed to expose those who have been faithless to their trust.

"It is needed to put an end to corrupt alliances between business and politics.

"It is needed to protect honest business.

"It is just to the honorable men in the Legislature, who should not be the victims of an indiscriminate denunciation by reason of practices in which they have had no part.

"It is just to party organization that it may be saved from the corrupt uses which have brought it into contempt.

"It is needed to show how and wherein the people have been deceived, that they may protect themselves against deception in the future.

"Whatever may be the result of such an inquiry, it is clear now, as it has been for a long time, that we should make a change in our methods of nominating candidates for elective offices. The revelations of the past few weeks have supplied fresh evidence of the defects of the present system under which fraud and corruption have prospered.

Would End Professional Politicians.

"We cannot afford to leave with those who make a business of politics the choice of candidates for office. But this is the effect of our present delegate and convention system. If we would strip of their power those who seek opportunities for traffic in legislation, to impose their commands upon our departments of supervision, and to maintain an irresponsible domination over legislative committees and administrative heads, we must deprive them of their ability to dictate nominations, and we must make party candidates for office more directly responsible to the party voters. Under our present system public sentiment encounters too many obstacles. Here and there, as a result of much agitation, it may accomplish its purpose, but the odds are with those who, through quiet and effectively organized work, are constantly seeking, in the interest of their own power and profit to control government.

"I look for no panacea. I have no notion that we shall eliminate cupdity and self-interest from political life. But I am decidedly of the opinion that we can improve our present methods.

"There is nothing impracticable about such improvement. Our present system is not inspired and our experience with it lends it no sanctity. It is nothing but a miserable pretense, and everybody knows it. If the party voters are competent to select delegates at a party primary they are far more competent to say what candidates they want. Whenever at present there is an issue at the primary it is not about delegates save as these represent a candidate or a political leader. Why continue such a farcical system, so involuted as to give exceptional opportunities to those whose machinations we distrust and whose sinister designs constitute our chief peril?

Need of Curbing State Committee.

"Public opinion reaches the State committees with difficulty. Even dire party exigencies meet personal interests in competition. Given its full desire, it would not only name every candidate for office but would practically appoint every department head and require that every State officer should discharge his constitutional and statutory powers according to its direction. The great powers of the State Committee may be exercised, and at times have been exercised, by one man. At other times these powers may be wielded by triumvirs or decemvirs.

"Now, I am not discussing individuals or personalities, or simply one of the parties. I am speaking of a vicious system found in both the great parties, a system which it is in the interest of both parties and of the people as a whole to change.

"It is necessary that there should be a supreme party authority, that there should be a State Committee having charge of the party's State affairs.

"But there should be an end to the practice of State Committeemen virtually selecting delegates to State conventions, who in turn select the State Committeemen. I should like to see the members of the State Committee elected by the direct vote of the party voters in their respective districts. This would give a representative committee directly responsible to the sentiment of the party. It would invest its decisions and its advice with a representative character which they now lack.

Tropical Suitings

1st Fl., 35th St.

Tropical Suitings are the acme of excellence and elegance for many Spring and Summer Dress needs.

One of their strongest charms is a quiet simplicity that is much more effective than many other fabrics that are sustained by eccentricity of weave or novelty of color.

We believe that a glance at our display of Tropical Suitings will create the conviction that we have the largest stock in the city.

We've gleaned the best, the prettiest, from the leading makers of the world and every selection was controlled by taste and judgment.

Among the rarely good values on our counters to-day are

Tropical Suitings, 50 and 54 inches wide, six styles of black and colored hair-line stripes on cream grounds, $1.39.

Tropical Suitings, 58 inches wide, ten styles of hair-line stripes—black, brown, blue, violet-and-green, violet-and-black and peacock on cream grounds, $1.98.

Tropical Suitings, 58 inches wide, five styles of silk-mixed delicately-tinted hair-line stripes on soft, creamy wool grounds. An exquisite quality, $2.39.

Tropical Suitings, 58 inches wide, six styles of silk-and-wool hair-line stripes of the prettiest, mellowest colors on cream grounds, $2.97.

$2.50 Imported Checked Suitings, $1.98

Twenty-two Styles of Imported Checked Suiting, 54 inches wide, sold elsewhere at $2.50; our price $1.98. That's a keynote to the variety we show—and a sign-post that points to very uncommon economy.

Checks so small that they are scarcely checks at all; clearly defined checks; bigger checks—up to the bold ones that are formed by inch-wide bar stripes cutting one another at right angles.

$2.00 Imported Suitings at $1.79

Any dressgoodser—any woman—will find delight in just looking at this group. Loose-woven Homespuns, Basket Weaves, Cheviots, Hopsackings, Friezes and Melanges in colors that strike new and beautiful chords. We refrain from naming the tints because the only words that can remotely suggest them to your mind are hackneyed and the tints themselves are entirely new—soft, delicate hues inspired by the bloom of apricots, plums, peaches, Oriental melons and other Southern fruits—also black and navy. They are 54 inches wide, sold elsewhere at $2.00; our price $1.79.

SHACKLETON GIFTS FOR OUR MUSEUMS

MADE AN HONORARY MEMBER

Tributes and Experiences Exchanged by the Explorers of Two Polar Zones —First Lecture Last Night.

Sir Ernest H. Shackleton announced yesterday afternoon at a luncheon given to him by the Explorers' Club at the Hotel Astor, that he intended to send to some of the museums of this country small but representative scientific collections which he had made on his south polar expedition. He had brought back, he said, a large number of such specimens as rocks and birds' eggs, and he hoped to distribute some of these in forty or fifty pound lots among the leading museums of the world.

The first scientific reports of his expedition, the explorer also announced, will be published in a week, and copies will at once be sent to the Smithsonian and the Carnegie Institute.

The luncheon was an informal one, designed to give Sir Ernest an opportunity of meeting the men in this country who have worked on the same lines as he has. Commander Peary, President of the club, was in the chair, and hanging on the wall behind him between the Stars and Stripes and the blue ensign of the British Royal Naval Reserve, in which Shackleton is a Lieutenant, were the sledge and snowshoes used in the north pole expedition. Before the luncheon was served Commander Peary briefly introduced the British explorer.

"A Man of Our Own Class."

"We have the pleasure and honor," he said, "of welcoming here a man of our own class, the man who placed the British ensign practically within sight of the south pole. Sir Ernest he is called now, but you and I know he needs no title whatever, because in his own right he bears the imperial title of a man."

The formal letter conferring on Sir Ernest an honorary membership of the Explorers' Club was then read, and his health was drunk. The guests were photographed with the men who have been furthest north and south, standing side by side. Sir Ernest then replied:

"I thank the club and Commander Peary," he said, "for the great honor of being recognized as a member of this club. It is an honor, for it has been conferred by a group of thinking men. If I spoke for twenty-four hours I could not express what I feel at this moment.

"Commander Peary has said many very nice things about me and my success. But I do not like to speak of success, for no one knows better than I of the hundred and one little things that crop up and make all the difference between success and failure. Now that I am back in civilization I remember how near the expedition was to tragedy instead of success and how many times down there I thought it was all over."

He thanked the club again, declaring in doing so that Peary had accomplished what men had been striving to do for 500 years.

The explorer has acquired a reputation as a teller of good stories, and when the meal had been served Commander Peary called on him for a few. He demurred a little on the ground that he had never seen any city with so well-organized a press as New York, and then launched forth into an informal talk on incidents of his expedition.

Side Lights of South Polar Dash.

He told how, through catching sight through the glasses of the débris of a former camp in the distance on the ice, he had changed the course he was steering, and by doing so perhaps had saved the lives of his party. He spoke of the sharp ice which cut their feet, and the reproof he had received from some of his readers because in the published transcript of his diary he had forgotten to cut out just one of the swear words in the original. They wrote him indignant letters, he said, on the one blot of an otherwise faultless record, because on Page 324, Line 4, appears the statement:

"This surface is hell to our feet."

Referring to the geological results of the exploration, he stated that the lava thrown out by Mount Erebus was of a type only found in one volcano in Africa and another in Sweden, and that as it froze in the keen cold beautiful felspar crystals were deposited. Some of these will be included in the collections to be given to the American museums, and also some of the specimens collected in the dash to the south. He and his three companions brought back from that journey forty pounds of rocks, and the explorer spoke of the temptation they had to resist to abandon them when hunger and weakness were taxing them to the uttermost.

Then he paid this tribute to human nature:

"I saw more unselfish acts when we were face to face with real hunger than ever before. I had fourteen men on shore with me, picked from 400, so that I might easily have made mistakes, but not one of them went back on me. So I believe that when most men are face to face with real difficulties their good qualities will come out and they will behave as men."

Bartlett Is Remembered.

Sir Ernest expressed his pleasure at meeting Capt. Robert Bartlett, who headed the last party when Peary turned back from the north pole, and declared that he was as well known as any one in England. The Captain was called on for a speech, but only said a few words, and then William J. Peters of the Carnegie non-magnetic yacht spoke of some of the scientific discoveries it is hoped to make with her.

Among those present were Capt. Robert Bartlett, Collector William Loeb, Jr., Henry Collins Walsh, H. L. Bridgman, J. I. C. Clarke, Anthony Fiala, C. H. Townsend, John B. Stetson, Harry B. Kane, Louis Ogden, Henry K. Arctowski of the Belgian antarctic expedition, Prof. Herschel C. Parker, Prof. Marshall H. Saville, Prof. D. B. McMillan of the Peary expedition, Frederick A. Over, Ribley Hitchcock, John Jay White, and Prof. S. V. Giddings.

Miss Eleanor Shackleton, sister of Sir Ernest, has arrived from Winnipeg and is staying with him at the Hotel Manhattan. She has been a nurse in the Children's Hospital at Winnipeg, and is on her way to England. She had not seen her brother for four years.

SHACKLETON'S FIRST LECTURE.

He Tells of the Hardships He and His Party Underwent.

Carnegie Hall was filled last night on the occasion of Sir Ernest Shackleton's first lecture in this city under the auspices of the Civic Forum. Among those who had taken boxes were Mrs. Russell Sage, Miss Helen Gould, Miss Anne Morgan, Jacob H. Schiff, Major Gen. Leonard Wood, Mrs. Robert E. Peary, William Courtney Bennett, British Consul General, and Prof. John B. Clark.

Joseph H. Choate was the Chairman of the evening. With Sir Ernest sat Commander Robert E. Peary and Capt. Robert Bartlett. In introducing the British and American explorers Mr. Choate said:

"We are waiting patiently, no, impatiently, for Congress to put the seal of official approval on Commander Peary, and we hope they will be as generous as the British Government was in recognition of the other great explorer.

"Since we know that the Stars and Stripes are floating over the north pole, I want to see the Union Jack floating over the south pole, and so this little globe will at last be held in the firm and fraternal embrace of the two Anglo-Saxon races."

For an hour and a half Sir Ernest described the achievements of his expedition. He told how he had been forced to set out, through lack of funds, in a vessel 43 years old and of only 227 tons burden, and how when he discovered he must not load her below the legal depth under the Board of Trade regulations he changed her into a yacht, so that he might sail as low in the water as he liked without interference.

As he spoke of the hardships he and his comrades had endured he allowed his humor full play. Sir Philip Brocklebank lost a great toe in ascending Mount Erebus, but after all, Sir Ernest said, he has it still. He keeps it by him in a bottle.

When fighting their way homeward the explorer and his three companions on the southern dash were down to a few ounces of food a day. They talked and thought of nothing but means.

"Yet we were serious men, marching along in danger of our lives," he said. "We were greedily, fiercely hungry, and thought nothing of the mountains and the scenery around us."

BROKER'S ARREST AN ERROR.

Steamship Clerk Forgot to Whom He Gave $50 Too Much Change.

There was much excitement yesterday morning on the arrival of the steamship City of Columbus from Savannah when Robert McPherson, a Liberty Street cotton broker, who lives at 218 West 110th Street, was arrested as a fugitive from justice by Central Office Detective Rafter.

When arraigned in the Tombs Court Magistrate Kernochan dismissed the charge, with apologies on behalf of the company. It came out that the ticket agent at Savannah had paid $50 too much in change to a passenger and sent a wireless message to the boat asking the steward to collect it from a man named Thompson. A second message said that the man was McPherson. The Chief of Police of Savannah also telegraphed Inspector McCafferty asking for the arrest of the broker.

Both surmises as to who got the $50 were wrong, as a passenger named Jacoby, who received it, handed it to the chief steward. Passenger Traffic Manager J. C. Horton went to court and apologized to McPherson.

FOWLER DEFENDS HIS BILL.

Currency Plan Similar to That Introduced in the Last Congress.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Representative Charles N. Fowler of New Jersey, speaking in the House of Representatives to-day to his bill to establish a complete financial and banking system for the United States, declared that a third great trial in the courts of civilization impends, the trial being "the case of the Chairman of the National Monetary Commission, alias Aldrichism, alias the Special Interests, versus the People of the United States."

"Theodore Roosevelt," Representative Fowler concluded, "is the attorney of record for the People; and the People under his leadership will triumph most gloriously."

In championing his bill, which is a repetition of the Fowler bill introduced in the Sixtieth Congress before the appointment of the Monetary Commission, Mr. Fowler compared the pending crisis which he described to the "first great trial of civilization, British Tyranny versus the American Colonies," and the "second great trial, Slavery versus Liberty."

HELD FOR BRIBERY IN ELECTING SENATOR

L. C. Dulaney Out on $5,000 Bail in the Mississippi Scandal of Percy's Election.

ACCUSED BY STATE SENATOR

Bilbo Says Friend of Vardaman's Rival Gave Him $645 for a Vote—False, Says Percy.

JACKSON, Miss., March 29.—L. C. Dulaney was arrested to-day on an indictment charging bribery in the recent Senatorial election. He was released on $5,000 bail. He is accused of having paid $645 to State Senator T. G. Bilbo to support Leroy Percy in his recent successful fight against ex-Gov. Vardaman for the United States Senatorship.

Never in the history of this city has a political situation been so tense and acute. The principal hotel to-day was filled with excited men, and the police moved freely about the crowded lobby on the lookout for trouble.

It is known that Senator Bilbo was called before the Senate in legislative session late yesterday and pressed to tell all he knew regarding the alleged bribery. The Senate met again this morning behind closed doors.

Senator Bilbo to-day made the first public statement of the affair. He said he kept the Rev. S. B. Culpepper, President of Clark Memorial College, at Newton, Miss., in his (Bilbo's) room at a local hotel for four days in order that the minister might be on hand when the bribe was given. This first payment was made, however, in another room. The money was given in three installments, he said. He asserted that he called a caucus of Vardaman supporters and outlined to them his plan to expose the alleged bribe.

Senator Percy Denies It.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Senator Leroy Percy of Mississippi, replying to a charge that State Senator Bilbo had received a bribe from L. C. Dulaney, one of Percy's supporters in the recent Senatorial contest in which he defeated Gov. Vardaman, made the following statement to-day:

"I am absolutely without any knowledge or information on the subject, except such as is contained in press dispatches from Jackson. It seems an unnecessary statement for me to make, certainly entirely unnecessary so far as any one that knows me is concerned, that not a cent was ever used during the Senatorial fight in Jackson by me or with my procurement, consent, or knowledge to influence any member of the Legislature, nor have I the least idea that any such expenditure was ever made by any friend of mine.

"I have no knowledge as to who is authority for the statement that Dulaney paid money to Senator Bilbo, but I have no doubt whatever that the statement is without foundation and absolutely false.

"Bilbo was known as a bitter partisan of Gov. Vardaman and is supposed to have voted for him. It is not contended that the use of money influenced the result of the election, but the effort merely is to besmirch the election so as to discredit the result in the primary election fight for the full Senatorial term, which is to be held in the Summer of 1911, Gov. Vardaman now being engaged in stumping the State in the contest.

"If there was truth in the statement Bilbo should have made it to the Legislature prior to the election, when it would certainly have resulted in eliminating me from the contest."

COLUMBUS, Miss., March 29.—Former Gov. James K. Vardaman to-day refused to discuss the alleged bribery of Senator Bilbo, saying he knew nothing except what he had heard through rumors at Jackson.

WANT PAY, NOT CHEAP FOOD.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 29.—General Manager E. K. Stewart of the Columbus Railway and Light Company is having a hard time trying to convince the public here that he did not tell his workmen to "eat rice and beans and economize on your foodstuffs." The report was printed here this afternoon as one phase of the quarrel between the street railway company and the employes over salaries.

Five hundred of the conductors and motormen have requested an increase, and have said that unless it is given they will strike. It was said that General Manager Stewart talked to the men and told them that if their living was costing too much they should eat rice and beans.

Mr. Stewart says he never said anything of the kind. He says the traction company cannot increase the wages, because seven tickets are given the public for a quarter here, and the men must help the company in its fight to make expenses.

FRENCH ACCEPT AGREEMENT.

PARIS, March 29.—The bill approving the Franco-American tariff agreement was adopted unanimously by the Chamber of Deputies to-day, and later the Senate concurred. The sole objection to the measure in the Chamber was raised by M. Antoine Jourde, Radical-Socialist, on the ground that the United States could discontinue the minimum concession at any time upon three months' notice. Minister of Commerce Dupuy explained that both countries were on the same footing in this respect, the right to break the agreement after due notice being reciprocal.

"This accord ends the inquietude on both sides of the Atlantic," he added. "Neither France nor America can consider herself the victor or the victim in the agreement, which is most important both from a moral and a material standpoint."

Smith Gray & Co.
Foremost Clothiers Since 1845.

From the inception of the basic idea of producing ready-for-service clothes — many years since — the name of Smith Gray & Co. has been identified originally as the blazers of the trail, that has since developed into the third American industry, and since then as pioneers in practically every evolutionary step.

No one concern has been so closely identified with or as responsible for those radical departures from the beaten track, which have made for higher efficiency, greater values and the development of a higher standard.

In the early days of the industry all garments were sent out to tailors, to be made up in their homes. Smith Gray & Co. were the first to organize these home shops and direct the tailoring under their own personal supervision.

Smith Gray & Co. were the first to build their own tailor shops and tailor their own garments—and to-day Smith Gray & Co. are the only retail clothiers in New York who tailor their own garments under the same roof, where they are designed, cut and sold. This unification of the designing, cutting, tailoring and selling under one roof, under their own personal direction by Smith Gray & Co. producing for the first time in the history of the industry the ideal, unified condition, a Smith Gray & Co. progressive step, which in a way typifies the advancement which has always been and which you can safely expect in the future.

Smith Gray & Co. Spring Suits and Spring Coats range in price from $18 to $50, special attention being directed to many broken lots, reduced to $18—silk lined to edge, black and Oxford, vicuna, finished fabric coats, at $20, and many very exceptional garments at $27.50.

Birds of a Feather

It is not the policy of THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL to allude to its contemporaries. Nevertheless, we feel it proper to point out occasionally that THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL has been and is the leader, the creative force in journalism for women. The advances in magazine quality and the progress in helpfulness were conceived in THE JOURNAL offices.

Those who follow know what the leader has done and is doing, but they do not know what he is going to do next. In short, the force that makes a leader maintains a leader.

We have emphasized to our advertisers the importance of being in front—of doing a thing first. Advertisers with this ambition will do well to consider the advantage of having their advertising associated with the magazine which is first in circulation, first in initiative and first in influence.

The circulation of THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL is more than 1,300,000 copies each month. The same forces which have created THE JOURNAL'S unique circulation have, at the same time, made it an advertising medium of unique power.

Better stick to this policy.

Has been frankly admitted.

Big claim—and true in large measure as covering women's publications, except for fashions—in which field they are novices.

We hazard a guess—there is a lively interest in Philadelphia as to what we are going to do next.

Unless a bigger force comes along.

In our "Trio" we are printing over 1,300,000 copies ourselves—and our average rate is lower

This answer of ours is not meant to be smart—but fair. We believe in strong competition. We do not believe in "knocking" a competitor.

STEWART'S GRILLING TERRIFIES GRAFTERS

KLEIN KEEPS OUT OF JAIL

Refuses to Obey Commitment and Somehow Wins Point—Bankers' Testimony Not Disclosed.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, March 29.—Prominent bank officials, clerks, stenographers, and a girl telephone operator made up the bulk of those whom the Grand Jury examined to-day in the course of the Councilmanic graft investigation. Before them, too, the Grand Jurors had Councilman Charles Stewart, and unrighteous Pittsburg shivered when the "whip" of Councils, who frequently has carried about as much as $40,000 bribe money, passed through the Grand Jury room door.

Stewart, who is known to hold big secrets of Councilmanic bribery, was white and nervous, as his demand of full immunity in case he talked had been refused by District Attorney Blakeley. Certain well-known business men whose connection with the graft has been suspected, but not yet made clear, and who have been hanging about the Court House nervously, turned pale also when they saw Stewart once more disappear behind the doors of the Grand Jury room.

It was almost two hours before Stewart came out of the room, and then he looked ten years older than when he went in. IHs face was bloodless, and he reeled as he walked, being supported out of the Court House on the arm of a friend. It is whispered that Stewart, with the threat of a twenty-year sentence hanging over him, broke down inside the Grand Jury room and told the real name of the Pittsburg man who handed him the roll of bribe money at the Hotel Imperial, New York.

In his previous meeting with the Grand Jury he had said that the late James W. Friend, steel car king and high in the Farmers' Deposit National Bank of Pittsburg, had handed him the money, but he was told plainly at that time that his story was not believed, and that he must tell the whole truth.

Then it was that Stewart is alleged to have offered to tell the whole truth if complete immunity from arrest and imprisonment were promised to him. This the District Attorney could not do, but it is now assured that the District Attorney has promised Stewart that he will not get longer than three and a half years.

The one humorous twist to an otherwise nerve-racking day came this evening, when John Klein refused point blank to go to Riverside Penitentiary to begin his sentence of three and a half years. On request of District Attorney Blakeley, the commitment for Klein was made ready and he was ordered to start for Riverside within an hour's time, but Klein declined to consider any such proposition. And, what is more, he did not go.

Klein made a scene about the Court House late this afternoon, saying he had been double-crossed by those who had promised to help him if he "squawked" on other Councilmen, and that he would not obey the order of commitment. Those who heard the small ex-Councilman rave thought it a joke, and, until after dinner to-night, supposed Klein to be well inside prison walls. However, the announcement came out that the commitment had been held up for a time, and that it was not likely that Klein would be sent to prison until after the Grand Jury had completed its work. Just what Klein said or did to those higher up that they should keep him out of prison longer is not known.

Among those examined by the Grand Jury to-day was M. B. Slater, General Agent of the Adams Express Company at Pittsburg. He was asked for records showing money shipped from Pittsburg to New York to be distributed.

Alice Mansfield, private telephone operator in the Workingman's Savings and Trust Company of Allegheny, also was examined at length as to telephone conversations carried on between officers inside the bank and persons on the outside. The Workingman's Savings and Trust Company high officers were grilled at length. Attorney Willis McCook, a Director of the Equitable Life Insurance Company, was before the jury for some time. Mr. McCook, who is a Director in the Workingman's, evidently was much perturbed as he paced the halls before being called into the Grand Jury room, and it came out that he had been unable to get to the Grand Jury yesterday afternoon though he had been in the waiting room many hours. McCook was still more white when he emerged from the room.

President Emil Winter of the Workingman's Savings and Trust Company was before the jury for a long time, as were other Directors of the institution. A. W. Mellon, Pittsburg's richest man, member of the Directorate, is in Europe.

The unusual bail of $20,000 was demanded to-day by the court for Councilman Hugh Ferguson, who has been indicted by the Grand Jury. Ferguson is said to have been one of the most active of grafters.

A mass meeting in Exposition Hall has been arranged for next Friday night to protest against graft in the Councils and to indorse the work of the investigators. Ministers are urging their congregations to attend.

A report has gained credence that the Federal Government is taking a hand in the investigations. Two special agents from the Department of Justice have been in the city the last week, and it is rumored their reports contain startling facts as yet untold.

CLYDE NOTMAN DIVORCED.

Final Decree Granted to Mrs. Josephine K. Notman at White Plains.

WHITE PLAINS, March 29.—Justice Arthur S. Tompkins of the Supreme Court has granted a final judgment of divorce to Mrs. Josephine R. Notman against Clyde Notman, son of the lawyer. The papers were filed in the Westchester County Clerk's office here to-day.

Testimony in the case was heard by Referee George A. Wyre of Nyack, and on his report an interlocutory judgment was entered on Dec. 18 last. On the signing of the final judgment, J. Cotter Connell appeared before Judge Tompkins for the plaintiff and W. H. Ford, representing Joline, Larkin & Rathbone, represented the defendant.

The couple have been prominent in New York society. Mrs. Notman, who is allowed by Judge Tompkins's order to resume her maiden name, is the daughter of Henry T. Richardson. In the testimony taken before the referee the name of the co-respondent was not mentioned. She was described as a blonde about 19 years old, and on the evidence of two detectives the judgment was granted.

Mr. and Mrs. Notman were married on June 1, 1897, at Holy Trinity Church, Brooklyn, and the alleged indiscretion took place at the Braddock Hotel, Eighth Avenue and 126th Street, Manhattan, on June 29, 1909. When Mrs. Notman was in Lucerne, she testified that the first intimation she had of her husband's unfaithfulness was on July 3, when she received a cable message from her father. Martin V. Hofman of 217 West Forty-second Street, Manhattan, testified that on June 29, in that year, he saw Mr. Notman in Pabst's in 125th Street, Manhattan, with a blonde girl, and followed them.

Free Masterman of Auto Charge.

The case against Jaes S. Masterman, manager of the printing department of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, whose automobile ran over Helen Mandel in Third Avenue, near Seventy-ninth Street, South Brooklyn, Friday evening, March 11, was dismissed in the Fifth Avenue Court yesterday. The child had no bones broken, and while she sustained quite a severe shock and numerous scratches, she has recovered so rapidly under the care of Drs. Ferris and Gould in the Norwegian Hospital that she is entirely out of danger.

"LABOR MARTYR" IS HONORED

Striking Steamfitters, with Band, Attend Funeral of Slain Man.

More than 2,700 striking steamfitters and their helpers, led by a brass band, yesterday marched in the funeral procession of William T. McLoughlin, a striking steamfitter, who was killed Wednesday at the Grand Central Station while doing picket duty. Before the funeral the strikers met at Arlington Hall, 23 St. Mark's Place, where a special meeting of the Enterprise Association of Steamfitters was held, and $1,000 and a weekly allowance of $25 voted to the widow, who has two little children. Then the helpers formed in line behind the steamfitters and marched to the McLoughlin house, 343 West Forty-eighth Street.

After a brief funeral service at the house the steamfitters followed the hearse east on Forty-eighth Street to First Avenue and north to the Queensboro Bridge. The band played funeral marches all the way across the bridge to the Long Island City plaza, where the parade disbanded, though more than one thousand members of the association continued to Calvary Cemetery.

At the cemetery speeches were made by Edward H. Meade, Chairman of the Strike Committee, and other prominent members of the union. At the conclusion of the eulogies, which extolled McLoughlin as a martyr to labor, the contents of four open coaches filled with flowers were piled on the grave.

William Martin of 249 West 114th Street is under arrest charged with the murder of McLoughlin. He claims he shot in self-defense when he and Henry Brownlow, both of whom live at 204 East Sixtieth Street, were attacked.

Before he died McLoughlin told the Coroner he was on peaceful picket duty when Martin, who was a foreman employed in the Grand Central Station, ordered him away. When he attempted to argue with Martin, he said, the foreman shot him. McLoughlin was able to walk away from the scene of the shooting and lived several hours.

LABOR CASE TO MARSHALL.

Indiana Governor to Hear Grievances of the Steel Workers.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—A committee representing the American Federation of Labor will call upon Gov. Marshall of Indiana to-morrow to present to him the alleged grievances of labor against the United States Steel Corporation. President Gompers has left Washington for Indianapolis, where he will be met by a number of labor leaders of that city and with them will compose the committee which will wait upon the Governor.

This action was taken in accordance with the recommendation of a meeting of the executive officers of nearly fifty trade unions affiliated with the Federation held at Pittsburg last December. The matter has already been presented to the President.

The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor adjourned to-day.

Northern and Pacific Railroad Mechanics Demand Wage Increases.

WINNIPEG, March 29.—A strike of the Federal mechanical trades on the Canadian Northern Railroad and the Canadian Pacific Railroad in the coming Summer is a probability. The men have submitted a demand for an increase of 2½ cents an hour all around.

Canadian Pacific Railroad mechanics have decided unanimously to stand firm for the schedule. The Canadian Northern Railroad men meet to-night.

BRYAN HERE APRIL 5.

So He Writes to Harry Walker—Wife Precedes Him.

William J. Bryan will arrive in New York on April 5, it was learned yesterday. He has been out of the country for several months, spending the greater part of the time in South America.

A letter was received from him yesterday by Harry W. Walker, Secretary of the old Aqueduct Commission, in which he stated that he was about to leave Buenos Ayres to return to America by way of England.

Mr. Walker said that he would immediately set about making preparations among the Bryan men of the city for a suitable reception.

Mrs. Bryan, who was on the passenger list as Mrs. M. B. Bryan, arrived here yesterday on the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm II. on her return from the tour with her husband through South America. She was accompanied by her daughter Grace.

Mrs. Bryan said it was not quite certain when her husband would return. Mrs. Bryan wished to pay a brief visit to Europe and went from Rio Janeiro to Southampton by one of the Royal Mail liners. She said that Mr. Bryan intended to return to New York direct.

STEEL COMPANY INDICTED.

Bethlehem Co. Charged with Soliciting and Accepting Railroad Concessions.

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—The Federal Grand Jury has returned true bills of indictment against the Bethlehem Steel Company, charging it with soliciting and accepting concessions from the Lehigh Valley and the Philadelphia & Reading Railroads. The concessions complained of are the cancellation by the railroad companies of demurrage charges.

About two weeks ago the railroad companies were indicted for remitting the demurrage charges.

COAL MEN TO STRIKE UNLESS WAGES RISE

EXPECT SHORT SUSPENSIONS

New Explosive Laws and Pay of Shot-Firers Complicate Pennsylvania and Illinois Situations.

CINCINNATI, March 29.—Only immediate increases in wages will prevent numerous and widespread strikes in the bituminous coal mines of the country, according to the action taken by the special convention of the United Mine Workers of North America late to-day following final disagreement and dissolution of the joint conference of the central competitive field. The terms proposed by the miners for the continuation of work after the expiration of the present agreements on midnight Thursday admit of no compromise so far as wages are concerned. On most other questions, however, there is room for agreement, and the general opinion among men and employers to-night was that in only a few fields will long suspension result.

The most threatening aspect overshadows the Pennsylvania and the Illinois fields. In Pennsylvania there can be no new contract without a settlement of the controversy over the new explosive laws of that State, and in Illinois the old problem of payment for the services of shot firers looms up as a possible barrier to peaceful settlement. Both questions were brought up on the floor of the convention, but whereas a positive declaration was adopted on the former, the Illinois miners were not allowed to put the convention on record as supporting or rejecting the justice of their grievances.

The miners' demands are that all operators agree to pay the increased wages of 5 cents a ton on pick mines screen coal, with proportionate advances for other methods of mining and outside labor, as a prerequisite to further negotiations on other questions. With the advance in pay assured, work may be continued in the mines affected pending a solution of the minor points provided the National Executive Board of the union approves action to this effect by the district officers. The National Board is made the final power so far as the union is concerned, but it is forbidden expressly to modify the wage demands.

It was announced by President T. L. Lewis that the proposition adopted by the convention is not to be construed as affecting contracts which do not expire until after April 1. The announcement precludes immediate trouble in Montana, Wyoming, and Washington.

Most of the operators who have been taking part in the three weeks of negotiation left when the joint conference broke up. Except the Pennsylvania men, however, those that remained to-night expressed general satisfaction with the outlook.

"The miners have adopted practically the original proposition of the operators," said H. L. Chapman of Columbus. "The operators are satisfied to a man, and if there is a district that will not come to an agreement we do not know it."

While almost all of the Indiana operators have left for their homes, it is known that they are not dissatisfied with the final turn of events.

The International Executive Board of the Mine Workers is to take up its burdens without delay. At the close of the convention President Lewis announced that that body would meet in Indianapolis to-morrow morning. The union delegates began leaving for their homes to-night, and the chief officials will depart for Indianapolis early to-morrow.

Late to-night President Lewis issued a signed statement reviewing the outlook and predicting peace except in a few instances. He said in part:

"The failure to reach an agreement in the tri-State joint convention will have no serious effect on the mining industry of the country. There may be temporary suspensions in some of the districts until we are able to reach the operators and explain the situation.

"The larger part of the tonnage represented by the Ohio operators will be signed up within a week. The situation in Illinois and Western Pennsylvania may be somewhat complicated for a couple of weeks or a little longer, but I am satisfied hat everything will be straightened out without any very serious trouble.

"Stock gamblers in coal will be the most disappointed of all the men who tried to bring about a strike affecting the entire country. I hope that they will be required to pay the penalty of their own folly."

PITTSBURG, Penn., March 29.—The industrial interests here expect a coal strike; at least, their anticipation of trouble has resulted, it was learned to-night, in the storage of enough extra coal to withstand at least a month's shutdown of the mines. In addition 8,000 extra cars, heaped with coal, have been stored on sidings for emergency use, and since the clouds have arisen in the negotiations at Cincinnati the river men have stopped shipping coal, with a view to providing for local consumption.

The most definite development in the coal situation to-day was an increase, made voluntarily, by the Berwind-White Coal Company, announced at Johnstown, to its 11,000 non-union employes.

GUSTAV MAHLER TO REST ABROAD

FOR MUSIC OF ALL NATIONS

Will Divide His Programmes Between Classic and Modern Schools—Too Tired to Conduct at Mannheim.

Gustav Mahler conducts three more concerts in the series of the Philharmonic Society this week, and then, having concluded his first season as the conductor of that organization, he will leave for Europe, where he hopes to get some rest before returning to wave his baton over the Philharmonic Society for another season.

"I am much pleased with the results of my work here," he said. "Things have been as satisfactory as could have been expected. The orchestra has improved from concert to concert, and the attitude of the New York public is always serious and attentive.

"I have made no plans as yet for my concerts for next season, nor can I until I have been abroad and looked over some of the new scores. It is not likely, however, that there will be anything next season to correspond to the Historical and Beethoven cycles of this season. I shall divide the programmes more or less evenly between the classic and the modern schools, and I shall play good music of all nations. I believe a conductor should have no preferences. He should play all music that is good.

"Unfortunately, so many of the modern composers have turned their attention so exclusively to opera that the conductor of a symphony orchestra has a difficult time in finding new works.

"This is especially true of Italy. However, Busoni is an Italian composer, who has done some extremely good symphonic work. But for important novelties one must turn almost exclusively to France and Germany, with occasional aid from Russia, Finland, and Bohemia. Debussy has just written something which I may produce next season, and Paul Dukas has almost completed a symphony, which he has promised to let me have as soon as it is done.

"Strauss has told me that henceforth he will write only operas. He says that he is done with symphonic works. He may change his mind, but he probably will not do so at once because he is at present immersed in the score of his new comic opera.

"When I leave here I had planned to go directly to Paris, where Edouard Colonne asked me to conduct one of my symphonies at his last concert on April 1. But poor Colonne died yesterday, and that may change the plans of the organization. I have already cabled the authorities of the festival at Mannheim that I am too tired to conduct there. There was to have been a season of my works, a performance of 'Die Meistersinger' and some other things, but I have had a very hard Winter, and a week of hard conducting in May would be too much for me now. I want rest.

"I shall probably not conduct next year at the Metropolitan Opera House. I promised to conduct a few performances this year, and so I did, 'Pique Dame,' but there are enough other conductors there now. They do not need me any more.

"'Pique Dame' has not made all the success with the public which I hoped it would. The subject is gloomy, but the music is very beautiful and very moving. It is a greater work undoubtedly than Tschaikowsky's 'Eugene Onegin,' which, however, has everywhere attained more popularity with the public."

"Do you prefer to conduct operas or symphony orchestras?" Mr. Mahler was asked.

"I have no preference. I like to go from one to the other. It is a change."

"Will you write an opera?"

"No, never. I have been in the theatre all my life and have come too close to the operas of other men ever to care to write one. When I compose I shall devote myself to symphonic works. But I shall not play too many of my compositions here myself. That might be misunderstood. I prefer to bring out the newer works of other composers."

"Dawn of a To-morrow" Actors to Sail.

Several members of "The Dawn of a To-morrow" Company will sail for London on the Lusitania to-day, to resume their original parts in Liebler & Co.'s London production of the play. Hugh Ford, Liebler's general stage director, will be in charge of the party, which will consist of Ada Dwyer, Ernest C. Joy, and Roy Fairchild. The other members of the company to support Gertrude Elliott will be engaged in London.

ALEXANDER SEBALD'S RECITAL

A Hungarian Violinist Undertakes to Play Paganini's Twenty-four Caprices.

Alexander Sebald, a Hungarian violinist, gave a recital in Mendelssohn Hall in which he undertook the feat of playing all of Paganini's twenty-four caprices for the violin unaccompanied. It was announced with all the emphasis of black type on pink handbills that these precious compositions were played last evening for the first time in America. It may be deemed fortunate that to no other violinist has such a tasteless and inartistic idea occurred.

The pieces were devised by Paganini with the obvious intention of exploiting his own extraordinary technique upon his instrument. For this purpose they may be considered highly successful, for they are full of the most bewildering difficulties. But their musical value is small; in the case of many of them, nil. It is true that they have in one way or another interested musicians more serious than Paganini. Thus, Robert Schumann made transcriptions of them for the piano—but it must be remembered that he did it as a very young man, and that his purpose was to produce instructive études for the use of piano students. Among these arrangements there are very few or none that have commended themselves to pianists as having a really musical value such as belongs to the greater kind of études for their instrument.

Mr. Sebald did not succeed in making these pieces interesting. They would have been more so had he played them in tune; but he grappled with their difficulties with a reckless disregard for true intonation; likewise with a gloomy, dark, and hollow tone. He has some qualifications, however, as a player, and he may be able to make these count for more when he undertakes to play real music, which he intends to do in a second recital.

MORTON ADKINS'S RECITAL.

A Baritone Singer with a Good Voice and Serious Ideas.

A song recital was given yesterday afternoon in Mendelssohn Hall by Mr. Morton Adkins, a baritone singer new to this city, although he had sung a few evenings before at a concert of the American Music Society. Mr. Adkins's coming was not trumpeted, and his modesty as an artist was suggested by his announcements. His programme suggested that he takes his task very seriously and has a praiseworthy ambition to present many styles of song, both the old and the new, and among the new, productions of American composers.

Mr. Adkins has a voice of unusual beauty, of quality, and flexibility, and of considerable resonance and power, which he uses in excellent and artistic style, and with freedom and spontaneity of utterance. It is gratifying to observe in a young singer such as he is so much care as he displays to preserve the beauty of tone in all that he attempts to express; for some seem to have come to the conclusion that this beauty may indifferently be sacrificed to expression upon every occasion. Mr. Adkins's style as a singer is not notable for ardor or passion, tenderness or poetry, authough he clearly feels these qualities in the music he sings. He is young, and it is very likely that with riper experience he will gain more potent utterance for them and will lose some of the dryness that to some degree limits him now.

He sang Italian songs by Secchi and Legrenzi, German by Schumann and Schubert, French by Debussy and Tremisot, some modern German, and a large number by American composers.

LAST OF PEARY'S DOGS DEAD.

Animal That Carried Explorer to the Pole Expires on Flag Island.

PORTLAND, Me., March 29.—One of the most distinguished of dogs died to-day on Flag Island, in Casco Bay, near Commander Robert E. Peary's Summer home on Eagle Island. The canine was the last survivor of the animals that Peary selected to take him on the final successful dash to the pole. The dog was also with Peary when the explorer reached "furthest north" three years ago.

So attached did the Commander become to the faithful dog that he brought him back to his Casco Bay home to sport with other Eskimo dogs that were survivors of previous trips. The animal had been placed on exhibition at the dog shows at Boston and Portland.

"Molly May" Coming to the Hackett.

John Mason's season at the Hackett Theatre in "A Son of the People" will end Saturday night, when he will start on tour. The next attraction at the Hackett will be Grace La Rue, under the direction of her husband, Byron Chandler, in a musical piece called "Molly May," opening on April 7. "Molly May" is by Julian Edwards and Walter Browne, and the company supporting Miss La Rue includes James E. Sullivan, Kate Rolla, Eva Fallon, and Sydney Grant.

FROHMAN KEEN FOR EAST SIDE THEATRE

REPLIES TO W. B. O. FIELD

Approaches Founders on Equal Ground as He Would Give Up $100,000 a Year for Worthy Project.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 29.—Charles Frohman is keenly interested in the interviews with various Directors of The New Theatre published in THE NEW YORK TIMES of March 20, just arrived, relative to his east side theatre proposal. He was much gratified at Otto Kahn's promise to take up the matter at the next meeting of the Directors, and equally incensed at the view taken by William B. Osgood Field that because he mooted the project through a newspaper therefore he must be suspected of self-advertising motives.

"To my mind," said he, "the columns of a newspaper afforded the best medium of laying my proposal before the gentlemen to whom I wished to submit it. It is not a private business matter. It has characteristics which make it of public interest. One might as well object that nothing should be done for the victims of the Messina earthquake or the sufferers from the Paris floods because the news of those disasters was first published in the press. Why condemn a proposal as unworthy because it is made through the colmns of a paper like THE NEW YORK TIMES?

"I don't know personally the Directors of The New Theatre. I approach them on equal ground. I am not appearing before them as a supplicant. I shall be giving, to say the least, quite as much as they would be giving to further an object which I believe they have at heart—the extension of good influences which the theatre possesses among classes of population who at present are largely debarred from them.

"My proposal is before the Directors of The New Theatre. It is for them to determine whether or not they desire to take it up. But why one of them should condemn the scheme because it was laid before them through a newspaper, whch in my opinion was the best medium by which I could approach them, is more than I can understand."

Whether or not anything comes of the matter, there can be no question that Mr. Frohman is very much in earnest. He had given deep and long consideration to the idea before it was made public in THE NEW YORK TIMES dispatch, for, as he says, "one doesn't offer to relinquish $100,000 a year for any object without thinking it over a bit. That in round figures is what the project would entail upon me and my stars. We should be giving up $100,000 per annum which otherwise we could earn elsewhere."

Quinlan Takes Wolfsohn Music Bureau

The Quinlan International Musical Agency of London and Australia has taken over the Henry Wolfsohn Bureau of New York, formed twenty-seven years ago. The Wolfsohn Bureau has directed the tours of Mme. Schumann-Heink, Fritz Kreisler, Josef Hofmann, Richard Strauss, Mischa Elman, Rachmaninoff, and many others. The new combination will be extended to Australia so that artists can be offered continuous engagements in the three countries. Mr. Quinlan has been the business manager of the Beecham season of opera at Covent Garden, recently concluded, during which "Elektra" had its first hearing in England, and he also managed Mr. Caruso's English concert tour last Fall. A. F. Adams, formerly of the John Church Company, will have charge of the affairs of the company in America, with which Richard Copley and Mrs. Wolfsohn will be identified as heretofore.

MAUDE ADAMS IN CHANTECLER

Frohman Engages Louis N. Parker to Adapt the Play for Her.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 29.—Charles Frohman has arranged with Louis N. Parker to adapt "Chantecler," in which Maude Adams will play the chief rôle, for the American stage.

It was Mr. Parker who adapted "L'Aiglon" for Miss Adams.

"PAID IN FULL" SUIT SETTLED.

Miss Gerald, Who Sought Injunction, Paid for Her Rights.

A suit, brought in the United States Court by Florence Gerald, an actress and playwright, against Eugene Walter, playwright, over the rights to the play "Paid in Full" was settled out of court last week. For a consideration Miss Gerald assigned her rights in a one-act piece, "An Idol of Clay," which she claimed to have been the basis of "Paid in Full," to Euegen Walter and Wagenhals & Kemper, the managers who produced Mr. Walter's play. Miss Gerald refused to tell how much she received for her rights, but said the amount was several thousand dollars, and that Wagenhals & Kemper agreed to pay one-half of the total amount and Mr. Walter the other half.

The case has been pending since July, 1908, when Miss Gerald brought suit through her attorneys, Dittenhofer, Gerber & James, asking for an injunction restraining Wagenhals & Kemper and Eugene Walter from further presentations of "Paid in Full." This was shortly after the play was produced at the Astor Theatre. Hearings as to Miss Gerald's rights to the piece were held early last year and continued until a few weeks ago. The compromise was affected on March 21.

WM. A. BRADY GETS "BALKAN PRINCESS"

Snatches London's Biggest Musical Success from Under Eyes of American Competitors.

CURZON RETURNS FAVORS

English Producer Gives Brady Comedy That Promises to be as Profitable as "The Merry Widow."

William A. Brady has got the better of his more experienced rivals in the field of European successful plays, and practically has snatched the American rights to London's biggest musical success from under the eyes of his competitors. The play is "The Balkan Princess," produced by Frank Curzon in London at the Prince of Wales Theatre. To judge by newspaper reviews of the piece, it is already promising to be as big a success in London as "The Merry Widow" and "The Dollar Princess." The book is by Frederick Lonsdale and the music by Paul A. Rubens and Arthur Wimperis.

"The whole gang is after the piece," said Mr. Brady yesterday, meaning the producers of musical comedy in America, "and they don't know I already have it. But I've got the contracts, signed, sealed, and delivered. There was a report from London, published last Sunday, that Ziegfeld had obtained the American rights, for which Savage and Frohman and the rest had been fighting, but that report was wrong. I already had my contracts then.

"There is no question about the hit the piece has made in London. I have had special cable reports from a dozen different people whom I asked to look at it for me, and when the American tourists begin to go to London this Spring you'll hear a lot about the piece. I happened to get it through my personal friendship with Mr. Curzon, for whom I have been able to do a lot of favors on various occasions. He promised to save something good for me some time, and 'The Balkan Princess' happened to be thing. Curzon promised not to make any announcement until after I had spoken on this side."

MISS MORGAN IN CHICAGO.

Visits Labor Headquarters, Hull House, and University Settlement.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 29.—Miss Anne Tracy Morgan, daughter of J. Pierpont Morgan, spent six busy hours in Chicago to-day. Arriving at the Congress Hotel at 1 o'clock, she set out an hour later in an automobile for a tour of three small parks and visits to the Federation of Labor headquarters, Hull House, and the University of Chicago Settlement.

At Labor Headquarters she shook hands and talked with laborers and working gorls. President John Fitzpatrick and Secretary Edward N. Nockels, of the Chicago Federation of Labor escorted her through the offices an dtold her they represented the largest central labor body in the world. They showed her the headquarters of the Woman's Trade Union League with its large library of books on economic and sociological subjects, in which she expressed much interest and pleasure.

From the labor headquarters Miss Morgan visited Hull House. In preparation for this visit she said she had read through a book by Miss Jane Addams on the train coming to Chicago. She saw every part of the settlement, and expressed a regret that she could not live there for some time, as she realized that in no other way could she come to know the "wonderful institution."

"I believe Miss Morgan is a straightforward woman who really wants to help in the great work in which we are engaged," said Miss Mary McDowell, head of the University of Chicago Settlement. "It is a vast field, and she is not certain just how she can do the most good, so she is making a personal investigation of what others are doing and of the success they are having. She was certainly in a sociological mood to-day, and at all times eager to get at realities."

Miss Morgan was accompanied by Raymond Whitcomb, her mother, who was ill and did not leave the hotel; Miss Mary Rhett, a personal friend; a maid, and a secretary.

What Doctors Say About
ALCOHOLISM

Continual and abnormal indulgence in whisky, beer or wine eats away the stomach lining and creates a morbid craving for a stimulant. No amount of "will power" can restore the tissues burned and seared by alcohol.

Practically all physicians advise medical treatment in cases of chronic Intemperance. Hospitals and sanitariums all over the land treat patients for the disease of Drunkenness, many of them using the Oppenheimer Treatment, recognized as the best and most effective Treatment for Alcoholism.

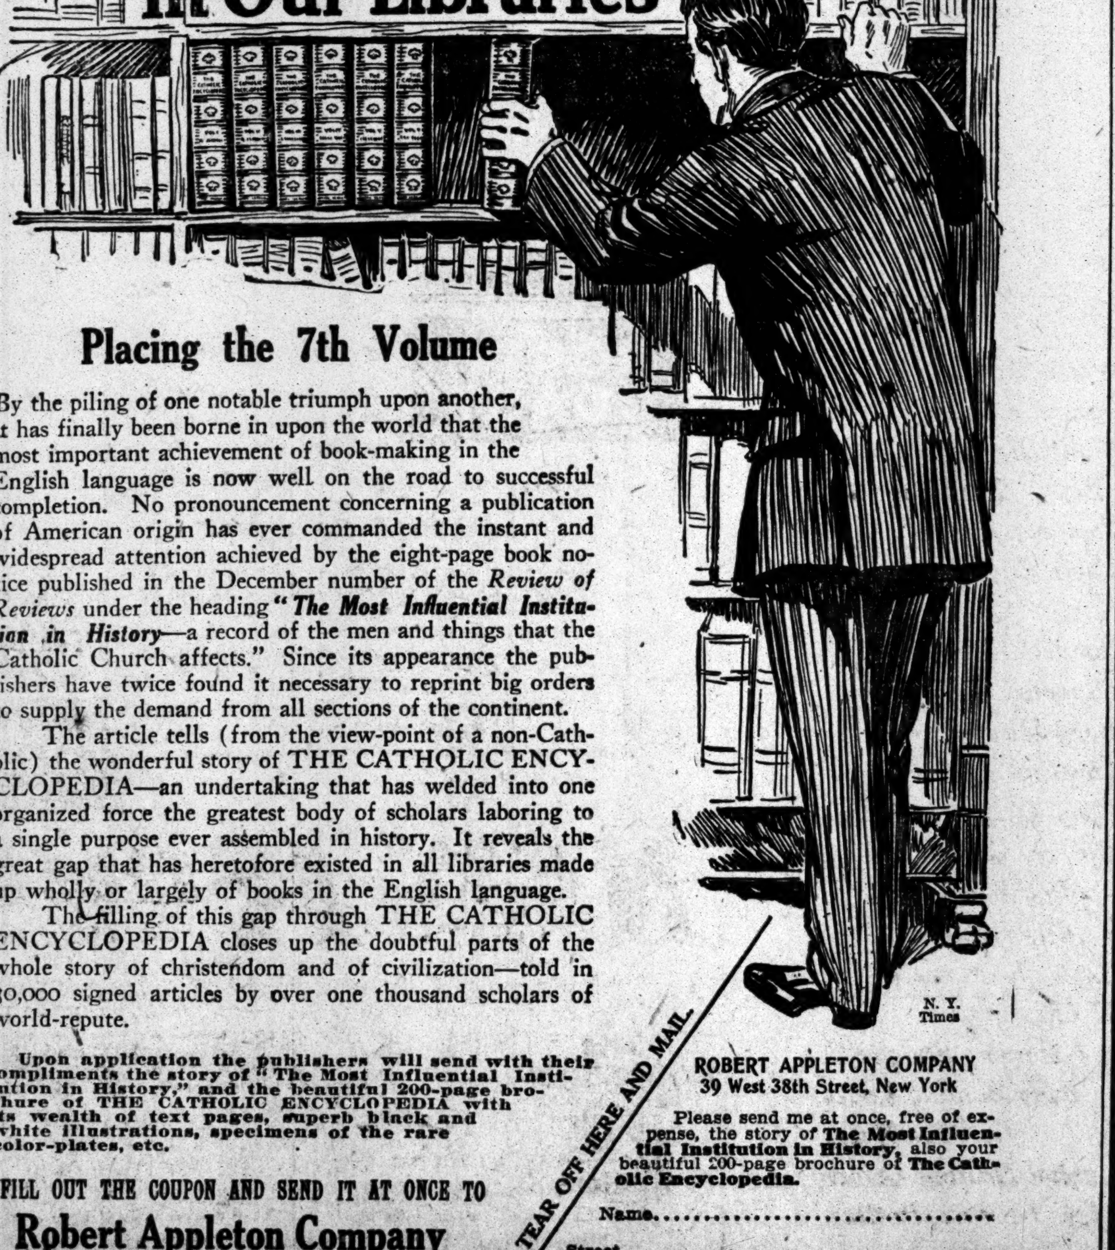
Filling the Great Vacant Space in Our Libraries



Placing the 7th Volume

By the piling of one notable triumph upon another, it has finally been borne in upon the world that the most important achievement of book-making in the English language is now well on the road to successful completion. No pronouncement concerning a publication of American origin has ever commanded the instant and widespread attention achieved by the eight-page book notice published in the December number of the Review of Reviews under the heading "The Most Influential Institution in History—a record of the men and things that the Catholic Church affects." Since its appearance the publishers have twice found it necessary to reprint big orders to supply the demand from all sections of the continent.

The article tells (from the view-point of a non-Catholic) the wonderful story of THE CATHOLIC ENCYCLOPEDIA—an undertaking that has welded into one organized force the greatest body of scholars laboring to a single purpose ever assembled in history. It reveals the great gap that has heretofore existed in all libraries made up wholly or largely of books in the English language.

The filling of this gap through THE CATHOLIC ENCYCLOPEDIA closes up the doubtful parts of the whole story of christendom and of civilization—told in 30,000 signed articles by over one thousand scholars of world-repute.

HAWLEY'S VERSION OF SALE TO HARRIMAN

NEVER HEARD OF IT BEFORE

Edwin Hawley, who, since the death of Edward H. Harriman, has been referred to as the new master of the railroad world, appeared yesterday as a witness in the Government's suit which is seeking to dissolve the so-called Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger. His knowledge of details concerning the acquisition of the Southern Pacific by Mr. Harriman was somewhat at variance with the testimony of Otto H. Kahn, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who asserted a few weeks ago that George J. Gould was after the control of the Southern Pacific about the time that Mr. Hawley sold out his own holdings and those of the Collis P. Huntington estate to Mr. Harriman. Mr. Kahn also testified on that occasion that Mr. Harriman, long before the Union Pacific obtained control of the Southern Pacific by purchasing Mr. Hawley's stock and that of the Huntington estate, had tried hard to buy the Central Pacific from Mr. Huntington, wishing to divorce it from the Southern Pacific, but that the negotiations failed.

Mr. Hawley said yesterday on the witness stand that he was more closely associated with Mr. Huntington in a business way than perhaps any other man, and was frequently with Mr. Harriman during the days immediately preceding the Harriman purchase, and he never knew of Mr. Harriman's efforts to get the Central Pacific. He said, too, that he did not know that Mr. Gould was after Mr. Huntington's stock in the Southern Pacific.

His statements came as a surprise to many in the little room on the top floor of the Custom House, where Special Examiner Sylvester G. Williams is hearing testimony in the Government's suits. Mr. Kahn was a Director of the Union Pacific and a member of the Executive Committee of the road when the merger was effected, and he testified on March 7 that he and his fellow-Directors were apprehensive of a movement by interests other than the Union Pacific to buy Southern Pacific stock just after the death of Collis P. Huntington, in 1900.

"When Mr. Huntington died the situation became even more threatening," he said, "in that we were advised that there were other influences attempting to purchase the Southern Pacific."

Closely Identified with Huntington.

Mr. Hawley said that he was associated in business with Mr. Huntington for nineteen years. Mr. Crocker at one time owned one-fourth of the control in the Southern Pacific, said Mr. Hawley.

"I joined in the purchase of the Crocker stock at the instance of Mr. Huntington," he said.

"How long was that before Mr. Huntington's death?" asked Mr. Severance.

"I am not very good on dates," replied Mr. Hawley, "but it was not long before." He said that the amount of stock purchased by Mr. Huntington and himself was 100,000 shares.

"How often did you see Mr. Huntington in a business way?" asked Mr. Severance.

"Every day nearly," replied Mr. Hawley.

"What was his habit as to talking over with you business relating to the Southern Pacific?"

"It was his habit to do so."

"Did you know in those days E. H. Harriman?" pursued Mr. Severance.

"I saw him occasionally a short time before Mr. Huntington's death."

"Did you make trips with him?"

"Yes. Mr. Huntington, Mr. Harriman, and myself made a trip to the Adirondacks. That was three or four weeks before Mr Huntington's death."

Then Mr. Severance took up the testimony of Mr. Kahn on March 7. He said that Mr. Kahn had testified that he thought it would have been prejudicial to the Union Pacific to have had some hostile influence come into the Southern Pacific.

Mr. Kahn's Testimony.

Reading from Mr. Kahn's testimony, the Government lawyer said that Mr. Kahn had testified that this belief had grown so strong that Mr. Harriman in the last two years of Mr. Huntington's lifetime had made every endeavor to arrange definite relations with Mr. Huntington so as to assure for all time the permanent and the unaltered relations between the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific as far as the use of the Central Pacific line was concerned. Still reading from Mr. Kahn's testimony, Mr. Severance said:

"And in fact he offered to Mr. Huntington on behalf of the Union Pacific to buy the Central Pacific if a way could be found to separate it from the Southern Pacific system. That was declined. There were also declined all other overtures on the part of Mr. Harriman looking to a permanent and definite and unalterable relationship between the Union Pacific and the Central Pacific."

"Did any such matter as that come to your knowledge?" Mr. Severance inquired of Mr. Hawley.

"No, Sir," replied Mr. Hawley after a moment's thought.

"You never heard of it?"

"No. It may have taken place, however."

"What, if anything, did you have to do with the sale of the Huntington stock after Mr. Huntington's death?" asked Mr. Severance.

Sold Directly to Harriman.

"Was that all stock belonging to the Huntington estate or were you owner of a portion of it?"

"I was owner of a part of it," replied Mr. Hawley. He said the amount of stock named included the entire holdings of himself and the Huntington estate.

"To whom did you sell that stock?" asked Mr. Severance.

"To Mr. Harriman," came the reply. He said the transaction was consummated at Mr. Harriman's home and that the negotiations were conducted exclusively with Mr. Harriman. There were present at the conclusion of the deal Jacob H. Schiff, Mr. Harriman, E. H. Huntington, and Mr. Hawley.

"Who fixed the price at which the stock should be purchased by Mr. Harriman?" asked Mr. Severance.

"I fixed the price for both parties," said Mr. Hawley. "The price was satisfactory to both parties—myself and the Huntington estate."

Mr. Severance took up the testimony of Mr. Kahn on March 7 again.

"Mr. Kahn also testified that he was advised at that time, or after Mr. Huntington's death, that Mr. George J. Gould was trying to buy the control of the Southern Pacific or at least was trying to buy the Huntington stock," said Mr. Severance. "Did Mr. Gould attempt to buy that Huntington stock?"

"I never heard that he did," replied Mr. Hawley.

"Did he ever speak to you on the subject?" insisted the Government's lawyer.

"No, Sir," said Mr. Hawley.

MERGER OF TRUST COMPANIES

Mutual Alliance and Standard, Latter a Morgan Concern, Getting Together.

The merger of the Mutual Alliance Trust Company with the Standard Trust Company, one of the trust companies classed among the Morgan institutions, is proposed, and leading stockholders in the Mutual Alliance are co-operating, with a view to accepting the proposal which has been made for the absorption of the institution by the Standard Trust.

The Standard Trust Company has a capital of $1,000,000 and the Mutual Alliance a capital of $700,000. It is proposed to increase the Standard Trust's capital by $250,000, and out of this new stock to provide for the exchange for the $700,000 stock of the other trust company. The Standard is paying dividends at the rate of 16 per cent. a year, and is understood to be earning about 32 per cent on its stock, or twice the amount of the present dividend rate. The Mutual Alliance is not now paying any dividends. Its stock is quoted at about 130 to 135, and the stock of the Standard Trust Company at 400 to 430.

Special interest attaches to this latest proposed trust company merger by reason of the fact that the carrying out of this plan will merge the Mutual Alliance Trust, with its $9,000,000 of deposits, with an institution closely allied with the Morgan interests, which have lately been so active in increasing their interest in trust companies in this city. Some of the largest of the Mutual Alliance Trust Company stockholders said yesterday that they regarded the plan with great favor. The merger they said would work to the advantage of both the Standard Trust stockholders and of the shareholders of the Mutual Alliance, who through it will obtain an interest in the enlarged institution and benefit by its increased earning power.

So far as is known the Mutual Alliance Trust Company has not yet taken any formal action on the proposed merger. The plan so far has not gone beyond the submission of the terms to the individual large stockholders of the Mutual Alliance. The Standard Trust Company has its office in the Broad Exchange Building, at 25 Broad Street. The Mutual Alliance has three offices, one at 66 Beaver Street and the other two at 266 Grand Street and Lenox Avenue and 116th Street.

The Directors of the Standard Trust Company are John T. Atterbury, Paul D. Cravath, A. H. De Haven, Pliny Fisk, W. D. Guthrie, Fairfax Harrison, G. M. Lane, William C. Lane, J. G. McCullough, E. M. F. Miller, C. L. Pack, John S. Phipps, H. W. Putnam, Jr., Basil W. Rowe, William Salomon, Charles F. Smillie, John A. Spoor, Henry L. Sprague, L. L. Stanton, Charles Steele, F. K. Sturgis, Nathaniel Thayer, and Frederick S. Winston. William C. Lane is President.

The Mutual Alliance Trust Company has the following Directors, among whom are a large number of cotton men: A. L. Baggot, F. V. Baldwin, A. L. Banister, Walter Blumenthal, Asa G. Candler, George T. Dexter, C. P. Ellis, J. Temple Gwathmey, Kalman Haas, F. B. Hayne, L. P. Hillyer, S. T. Hubbard, Victor Koechl, Eugene G. Kremer, T. W. Lauderdale, Emerson McMillan, L. C. Murray, R. W. Nelson, J. H. Parker, F. H. Pouch, R. H. Rountree, P. Schwarz, Richard Sidenburg, Ellison A. Smyth, Silas Swartz, A. H. Watson, and Edward M. Weld. James H. Parker is President.

Convicted of Killing His Friend.

John J. Sweeney, alias James Spencer, for shooting and killing William Woods on Aug. 29 last, was found guilty of manslaughter in the first degree in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court yesterday. He was indicted for murder in the second degree. Sweeney and Woods were guests at the home of Matthew Clark, a mutual friend, at 51 Goerck Street, where the shooting occurred.

Frackman Out of Ludlow Street Jail.

Samuel Frackman, diamond dealer, of 51 Maiden Lane, who asserts that he lost or was robbed of $50,000 worth of diamonds in Chicago, was released from Ludlow Street Jail yesterday on a bond of $10,000. Real estate valued at $75,000 was given as surety by two of his friends.

KEENE'S BROKER SOLD 6,900 HOCKING SHORT

KEENE OWNED THE STOCK

But Popper Sold It for His Own Account—Carried Keene Stocks to Use Them to Clear.

Edward Popper, head of the Stock Exchange firm of Popper & Sternbach, 30 Broad Street, and the chief witness yesterday afternoon in the bankruptcy hearing of J. M. Fiske & Co. before United States Commissioner Alexander, declared that he had the right under his verbal understanding with James R. Keene to sell Mr. Keene's Hocking stock without notifying him. He said also that he himself did so without knowing of the existence of a Hocking pool or that Keene was manipulating that stock.

Popper & Sternbach were Mr. Keene's personal brokers, the relations having been established five or six years ago, according to Mr. Popper, at Mr. Keene's solicitation.

"Was there any agreement entered into with Mr. Keene when he gave his business to your firm?" Ralph Wolf, attorney for the receiver for J. M. Fiske & Co., asked:

"Yes," replied the broker. "The conversation took place in his office at 30 Broad Street. I had gone to see Mr. Keene to solicit his business. I told him I would carry stocks and bonds for him under the condition that I should have the right to lend out the stocks and bonds I carried for him. I told him I was to have the privilege of using any or all of his stocks to make deliveries to customers.

"He replied he did not care what I did with his stocks so long as I executed his orders."

"Anything said as to the margins which Mr. Keene was to put up?" Mr. Wolf asked.

Sold Hocking Short.

"I had always the right to call for more margin," replied Mr. Popper. He said he did not recall ever selling any of Mr. Keene's stock from the opening of the account until Jan. 18 last for his firm's profit.

"On Jan. 18 and 19, then, you did sell some of the Hocking stock, did you?" he was asked.

"Yes."

"For whose account?"

"For the firm's, 6,900 shares in all, but 2,300 did not go through. We sold 1,900 shares on the 18th and 5,000 on the 19th."

Mr. Popper then admitted that he had sold "short," and that, according to the Stock Exchange rules, he would have to deliver the stock by 2:15 o'clock the next day. He made good, he said, by using those he had bought for Mr. Keene.

"Have you ever sold short before?" he was asked.

"No," he replied.

"Yes, under Account P No. 1."

Mr. Popper explained that the letter "P" was used to designate this account because he did not wish any of his clerks to know he had sold stocks short, as they might tell. As to why he was so anxious to sell Hocking stock Mr. Popper said that about Dec. 15 he got information that this stock was regarded with great distrust and was liable to go down rapidly.

"I went to Mr. Keene, telling him what I had heard and advising him to sell. He refused flatly to do so and told me it was none of my d—d business if he did hold to it.

Rumors of a Coming Break.

"On Jan. 18 I heard reports leading me to believe that a very serious break would come in Hocking stock that day, and after talking with my partners determined to sell some of Mr. Keene's stock."

He could not tell where he had heard the rumors of distrust in Hocking stock, only that it was common talk, and from his own observation that it was high in the face of a weak market. He felt convinced, though he knew of no pool, that it was closely held rather than distributed among a large number of people.

"How did Mr. Keene's account benefit by your sale of the stock?" he was asked.

"It did not benefit at all; only the condition of our account was improved," he said. He explained that one of the reasons his firm was so anxious to get rid of the stock was that the banks would not lend money on it, and the time might come when his firm would want the cash or good securities to a large amount.

"Did you try any of the banks to see if they would lend money on this stock?" Mr. Wolf asked.

"I didn't need to try," Popper said. "I would not risk my reputation by asking banks to lend on such security. I might get as much as 30 per cent. and have it called the next day."

Mr. Wolf wanted to know why he didn't repeatedly urge Mr. Keene to sell his Hocking holdings.

"Mr. Keene is a man who won't be dictated to," was the reply, "and besides he said he thought the stock would go much higher."

Mr. Popper said Mr. Keene's losses had been very high since January and that he had put up no additional margins since that time, but that at present his account with the firm of Popper & Sternbach was in very satisfactory condition.

Afraid to Let Keene Know.

In reply to Mr. Wolf's inquiry as to why the firm had been so anxious to keep Mr. Keene from knowing of the short sale in which the Keene stock had been used to cover, going to the length of entering a new secret account on the blotter to prevent "a leak" from its office, Mr. Popper said he and his associates were afraid Mr. Keene would make it extremely unpleasant for them if he knew.

"He might have done, with enough strength and ammunition, what was done in the Northern Pacific case," he added. "That is, drive up the stock to $1,000. Our position then would have been most disagreeable."

"Did you know of the existence of any Hocking pool, or that Mr. Keene was manipulating that stock?" Mr. Wolf asked.

"I knew nothing of either," was the reply.

Mr. Wolf asked him to explain then why Hopkins Brothers had bought 700 shares of Hocking stock and sold them the same day for Popper & Sternbach.

"We received an order from Keene to buy 700 shares of Hocking. I hastened to Mr. Keene, telling him that I did not care to buy any more of this stock."

"What did Mr. Keene say?" the lawyer asked.

"Don't ask me what he said," Popper replied, laughing. "It wouldn't sound nice."

"Well," said the lawyer, "you might give an expurgated edition of it."

"He said he wanted 700 shares, and he didn't give a damn what I did so long as I got him that stock. So I gave the order to Hopkins Brothers to buy the stock."

The next hearing will take place on Friday, when Mr. Keene will be called to testify. The announced hearing for tomorrow afternoon was canceled.

CENTRAL TESTS NEW ENGINE.

Mallet Locomotive Has Double the Tractive Power of the Old Machines.

A type of railroad locomotive devised years ago by Mallet, the French inventor, but which has been up to the present time beyond the needs of the transportation companies for power, is now being experimented with by the New York Central lines on the steep grades of their Pennsylvania Division.

So important are these tests to the railroad world that officers of the Pennsylvania Road are interested watchers of the experiments, which are to continue for a fortnight on the New York Central Company's stretch of road between Avis and Corning.

The chief object obtained with this locomotive, which has an articulated wheel base, is to get an immense increase of power in a single unit. As one railroad man put it: "Here is a locomitve that will take a heavy train up a mountain side as easily as a balloon will lift its basket."

The New York Central Railroad has two or three divisions, which are like the roof of a house—that is, with the summit in the middle—and a long-sustained effort over half the division is required of the locomotive. In order to handle the large trains to advantage and to keep as low as possible the number of separate train units to avoid congestion of tracks, it was decided to make the experiments with a so-called Mallet engine, built for the purpose by the American Locomotive Company.

Briefly described, it is a double-head locomotive, with one boiler, and, therefore, under the control of one engine crew. It provides almost twice as much tractive power as the consolidation engine, and is more economical because the live steam from the boiler is supplied to only two cylinders, and is used expansively in the other two.

ATTACKS STUDENT IN COURT.

Mother of the Boy Stabile Shot Disturbs Court Hearing.

The orderly course of justice in the Supreme Court before Justice Newburger was interrupted yesterday by the dramatic entrance of Mrs. Katherine McGrath, mother of "Jack" McGrath, who was killed last September when he and others were attacking Vincent Stabile, a student of the City College. Mrs. McGrath, gowned in black, rushed in and attempted to assault young Stabile, who was present on a writ of habeas corpus.

Threatening to kill Stabile, she was seized by court attendants and led into the corridors, where she made a wild harangue. She left the Court House and proceeded west through Chambers Street, followed by a crowd.

The jury in Stabile's case stood ten for acquittal, two for manslaughter, when it was discharged by Judge Crain, in General Sessions, his counsel told the court. This was not disputed by District Attorney Whitman, who appeared in person to oppose the granting of the writ. Ex-Judge Josephs, Moses Grossman, and ex-Assistant District Attorney Mayler, who appeared for Stabile, asserted that Stabile cannot be tried again, since he has once been in jeopardy. Judge Crain's discharge of the jury before it had reported to him that it could not agree was criticised as prejudicial to the young man's interest. Justice Newburger reserved decision.

W. N. Utley's Check.

The statement in THE TIMES of Thursday regarding the arrest eighteen months ago of W. N. Utley, who married the eldest daughter of Levi C. Weir, Chairman of the Board of Managers of the Adams Express Company, was incorrect in that it conveyed the impression that Mr. Utley actually issued a worthless check. The fact is that Mr. Utley issued a small check on Flower & Co., bankers, with which firm he had been connected for many years. There was some misunderstanding as to the balance which Mr. Utley had with the bankers, the check was not honored, and Mr. Utley was arrested, but Flower & Co. honored the check the next morning and the incident was closed.

CHILD STRANGELY MISSING.

Poor Man's Baby Stolen to Terrify a Rich One, Police Believe.

A man who said he was Giovanni Alcosi of 303 Chrystie Street, "a friend of Giovanni Azzero" of the same address, walked into Police Headquarters last Saturday afternoon and reported that Marie, the 3½-year-old daughter of Azzero, had disappeared from home, but when Detectives Lagrue and Carroa of the Italian Squad went to the Azzero home to investigate none of the Azzero family knew that the girl was gone.

The mother and Marie's sisters said they had seen Marie playing near her home only a few hours before, but though a search failed to discover her, her father said she probably was in the neighborhood and would return soon. The only thing that worried the family was that no one named Alcosi was known to them.

Yesterday the child was still missing, and her father went to Headquarters to ask that an alarm be sent out for her. Azzero said he was a poor man, earning only $1.50 a day, and that he had received no Black Hand letters. He could conceive of no reason for kidnapping his child. The police, however, are inclined to believe that the girl was kidnapped, working upon the theory that some wealthy Italian living near Azzero had received a letter demanding money, on pain of kidnapping one of his children, and that Azzero's daughter was being made use of as an example to terrify him. However, they had been unable last night to find any one who had received such a letter or to find Alcosi.

To Confer on Steamfitters' Strike.

A conference will be held at the Building Trades Club this afternoon between members of the Building Trades Union and General Organizer Hugh Franey of the American Federation of Labor on the one hand, and the Board of Governors of the Building Trades Employers' Association on the other. They will endeavor to settle the present steamfitters' strike and to avert the sympathetic strike on individual buildings voted by twenty building unions, if the steamfitters' demands are not granted.

$300 REWARD FOR LOST GEM.

Mrs. Page Seeks Costly Wedding Gift Lost at the Theatre.

Mrs. Edith Page of 9 West Sixty-fifth Street, has been trying ever since Saturday night to find a diamond lavaliere which she lost either in the Comedy Theatre or on her way home from the play. Failing to find any trace of the missing ornament she is now advertising in the Lost and Found column of THE TIMES, and offering $300 reward for its return. The lavaliere consisted of a cluster of diamonds and two strings of diamonds, fifteen stones in all.

Mrs. Page missed the ornament immediately after getting home from the theatre. She and several friends searched the automobile which they had used, then hastened back to the theatre, only to find it closed for the night. On Sunday one of Mrs. Page's friends called at the theatre and found that it would not be opened until early Monday morning. The ornament was a present to Mrs. Page at the time of her marriage.

THE PURGING OF THE SENATE.

The vote in the State Senate, sustaining the charges against Mr. ALLDS, was surprisingly large, more than four to one. Allowing for the influence of the practical admission of guilt involved in the resignation of the accused Senator a few minutes before a vote was to be taken, this approach to unanimity was very remarkable. On Monday evening the most that was expected was a majority of a dozen or so. A week ago when the case closed ALLDS's friends professed, and with much to sustain them, that a verdict of "not proven" would be the outcome of the long investigation.

The change is undoubtedly due to public sentiment, as it was found to be by the members of the Legislature, most of whom have visited their homes in the interval. The evolution of that sentiment is an exceedingly significant matter, and, though somewhat complex, has certain features that stand out clearly. One, and in some regards the most important, is the gradual and finally complete wasting away of the party spirit that was at first shown. ALLDS was essentially an "organization man." He had been for some ten years increasingly intimate in the councils and influential in the management of his party. His accuser was an "insurgent," a Senator who had incurred the suspicion and the anger of the leaders by his refusal to submit to the party rule. He had been a supporter of the measures of the Governor which the leaders fought, and he had refused to enter the caucus by which discipline was maintained. When his accusation against ALLDS became public the power of the machine was straightway used to discredit him and to ward off the consequences with which not only ALLDS but the machine was menaced. This policy had its effect. The faithful followers of the machine influenced their immediate friends in every part of the State. The effort to explain ALLDS's action as to the bill he was accused of killing for a bribe by dragging in a letter from Senator PLATT was an example of the devices used to enlist all the direct and indirect influence of the machine. Almost to the last it was doubtful if these tactics, conscienceless, impudent, and corrupt as they plainly were, would not achieve their purpose. They failed because public opinion was gradually and adequately informed in the course of the hearing in the Senate.

The final outcome is all the more a solid and lasting advantage for the decent people of the State because it is not to be denied that the proof of the guilt of ALLDS, interpreting the evidence as it would have been interpreted in a court of law, reduced to what was technically admissible, cannot be said to have been absolute. It was the realization by the Senators that it was neither right nor safe for them to act on these lines, and the realization by ALLDS that they would not work on them, that doubtless determined ALLDS to hand in his resignation. By that he escapes the specific humiliation of a formal expulsion, but he does not and can not escape the disgrace of general and deserved public execration. He returns to his country home stripped of his reputation, branded as a bribe taker, exposed to the scorn of all honest men, and against these the thin veil of voluntary retirement from his office will prove but poor protection. It is intimated that he will seek "vindication" at the hands of his constituents. It is hopeless. Even if they were unanimously to re-elect him it would be only to involve themselves in the disgrace he has incurred.

Obviously the Republicans in the Legislature cannot stop at the point to which they are brought by the outcome of the Allds investigation. The shame and the evil of the situation disclosed are not solely in the wretched corruption in which ALLDS and others of his immediate associates are shown to have been steeped. It is in the atmosphere of corruption that has been proved to exist, it is especially in the temper in which the revelations in ALLDS's case have been received by the party managers. The only hope of the Republican Party and the only course consonant with the simplest conception of public duty is in a thorough and impartial investigation of all the facts disclosed or indicated in the investigation and any cognate facts that may be developed. To be thorough and impartial this investigation must be intrusted to faithful and courageous men, not chosen by the usual methods of party management, but, whether through selection by the Legislature or the Governor, men who will discharge their difficult and trying duties adequately. Necessarily this involves directly or indirectly the retirement of the leaders under whom the revolting corruption already unearthed has taken place, and who until the last moment have sought to evade the light of searching inquiry. This ought to mean something equivalent to a revolution in the Republican Party and in the politics of the State. Should that ensue the people of the State will be amply repaid for the mortification that this disgusting scandal has brought upon them. Certainly it is a painful and expensive lesson that they have been taught. May it turn out that the lesson is not lost upon them. That the events of the coming Summer will show.

WHO BROACHED IT?

We invite the attention of the Hon. EDWARD M. GROUT, now an influential member of the Court House Commission, to the following paragraphs, appearing in THE TIMES of Jan. 19, 1903, under the heading "A Mammoth Municipal Building":

> There is much to recommend the project, first suggested by Controller GROUT, but now under the consideration of a committee including, besides himself, Mayor LOW and Borough President CANTOR, to erect on the wide block facing City Hall Park from the north, a mammoth building in which all the municipal departments could be housed.
>
> Although its cost, it is estimated, would be $8,000,000, the Controller calculates that more than the interest on that sum would be saved in rentals now paid for quarters in buildings surrounding the park. * * *
>
> There has been going on about City Hall Park a building movement that promises to reach completion in one of the most impressive groups of edifices, considered in the large, that can be found anywhere in the world. As they stand to-day, their true distinction is obscured by the unsightly Federal building, the two old brownstone buildings in the park itself, and the tame architecture of the Tweed Court House. The aesthetic right of any of these buildings to occupy its present site cannot be maintained, and the future should see all of them disappear.

Again, in THE TIMES of Jan. 23, 1903, we read:

> We suppose the minds of all New Yorkers who pay attention to such things are pretty well made up in favor of the proposition, first broached by the Controller. * * * As it has been developed, that project is that there shall be three municipal buildings—of which the new Hall of Records shall be one—extending from Centre Street to Broadway and from Chambers Street to Reade.

If there can be further question as to who first broached the plan of a new civic centre, extending north of the City Hall Park, and relieving that park of its disennobling edifices, we can supply more determinative notes and citations.

JUSTICE BREWER.

Of all the Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States DAVID J. BREWER was the best known to the people. They saw more of him. It was his habit, upon occasion, to put aside the robe of the Justice, the manner and the speech of the bench, and to address his fellow-citizens from lecture platforms upon matters that concerned them all. His lectures and casual addresses showed that he had thought much, studied much, but had been spoiled by neither process. His philosophy of life was not sublimated, it was not refined to nothingness by the attempt to make it include every concern of life and to furnish sufficient explanations of all phenomena. It was the common, every-day philosophy of the sensible man. Common sense was the basis of Justice BREWER's character, and straightforward thinking and plain but always courteous speaking were among his characteristics. He had no "fads." He believed that human society is advancing, always advancing, but his clear and sensible mind rejected fashionable sophistications of the "social democracy" and "new fraternalism" type. He pinned his faith to man as an individual, working out his career and his destiny by individual effort in circumstances of the fullest freedom compatible with his duty to his neighbor and society.

Justice BREWER could satirize the vagaries of a Roosevelt without transcending his personal or official prerogative, and without leaving a wound. But in denouncing evils that spring up in the practice of the law he was not so particular about inflicting wounds. Character, in his view, was the most important quality in the make-up of the ideal lawyer. Mere brilliancy did not interest him. "Forensic oratory has passed away," he once said. For the dishonest lawyer he expressed a deep-felt contempt. "A verdict won by a falsehood is a disgrace to the counsel, and equally so a verdict won by a trick." He censured the practice of the courts in granting too many appeals upon technicalities when justice did not demand appeal. But he insisted that the courts were not above criticism. "When a case is finished, the courts are subject to the same criticism as other people."

In his labors as a Judge, in reaching conclusions or writing opinions, he showed himself to be possessed of an independent and self-sustaining mind. This was notably evident in the separate but concurring opinion he wrote in the Northern Securities case. The opinion of the court, written by Justice HARLAN, had followed the line of reasoning adopted by Justice PECKHAM in the Freight Association case. In general terms, the position of the court was, that inasmuch as the statute forbade every contract or combination in restraint of trade, it was not necessary to inquire whether the restraint was reasonable or unreasonable. Justice BREWER, concurring in the opinion that the merger must be dissolved, nevertheless dissented from the reasoning and the grounds upon which that conclusion was reached. In that opinion he said:

> Instead of holding that the Anti-Trust act included all contracts, reasonable or unreasonable, in restraint of inter-State trade, the ruling should have been that the contracts there presented were unreasonable restraints of inter-State trade, and, as such, within the scope of the act. That act, as appears from its title, was leveled at only "unlawful restraints and monopolies." Congress did not intend to reach and destroy those minor contracts in partial restraint of trade which the long course of decisions at common law had affirmed were reasonable and ought to be upheld. The purpose, rather, was to place a statutory prohibition with prescribed penalties and remedies upon those contracts which were in direct restraint of trade, unreasonable, and against public policy.

Justice BREWER, while admitting that the owners of stock of one road must be held to have the right which all other citizens have of purchasing the stock of another road, even of a competing road, yet declared that in this case no such situation was presented. "There was a combination by several individuals separately owning stock in two competing railroad companies to place the control of both in a single corporation." Their purpose was to "destroy competition." Were that to be permitted, then such a corporation of individuals, by an extension of the process, "could control all the railroad corporations in the country," and place them in a single corporation. Justice BREWER took no very friendly view of monopolies or of monopolizing tendencies. But he clearly saw how the language used by the court in this decision making the act applicable to all combinations, even though no public harm but real public benefit was the result, "might tend to unsettle legitimate business enterprises, stifle or retard wholesome business activities, encourage improper disregard of reasonable contracts, and invite unnecessary litigation."

Those who are desirous of upholding the restraining force of the Anti-Trust law, while at the same time avoiding the disturbing consequences of rigorous enforcement, have affected to see in subsequent decisions of the Supreme Court a tendency to accept Justice BREWER's discriminating view. That view was not accepted by the lower court in the Tobacco case, it is difficult to find evidence that it controlled the minds of the lower court in decreeing the dissolution of the Standard Oil Company. Both of those cases, recently argued, are before the Supreme Court. It is of interest to the public, therefore, to know the views, the legal reasoning, and the mental leaning of the late Judge BREWER.

THE GENERAL BOARD'S REPLY.

One of the best replies, perhaps, to the objections to the Rockefeller Foundation may be found in the character of the work of the General Education Board, which was chartered by Congress and is using Mr. ROCKEFELLER's money. One of the means adopted by the General Board for aiding the new "reconstruction" of the South involved the encouragement of the youth to stick to the farm and become expert farmers, and this illustration of how it is being done is authentic but is related without the knowledge of any member or officer of the General Board.

The Executive Secretary of the Board, Dr. WALLACE BUTTRICK, was in rural North Carolina some months ago, where he met a Southern enthusiast.

"Talk about the South's growing," said this man, "why, do you know that every boy in this county has turned farmer? You never heard of such enthusiasm as these boys from 12 to 16 put into their work. A man in this county whom every one respects has offered the boys prizes for the best corn, the best potatoes, the best vegetables, and the best of everything that the land will produce. The only stipulation is that the boys must do all the work. Did you ever hear of such a thing? You ought to stay down here a week and see what those boys are doing. Perhaps you might want to help them some."

"The last thing I did before leaving New York," replied Dr. BUTTRICK with a quiet smile, "was to sign a check to pay for those prizes for the boys."

All the preliminary work of organization had been done, the prizes had been announced, and every boy in the county was striving for them, but all had been accomplished so quietly and unostentatiously that one of the best-posted men in the community had not suspected the sources of the inspiration and directive force.

REPORTS OF PRIVATE CHARITIES.

Do the generous donors of the 750 or more private charitable societies and institutions in this State know how their gifts are being used? Examination of the yearly reports of most of these societies would indicate that their official heads are themselves not clear upon this question. Owing, also, to divergent methods of presentation, it is well-nigh impossible to compare like activities in a way to measure executive efficiency.

The report of a charitable organization should at least be intelligible to its contributors. The information should be detailed enough to leave no doubt as to the precise nature of income and outgo, while it should not contain such a multiplicity of detail as to complicate the report and discourage the lay reader. True, the problem is receiving study. Some reports are not too puzzling—notably the latest report of the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor. This, we observe, contains a digest or summary of the more significant figures, giving an accurate measure of the range and cost of work done by the society. For example, organized charity is often criticised for spending, on salaries and administration, too large a share of the funds intended by the public for actual relief of the poor. Here are figures that show the cost of the aid given on the one hand, and the cost of giving aid on the other, placed in juxtaposition to invite comparison. Then, to drive home the desired facts, the summary concludes with a series of percentages showing the ratio borne by the cost of relief work to current income, to current expenses.

Such summaries as this are needed. But to make comparisons complete it is essential that charitable societies agree upon a uniform system of reports—which should be a very simple matter.

SHORTER PARLIAMENTS.

Of all the Constitutional changes now under consideration in Great Britain, the proposal to shorten the length of Parliaments from seven to five years is likely to meet with the least opposition. No special virtue has belonged to seven years as the legislative period. The Septennial act of 1716 was frankly an opportunist measure, and since then no Parliament has sat for its full term. Of the seventeen summoned by Queen VICTORIA and King EDWARD, only two have survived more than six years and eight more than five, and of these no less than three have been dissolved when five years one month and a few days old. It seems, therefore, that five years is not far from being a Parliament's normal expectation of life.

But it may be doubted whether a shortening in the duration of Parliaments would not go far to nullify Mr. ASQUITH's scheme for overcoming the veto of the Lords. Such contentious measures as an Education bill or a Home Rule bill take up practically all the time that can be spared in one session from the necessary business of voting supplies. Yet it is now suggested that if the Upper House will have nothing of a bill, it must be passed three times by the Commons in not less than two years. With an active Opposition this would mean that the Government would have to devote about one-half the time of a Parliament to a single measure.

Considering the heterogeneous nature of the Radical Party in Great Britain and the multiplicity of the reforms pressed on the attention of its leaders, this is asking a great deal of political loyalty. In all but matters of the most exceptional importance the Lords would be safe in assuming that long before a measure they had rejected had been passed twice again by the Commons, the Ministry would find that its supporters and their constituents were weary of the struggle. Not one of the bills thrown out by the peers in recent years was considered so vital by every section of the Radicals that in its favor they would have abandoned all hope of every other reform.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Warning Nobody Will Heed.

One of our correspondents, in a letter printed yesterday, solemnly warned all and sundry that before taking part in the welcome which is preparing for THEODORE ROOSEVELT on his return to his native land, they should carefully decide whether or not they want him to be the next President of the United States. The implication was that nobody undesirous of bringing about that result had a right to participate in the welcome.

This is important if true, but we do not think it is true. One may very well say, as our correspondent did, that Mr. ROOSEVELT is now a private citizen, that his hunting trip, successful as it has been, gives him no special claim to unprecedented honors, and that, if given, some folks will interpret them in terms of politics. The fact will remain that Mr. ROOSEVELT is by common consent a remarkable man, doubtless the most notable American now alive, and if, from enthusiastic liking for him, a considerable number of his fellow-citizens feel like showing him that they are glad to see him safely back, they are going to do it with as little care as fear for the political consequences of the demonstration.

Those consequences, in our opinion, can be dismissed as negligible. The next Presidential campaign is a long way off, and present attempts to "boom" a candidate would hurt rather than help his chances, since nothing is so tiring as excitement unless its cause and object are frequently changed. Mr. ROOSEVELT, shrewd politician that he is, knows this, and he has already taken the necessary precautions to prevent any party or faction from exploiting his popularity—to deprive his welcome of any except intrinsic significance.

Our correspondent, we suspect, does not like Mr. ROOSEVELT as much as several other people do, and is, in short, afraid of him. The compliment is great, but the fear is needless. Mr. ROOSEVELT is an exponent of the general will and sentiment, not a creator or a leader of them, and an exponent, he or another, will never be wanting. Europe, instinctively ignoring his official unimportance, is preparing fully to recognize his representative quality, a product, not of votes, but of character and achievement. New York, with the rest of the country to help it, will do the same thing, wisely leaving 1912 and 1916 to take care of themselves, as they are quite competent to do.

Monaco Falls in Line.

Prince ALBERT of Monaco, realizing that Constitutions are much worn nowadays, both by nations to which they are becoming and by those to which they are not, has kindly decided to give one this Spring to the few acres of ground over which he is allowed to exercise a pretense of sovereignty. His "subjects" recently "demanded" a Constitution, and he "yielded," quite as if he had been a real monarch instead of the legal fiction by which France is enabled to maintain a gambling resort for the amusement of tourists without avowing full responsibility for the miserable business.

The idea that the natives of Monaco ever "demanded" anything except a share of the loot from the tables is, of course, too absurd for consideration as anything except a joke. Their new liberties consist of the privilege of electing what amounts to a Board of Aldermen, over which an appointed Mayor will preside. The exploiter of the gambling concession will, of course, continue to do the real ruling of the principality, and all expenses as well as all profits will be paid in the future, as in the past, by simple strangers who cannot free themselves from the delusion that luck can conquer a mathematical handicap.

The spectacle is sad—for those whom it does not amuse.

MME. BRESHKOVSKAYA.

Her Work May Result in Greater Things Than Now Seen.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I want to add my word of admiration and thanks for Elsa Barker's beautiful poem, "Breshkovskaya." It is a great tribute to a great woman. But there are two lines in it against which Mrs. Breshkovskaya herself would earnestly protest. The poet speaks of her as having gone through "the age-long travail of a cause that lies still-born at last on history's cold lap."

The age-long travail of the Russian revolution is not yet over. One more birth-pang has passed without bringing deliverance, but another and another will follow, and the end cannot fail. As Mrs. Breshkovskaya said to George Kennan when she met him in Siberia: "We may die in exile, and our children may die in exile, and our children's children may die in exile, but something will come of it at last!"

When she was in America, she read with interest the Hon. William Dudley Foulke's "Slav or Saxon?" She told Mr. Foulke (who had come on to Boston to preside at the Russian freedom meeting addressed by Mrs. Breshkovskaya in Faneuil Hall) that he had overlooked one point in Russian history, i. e., the large number of peasant uprisings that had already taken place from time to time. And she said, if I remember rightly, that a revolution might be spread over a hundred years and be going on more or less all the while.

The final victory was not so near as Mme. Breshkovskaya then supposed it to be, but it may well be nearer than most people think. The Czar's folly is hastening the day. He has announced his determination "to maintain the principle of autocracy unimpaired." He is exasperating every element among his subjects but the most stupid and bigoted. He has forcibly suppressed the schools of the Polish Educational Association. He is heaping new cruelties on the Jews. In defiance of his coronation oath he has already stolen half the constitutional liberties of Finland, and is about to steal the other half. In Russia itself he had taken away, one by one, all the liberties of speech, of the press, &c., that he granted under the pressure of fear. He has repeatedly restricted and gerrymandered the suffrage until the Duma no longer in any sense represents the people. He encourages the use of torture in the prisons. He is hanging and exiling the best of the Russians in crowds. In short, he has fastened down the escape valve and is diligently piling fuel under the boiler. Any despotic ruler in the twentieth century who sets himself stubbornly against the extension of popular rights by evolution will have to reckon with revolution by and by.

ALICE STONE BLACKWELL.

Dorchester, Mass., March 28, 1910.

Boating in Pelham Bay Park.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I see the question of permitting boathouses in Pelham Bay Park has been made the subject of a hearing before the Bronx Park Commissioner.

There is danger of confusing the issue in discussions of this kind, and I therefore wish to point out that the invariable attitude that should be assumed by the Park Commissioner, and which in most cases, and in this particular case, he does assume, is that the parks should be administered for the benefit of all the people, and not as a special privilege to any one class or group.

It is not a question of the number of people who are to use any feature or its value for the purpose of amusement and recreation, but whether it is so managed that everybody may use it on the principle of "first come, first served."

There is nothing new or difficult in the application of this idea, because it is practiced in many parks in all boroughs, wherever there are tennis, golf, or croquet grounds.

It seems to me that the same system should apply to the boathouses. One or more municipal boathouses of this character could be erected on the shores of the rivers and bays adjoining the parks, where full facilities for a considerable number of boats of all kinds could be provided under the above-mentioned principle.

New York, March 27, 1910.

The Beef Trust.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

We have become the laughing stock of the civilized countries of the world in so far that a few hundred men can dictate to 80,000,000 people what they shall eat or what they shall drink and wherewithal they shall be clothed. Meanwhile the price of beef is still going higher. The Sunday dinner of the workingman can no longer be obtained for 25 cents a pound, whether it be chuck steak, round, or stew. The packers contend that there is a scarcity of beef-fed cattle, yet thousands are shipped daily from our ports to free-trade England, where they are sold from 5 to 10 cents per pound cheaper than we can buy them in our own land of peace and plenty. If there is a scarcity of cattle, as is contended, why does not our Government, weak-kneed, vacillating, and paternal in its dealing with the trusts, take off the Aldrich tariff of 3 cents per pound on imported meats that is now diverted into the pockets of the packers? If this were done the present high cost of living would tumble 50 per cent., and the social unrest and discontent of our people would be, in a measure, alleviated.

JOHN LEGGETT.

For Packers and People.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I notice in a special to THE NEW YORK TIMES, dated Omaha, March 24, that Mr. J. Ogden Armour, President of the Armour Packing Company "sympathizes with the people of this country because they are compelled to pay big prices for meat."

He is also sorry for the packers, as he says, "We cannot make as much money when meats are high as we can when they are low."

Under these conditions I suggest it would be a very simple matter for Congress to pass a bill, which would probably require fewer words than your Omaha dispatch, taking Paragraphs 284, 285, 286, 287, 288, 289, and 290 out of the dutiable list of the Customs Tariff act of 1909 and transferring them to the free list.

MEYER D. ROTHSCHILD.

New York, March 28, 1910.

Sneezing in the Senate.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The item in this morning's TIMES relative to the Vice President' sneezing in the Senate chamber, brings to mind an incident which occurred in the same place in 1850.

Senator Badger of North Carolina was seized with a tremendous sneezing spell, which caused much merriment, especially in the galleries. Senator Daniel S. Dickinson of New York thereupon sent Senator Badger the following:

If 'tis one that spectators are like to be pleased at,
And a member should know, if outsiders do not,
That the Senate in session is not to be sneezed at.

EIGHTEEN-FIFTY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I should propose that the census takers might benefit the town by ascertaining the means of subsistence of each individual. By that means the thieves, thugs, and improper characters might be driven out or branded in some manner, so that they might not continue a menace to society.

THE WIFE'S SERVICES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mrs. Johnston-Wood says: "The services of the wife in and about the household belong to the husband. This includes taking boarders, nursing the sick, &c." Also she says: "A wife cannot make a binding contract with her husband to pay her for services within or without the household."

The legal aspect of these statements will be fully treated in a pamphlet now being prepared by the National League for the Civic Education of Women. I desire only to treat of the wife's "services," which have been the object of suffrage attack for many years. In 1862 Miss Susan B. Anthony, in replying to a letter from Judge Charles J. Folger, in which he had informed her that she mistook the purport of laws just changed, which in no sense took away right, power, privilege, or freedom from the wife, but, on the contrary, in some respects gave more or greater, says:

> Mr. Folger makes mistakes in regard to the effect of these bills, quite forgetting that the wife has never had an equal right to the joint earnings of the copartnership, as no valuation has ever been placed on her labor in the household, to which she gives all her time, thought, and strength. A law securing to the wife an absolute right to half the joint earnings, and, at the death of the husband, the same control of property and children that he has when she dies, might make some show of justice, but it is a provision not yet on the statute books of any civilized country.

If it were to be placed on the statute book, would not another have to be placed beside it, making the wife equally responsible for the support of the husband? The law takes cognizance of the earnings of that member of the "firm" who usually transacts business with the outside world, but, as the law now stands, if the wife earns money from an outside source, it is absolutely her own, and she cannot be compelled to support her husband, while he must support her. How the proceeds of their common labor shall be best made their own is for each husband and wife to determine; it cannot be matter of legislation.

It is interesting to think what an increase of domesticity there would be if a business partnership—such as Miss Anthony first suggested, and the Suffragists continually call for—were demanded by the statutes. The law, which now lays the whole burden of support on the husband and father, whether the wife and daughter work in the home or not, would make it obligatory for the homekeeping partner to give all her time, thought, and strength to labor in the household in order to bring in a bill for services. The law necessarily assumes that in the contract of marriage the two who have become one have done so through love and mutual respect and interest. In all their attacks upon the laws concerning married persons the Suffragists evidently assume that the contract is between those whose interests are distinct and antagonistic. The old slander upon the laws, which said: "Husband and wife are one, and the husband is that one," must now be gravely altered to suit the suffrage demands and read: "Wife and husband are two, and the wife is both of them."

It is to their honor and to the honor of womanly ideals that American legislators have not taken a single step toward the framing of a law of contract that shall compel the husband to pay the wife for service in the mutual home, and thus place the American wife on the plane of a hired servant. Her services in the home belong to him, exactly as his services in office or shop belong to her, and if they are really married, both services benefit both.

Col. Harvey on Suffrage.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

What a pity Col. Harvey did not keep to his original title when he spoke for the Equal Franchise Society. Why did he abandon it? Was he afraid the "antis" would attack him? If the Colonel meant "the inherent right" to vote when he first promised to lecture, he was fortunate to abandon his subject, as it is a well-known fact that voting is not an "inherent right," but a privilege granted by the State, and the "antis" would and probably were ready and waiting to scalp him. Instead he turned on the "antis" with ridicule and sarcasm and with absolutely no wit. Is this the way the Equal Franchise Society intends to educate women how to vote and better understand the franchise?

The Overcrowded Elevator.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The falling of an elevator so crowded with people that some of them fainted for lack of air seems an event offering ample excuse for a protest against the constant overcrowding of elevators in this city. Any one who goes about much in the shopping or business districts is accustomed to riding in elevators so packed that not only are those in front constantly in danger of being pushed forward, but there would not be the slightest chance for action in case of danger.

In many of the "skyscrapers" there are always a number of elevators not in use. It is ample time that something was being done to regulate this matter and insure safety and comfort to the public.

LAY OF THE BLUES.

Say, are you ever, without any reason
Especially for it, in 'most any season,
Swept with a wave of that Oh-I-am-Tired-fulness,
Man-who's-just-Hired-fulness, Wish-I-was-Fired-fulness?
Say, do you ever, while working and fretting,
Hoping and sorrowing, thinking, forgetting,
Have that soul-emptying What-is-the-Use-fulness,
That Oh-the-Deuce-fulness, Oh-for-a-Truce-fulness
Sort of a spell?

Say, did you ever feel just when you're working
Your top level best, with no thinking of shirking
That life and its labor is all a Hot-Air-fulness,
What-is-my-Share-fulness, Oh-I-Don't-Care-fulness
Sort of a game, just a juggle and fight
With one thing in hand and a dozen in sight
But just out of reach? Oh, that What's-in-it-All-fulness,
Sort of a spell!

Say, but I've had 'em, without any reason
Especially for 'em, in most any season.
Had that soul-frightening What-is-the-End-fulness,
Oh-for-a-Friend-fulness, Too-Late-to-Mend-fulness
Sort of a feeling—that sort of a fallowness,
Kind of a hollowness, sort of a shallowness,
Had that soul-darkening What-is-the-Use-fulness
That Oh-the-Deuce-fulness, Lord-here's-the-Blues-fulness

PORTER AIDED COL. DYER.

Report of Trouble Between Them Owing to a Suit Untrue.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I beg to call your attention to an article in your issue of Dec. 24, 1909, the heading of which stated that the bandmaster of the Twelfth Regiment was suing Col. Dyer, commanding officer of the regiment, for $10,000 for upsetting Coughlin's plan to tour Great Britain. You also stated in a sub-heading that "Permission was granted by his Adjutant, Capt. Porter, without authority, the Colonel Pleads." In the body of the article you say:

> The action discloses a squabble between Col. Dyer and Capt. A. D. Porter, his Adjutant * * * Coughlin's grievance is that an order of Col. Dyer cut short his tour through Great Britain with a band this Fall, after he had obtained permission, through Capt. Porter, as Adjutant, to conduct the tour. Col. Dyer denies that Capt. Porter had authority to act for him in agreements with Coughlin; * * * Col. Dyer says in his answer that he is not personally liable, since he never had any direct dealings with Coughlin on the subject of the tour. All the arrangements, he said, were made through his Adjutant, Capt. Porter, who acted without authority.

I should have replied to the above immediately had it not been that at the time of its publication Coughlin had applied to the courts for leave to withdraw the action, and I felt that any action by me at that time might prejudice Col. Dyer's case. Coughlin's motion has since been granted and the action dismissed, with the decision by the court that Coughlin pay triple costs. That means that Col. Dyer won, and without going into detail it may be said that Coughlin never had any cause of action against Col. Dyer or the Twelfth Regiment.

As to the unqualified statements that Col. Dyer and I were, or are, involved in a "squabble," and that I acted without authority, I want to say that there is not the slightest foundation for them. A careful perusal of the papers in the case will disclose not only that there was no "squabble" between Col. Dyer and myself; that Col. Dyer never made the statement that I acted without authority, but that in everything I did I acted with his authority, by his direction, and with his concurrence; and, further, that in all my actions in connection with the suit by Coughlin I was aiding Col. Dyer in his defense.

NORMAL COLLEGE NAMES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In January, 1909, the Associate Alumnae of the Normal College, with the full approval of President Davis, petitioned the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees to have the name of the college changed to "Hunter College of the City of New York."

Notwithstanding the fact that many members of the Board of Trustees approved the name "Hunter," because of the opposition of ex-Mayor McClellan, and without replying to our communication, this body had a bill introduced at Albany asking for the name "New York City College for Women."

This action met with immediate disapproval from the large majority of graduates and undergraduates of the college, and again, with the approval of President Davis, we prepared to fight for the name "Hunter." At the same time President Davis tried to induce Mayor Gaynor to suspend judgment until some action was taken at Albany. The hearing on the bill asking for the name "New York City College for Women" having been indefinitely postponed in the Committee on Cities of the Senate, the Committee on College Names of the Associate Alumnae petitioned the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees to grant a hearing on this question, with the hope that the Mayor would appoint a commission to be present also. This was done in the interest of fair play, and because we felt that the graduates of the past forty years had a right to be heard in regard to a name which they must bear.

Before this petition reached the board, and absolutely without our knowledge or connivance, a bill asking for the name "Hunter College of the City of New York" was introduced at Albany. We learn from the papers that the introduction of this bill, for which we were in no wise responsible, was resented by the board and, in spite of the fact that the majority of the Executive Committee and the President of the college sided with the Alumnae and undergraduates, the board voted for "New York City College for Women" without granting a hearing.

We appeal to public opinion and all alumni of colleges whether it is not without precedent for a board of trustees to refuse an alumni association a hearing on a matter so vital to them as a change of college name, before casting their votes for a name opposed almost unanimously by graduates and undergraduates.

REPUBLICAN FAULTS.

The Democrats Have Failed to Take Advantage of Them.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When, in the coming elections, the Republicans get the licking and lambasting they deserve they will probably regret they did not do something to relieve the necessities of the millions now suffering from the high cost of food.

Congress could have put all food products on the free list, and by so doing helped to reduce the cost of living and at the same time shown a disposition on their part to act for the welfare of the people they are supposed to represent; they have not done anything for the people nor shown any inclination that way.

This will have to be explained in the coming election.

President Taft in his continuous trips around the country keeps rubbing the smarting sore by extolling the tariff and praising Mr. Aldrich. What is his object? Perhaps by reiterating that statement a number of times he may come actually to believe himself that it's a good tariff bill and that he has actually and fully kept the pledges he made before his election.

Some weeks ago Representative Sabath, a Democrat from Chicago, brought in a bill putting all food products, including grain, on the free list. The bill seems to have been smothered.

The Democrats, as usual, there missed a fine opportunity. It would have been a big card for them to have pushed that bill.

The trouble now is that a dissatisfied Republican can't turn to the Democrats for better things. They are even worse than his own party. They have no able leaders that the people can trust and are malodorous with the Bryan taint.

The people are now in earnest, and won't be satisfied until the obnoxious leaders in Congress are forced to retire.

A REPUBLICAN.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorials regarding the recent tariff law have given me so much alarm that I have obtained a full copy of the document, and while I have not read all of the thousand or more paragraphs, a careful perusal of this extremely interesting book has allayed my alarms entirely. I feel that you owe it to your readers to call their attention to Paragraphs 495 and 680, from which they will gain the extremely comforting information that "appetites" and "spunk" are on the free list. Pray what more could the so-called suffering public demand from the Republican Party?

What if foodstuffs are heavily taxed, since without appetites we do not eat, and without spunk we are unfit for this strenuous world!

COUNT SIGRAY AND MISS DALY WEDDED

NUPTIALS AT BRIDE'S HOME

The wedding yesterday afternoon of Count Anton Sigray von Febre of Hungary and Miss Harriot Daly, the youngest daughter of the late Marcus Daly of Montana, and Mrs. Daly, was characterized by simplicity.

The ceremony took place at 3:30 o'clock in the drawing room of the town house of the bride's mother, 725 Fifth Avenue, which was decorated with palms and American Beauty roses.

As Count Sigray is a Roman Catholic and his bride is a Protestant, the Rev. Father Hughes of St. Patrick's Cathedral officiated, and none but the immediate relatives of the bride, the Marquis Pallavicini, and Baron Cziraky witnessed the ceremony. The bride wore a trained semi-princess robe of white satin draped with point lace, a point lace veil fastened with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. She had no attendants, but her little niece, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Carroll Brown of Baltimore, wearing a white frock and carrying a basket of lilies of the valley, was the flower girl. The Marquis Pallavicini of the Ninth Hussars was the Count's best man.

Marcus Daly gave his sister in marriage. Other relatives present were the bride's mother, Mrs. Daly, in mauve velvet; Mrs. James W. Gerard in pink satin veiled with black chiffon; Mrs. H. Carroll Brown, Judge Gerard, and Mr. Brown. A large reception followed at 4 o'clock.

The Count and Countess are booked to sail at an early date, and soon after arriving in Europe will go to the Count's country estates.

The engagement of Count Sigray and Miss Daly was announced on Feb. 13 in THE TIMES. He paid his first visit to this country about five years ago, when he came over with Count Micahel Karelyi. He was one of the attendants at the wedding in January, 1908, of Count Lazlo Széchényi and Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, when he met Miss Daly for the first time. Last Autumn he was one of the ushers at the wedding of Miss Anita Stewart in Scotland, and again met Miss Daly there.

Count Sigray has large estates in Sabutka, in Upper Hungary. He is the head of his family and is a member of the House of Magnates of Hungary. He has served in the Thirteenth Hussars and now holds the rang of Reserve Lieutenant. He is 30 years of age and is wealthy.

The Countess Sigray is the youngest daughter of the late Marcus Daly, and has been well liked in New York society since she made her début several years ago. She has traveled much, is quiet and unassuming, and notable for her good looks.

LONDON SEES AMERICAN PLAY.

"Alias Jimmy Valentine" Presented with a Strong Cast.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 29.—"Alias Jimmy Valentine," which is running at Wallack's Theatre in New York, was produced here to-night by Charles Frohman at the Comedy Theatre and met a reception that holds out a promise of a successful run here. Generally speaking, the New York presentation of the piece is superior to the English version, although certain crudities of Paul Armstrong's book have been eliminated. From a London point of view the cast is very strong because it includes two such favorites as George du Maurier in the title rôle and Harry Nicholls as Avery. Both actors made hits with their audience. Guy Standing was an excellent detective, but altogether the interpretation of the piece lost in transplantation to foreign soil.

MUSIC NOTES.

HOW SHACKLETON USED NEW-SKIN

In the precious seven pound parcel of medical stores that Lieut. Shackleton selected to take with him on the 127 day "final dash" for the South Pole where every superfluous ounce was dispensed with were two bottles of New-Skin.

On P. 11, Vol. 2, of his book, he writes:

"We were continually being frost-bitten up on the plateau . . . our heels got frost-bitten. My heels burst when we got on to hard stuff, and for some time my socks were caked with blood at the end of every day's march. Marshall put some 'New-Skin' on . . . and that stuck on well until the cracks had healed."

Again, Professor David, in his account of the expedition of himself and four others which Lieutenant Shackleton detached, and which started October 5, 1908 and on January 16, 1909, succeeded in reaching the South Magnetic Pole, writes (page 117, Vol. II.):

"The rough leather (of the ski boots) took the skin off my right heel, but (Dr.) Mackay fixed it up later in the evening with some 'New-Skin.'"

"New-Skin" is the liquid plaster which to-day takes the place of the old-time "court plaster." You paint it over a cut, scratch, scrape, bruise, chafed part, blister, or any other wound, and it instantly dries into a waterproof coating or "New-Skin," which won't wash off, even with hot water and a scrubbing brush till the place is well.

PROF. AGASSIZ DIES ON LINER AT SEA

Wireless from His Son on the Adriatic to Major Higginson Gives No Details.

HIS SCIENTIFIC WORK

A Son of the Noted Naturalist, He Followed Father's Career—Made Fortune in Copper.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 29.—Alexander Agassiz, the naturalist and President of the Calumet and Hecla Mining Company, died yesterday on the steamer Adriatic, bound from Southampton for New York. The news came in a wireless message from Maximilian Agassiz, his son, to Major Henry L. Higginson of Lee, Higginson & Co.

The news of Prof. Agassiz's death came as a great surprise and shock to his friends and relatives. He had been heard from frequently since he went abroad about New Year's time, and so far as his friends knew, he was in the best of health. Not since his departure for Europe had any word been received that would indicate that Prof. Agassiz was suffering from any ailment.

Major Higginson, who received the message announcing the death, was a brother-in-law of Prof. Agassiz.

Copper Market Unaffected.

Prof. Agassiz, besides being President of the Calumet and Hecla Mining Company, was a Direceor of the Allouez, Centennial, Manitou, and Smuggler Union Mining Companies, Frontenac Copper Company, New England Exploration Company, Marysville Dredging Company, and Tecumseh Copper Company. The news of his death did not affect the Boston Copper share market.

The Adriatic is due to arrive in port tomorrow. At the local office of the White Star Line yesterday it was stated that no message had been received from the Captain regarding the death of Prof. Agassiz, but that one of the professor's relatives had called at the office yesterday morning to make arrangements for the funeral on Thursday or Friday morning.

Alexander Agassiz, son of the noted naturalist, Prof. Jean Paul Louis Rodolphe Agassiz, was born in Neuchatel, Switzerland, in 1835. His mother was Cecile Braun, sister of Alexander Braun, the noted botanist and philosopher.

His Early Life Here.

His father came to America in 1846, but the son stayed in Switzerland until the death of his mother, when he came here at the age of 15. Graduating from Harvard in the class of '55, young Agassiz studied civil engineering in the Lawrence Scientific School of Harvard and graduated in 1857 with the degree of B. S. After spending three terms in the Chemical Department, he went to California in 1859 as assistant on the United States Coast Survey on the Northwestern boundary.

In this period he made a series of sketches of the various fish found in California waters and sent home a collection of specimens for his father. The greater part of 1860 was spent between Panama and Acapulco collecting specimens for the Museum of Comparative Zoology at Cambridge, and on his return to Cambridge he was made agent of the museum.

In 1866 Prof. Agassiz went to Lake Superior and was appointed Treasurer of the Calumet Mine, and in the following year he was appointed Superintendent of the Hecla and Calumet Mines. For two and a half years he worked fourteen hours a day on an average, and returned to Boston in 1869 as President of the joint companies.

His Donation to Harvard.

In the Fall of that year he went to Europe and made a tour of inspection to examine the museums of France, England, Germany, and Italy, and on his return to Cambridge he was made Assistant Curator of the museum. He was a liberal benefactor of the museum. President Eliot said that from 1871 to 1880 Prof. Agassiz had given fully $230,000 to a single department of the university. If he saw a need in one of the departments he supplied it and paid the bill. That was his way. His donations in all to Harvard University amounted to upward of $500,000. He was elected by the alumni one of the overseers in 1874, and chosen by the corporation to be one of its Fellows in 1878, but he resigned in 1885 owing to ill health.

In 1873 Mr. Agassiz became connected with the Anderson School of Natural History on Penikese Island, but differences with Mr. Anderson led to the closing of the school. Two years later he went to South America to examine the copper mines in Chile and Peru, and made an extensive survey of Lake Titicaca. With the aid of an assistant, Samuel Garman, he made a collection of Peruvian antiquities, which are now in the Peabody Museum. Later he was invited by Sir Wyville Thompson to assist him in making up the collection of the great English exploring expedition in the Challenger. He wrote a report on sea urchins which ranks high as a contribution to original research. He received the Walker Prize of $1,000 from the Boston Society of Natural History, and in 1878 the professor received the "Prix Serres," which is bestowed once every ten years by the Academy of Science of Paris.

Declined Carnegie's Offer.

From 1876 to 1881 he spent his Winters dredging in the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean Sea with great sucess. In 1904 he refused a gift from Andrew Carnegie for an expedition to make deep-sea soundings along the Pacific Coast from Lower California to Peru, and paid all the expenses, amounting to $75,000, out of his own pocket. It was called the "Agassiz Scientific Cruise," and Carnegie had offered $75,000 on the condition that it should be called the "Carnegie-Agassiz Cruise," which was the reason, it was said, that his offer was refused.

George Blair Painter.

George Blair Painter, a former partner in the Newcastle Stable, one of the important racing establishments, died yesterday at Miami, Fla., where he had gone in search of health. Mr. Painter was a native of Pittsburg, and was a member of the brokerage firm of Bishop, Laimbeer & Co. It was through his connection with this firm that he became a partner in the Newcastle Stable, which at that time was composed of Andrew Miller and Frank Bishop, besides Mr. Painter. For a season the stable was particularly strong and won many of the stakes of the racing year. The news of Mr. Painter's death was received at Jockey Club headquarters yesterday afternoon.

Ex-Judge John S. Barkalow.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., March 29.—Former Judge John Swartwout Barkalow died today at his home here. He was born in Somerville on Nov. 11, 1834, and was graduated from Yale in 1854. Three years later he was admitted to the New Jersey Bar. He was appointed City Attorney of Paterson in 1867, and in 1871 was made President Judge of the County Courts. In 1896 he was made a Judge of the Court of Errors and Appeals by Gov. Griggs, and in 1897 was reappointed. He retired from active work five years ago. He leaves a widow and one daughter, the wife of David Magie, Jr., son of the Rev. Dr. Magie, pastor emeritus of the Church of the Redeemer. Mrs. Barkalow is an aunt of Mrs. Garret A. Hobart, widow of the late Vice President Hobart.

Marcus Witmark.

Marcus Witmark, the head of the music publishing firm of M. Witmark & Co., died at his home, 57 West Eighty-eighth Street, yesterday in his seventy-sixth year. Mr. Witmark was born in Germany in 1834. He came to this country when he was 21 and had lived here ever since.

JAPANESE SPIES TRAPPED.

Americans in Philippines Lay in Wait Thirty Hours for Them.

MANILA, March 29.—Joseph Saxe, the soldier whom the two Japanese recently approached for the purpose of securing photographs and plans of the American fortifications in the Philippines, and who assisted in trapping them, has been in the army eleven years. He enlisted first in the Second Louisiana Infantry. He then served three years each in the Fourth and Thirteenth Cavalry, when he was transferred to the Engineer Corps.

Saxe was born in Chicago and his parents live in Waterbury, Conn. He is 33 years of age. He had been detailed on photographic work and consequently was in a position to furnish the desired photographs. Saxe is now confined to the limits of Fort Santiago, but will be sent home on the next transport.

The identity of the Japanese is uncertain. They are known generally as Suganami and Kawada. It is asserted that the former is the son of a Colonel in the Japanese Army. This, however, cannot be verified. Both men are linguists and have been in the islands for about a year.

It is believed that there was a third Japanese, who, however, failed to enter the house on Sunday when the others were captured. It is thought that he was to bring the bribe money. The Japanese watched the house all day Sunday before entering it, but the American officials outwitted them by taking up a position in the house on Saturday and remaining concealed there for thirty hours. The prisoners are being held in the custody of Col. Irons. The Japanese Consul has taken no action in the matter.

CONSERVATION FIGHT ON.

Chamberlain of Oregon Defends Roosevelt's Land Policies—Senators Line Up

WASHINGTON, March 29.—A speech in the Senate to-day by Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, in support of the Land Withdrawal bill, the first of the President's conservation measures, served to elicit from other Senators a number of remarks of a sufficiently varied character to justify the prediction that the conservation bills will be vigorously resisted when their consideration is reached.

The debate served to bring all of the members of the conservation sub-committee to their feet, and their utterances were confirmatory of the previous statement that Messrs. Smoot, Dixon, and Chamberlain would be found supporting the conservation bills and Messrs. Clark and Hughes opposing them.

Senator Clark of Wyoming declared that he and those who stood with him were not opposed to conservation, but to the policy of placing control of the public lands in the hands of one man. He called attention to President Roosevelt's act in withdrawing from entry 11,000,000 acres of land just before signing bills passed by Congress prohibiting such withdrawal.

Senator Smoot admitted the President had acted without detailed information, but not without general knowledge of the character of the lands. Mr. Chamberlain gave Mr. Roosevelt's course his hearty indorsement, regardless of the act of Congress, saying that he thought the President had prevented the taking up of much valuable land contrary to law.

BOY SHOT ON HOUSE STOOP.

Load of Buckshot Fired from Ambush Gives a Mortal Wound.

As he sat on the rear stoop of his home at 504 East 120th Street yesterday afternoon William Nicholson, 10 years old, was wounded by buckshot. He was taken to the Harlem Hospital, where his condition was said to be serious. No trace has been obtained of the person who did the shooting. It is supposed the shot came either from the roof or window of a house in the rear.

Willie had received a piece of pie from his mother and had been sent to the stoop to eat it. He had not been seated a minute when a gunshot was heard and the boy fell, shot in the right hand, in the wrist, and in the stomach.

Some boys ran across the street to Public School 163 and told Miss Louise E Tucker, the Principal. With Miss Margaret McCrady, the nurse of the school, she hurried to Willie's home, where the mother was holding the boy in her lap. They attended him until Dr. L. Baumann, who lives across the street, and Dr Elliott of the Harlem Hospital arrived. They found that the top of the thumb and first finger of the boy's right hand had been shot off, and shot had penetrated the boy's stomach. The latter wound may be fatal.

Detectives, under Capt. Walsh of the East 126th Street Station, went to work on the case.

TRANSIENTS DINE DR. BURRELL

When the Rev. David James Burrell married, which was some years ago, he came to New York on his honeymoon. The young pastor took his wife to a New York church, he told last night, and was detained in the vestibule by an usher twenty minutes, while the pewholders were being seated. He finally gave it up and went back to his hotel.

"I resolved then and there," he went on, "that if I ever got a metropolitan pulpit I'd make my church a place of welcome for all strangers, and that no one should be held up in the vestibule."

He got his metropolitan pulpit in the Marble Collegiate Church, Fifth Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street, many years ago, and put his resolve into effect. Some 40,000 non-members of his church, many of them in the city for a few days only, annually worship there.

A few days ago about a dozen of these decided to give a dinner in honor of Dr. Burrell. In spite of the fact that most of these non-members visit New York only now and then, nearly a hundred of them heard about the plan, and joined in; and last night they sat down in the Park Avenue Hotel with Dr. Burrell as the guest.

The diners gave Dr. Burrell a traveling bag and a walking stick. He said he could not live a very long time now, but that he hoped when he did die those in the Marble Collegiate Church would continue worshipping at Fifth Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street as long as the old edifice stood, and as now they worship there.

Brooklyn Centenarian Dead.

Morris A. Hyman, who lived with his daughter, Mrs. Isaac Simon, at 166 Pulaski Street, Brooklyn, died there on Monday after a few days' illness. His death was due to old age. Mr. Hyman was born on Sept. 3, 1810, in Russia, and came to this country forty years ago. He maintained his faculties until the end. It was his custom to take daily walks through the parks in the neighborhood of his home until he was taken ill. He is survived by five daughters, three sons, nearly fifty grandchildren, and many great-grandchildren.

DR. THOMAS RAINEY, BRIDGE FATHER, DEAD

Lecturer Spent 25 Years and $600,000 Trying to Promote Building of East River Bridge.

GOLD MEDAL HIS REWARD

Tablet Commemorating His Work in Seeking to Build a Bridge Will Be Placed on the Queensboro.

Dr. Thomas Rainey, known as "The Father of the Bridge" because he spent twenty-five years of his life and $600,000, his entire fortune, in an endeavor to promote the building of a bridge across the East River, between Manhattan and Long Island City, died yesterday at his home, 349 Lexington Avenue. The immediate cause of his death was pneumonia, but he had been in failing health for some time, owing to his advanced age—85 years.

Dr. Rainey was born in Yanceville, N. C., in 1824. He was the oldest of fifteen children, and lived at home until 1842, when, because of a thrashing, he ran away and wandered out West. With only the moderate education he had picked up in the local schools and with a pistol and $3.50 in his pocket, he continued his journeyings by working his way until he had crossed West Virginia, Ohio, and Missouri. He taught school at the age of 18, and thus acquired enough money to go to St. Louis, where he studied phonography, arithmetic by cancellation, and medicine. For several years he lectured throughout Missouri and Iowa, and in 1847 published "Rainey's Improved Abacus," a treatise on arithmetic and geometry by cancellation. Afterward he lectured in Ohio and Indiana and established first The Ohio Teacher, then The Western Review, and finally in 1852 The Cincinnati Daily Republican.

It was about this time that Dr. Rainey became acquainted with such scientists as Prof. Agassiz and Prof. O. M. Mitchell and such journalists as Greeley, Dana, Raymond, Bennett, and Webb. He became actively interested in politics, and at the request of the National Whig Committee established The Cincinnati Daily Republican as their official organ. He also went to Washington, where he became acquainted with Daniel Webster, then Secretary of State. In 1853, through his scientist friends, he was appointed Consul to Bolivia. Dr. Rainey had opposed the election of Pierce, and so refused the appointment.

He did go to South America, however, the next year, where he made many explorations in the Amazon Valley, and decided to make Brazil his future home. This decision he admitted later in life was "the great mistake of his life." In 1857 Dr. Rainey went to Europe, where he studied steam navigation. Returning to Brazil he purchased a concession to operate a fleet of steam ferries in the Bay of Rio Janeiro. He built sixteen new vessels and made a considerable fortune in this business between 1860 and 1874.

He then returned to this city, settled in Ravenswood and devoted all his time and energy to furthering his project of a bridge over Blackwell's Island. He spent all his money and ruined his health in his efforts to get the men and capital to carry out his ideas, going many times to Albany and Washington to interest political leaders in his plans. These were for a cantilever bridge, primarily intended for railroad use, to cost $6,000,000, and it was to be constructed on almost the same site as that on which the $17,000,000 Queensboro Bridge now stands.

Dr. Rainey failed to interest capital in his project, and retired a broken, weary man, to live the last ten years of his life at the home of his youngest sister, Mrs. William P. Covington. He never gave up hope, however, that "his bridge," as he called it, would be realized, and when the Queensboro Bridge was completed last year he took as much pride in it as if he had had a part in its actual building. Last May he stole out of his home and walked across the bridge. "This is my bridge," he said when found by his anxious family. "It is the child of my thought and of long years of arduous toil and sacrifice."

At the time of the bridge celebration Dr. Rainey received a gold medal inscribed "The Father of the Bridge," and a tablet commemorating his work in seeking to build a bridge across the East River will be placed on the Queensboro Bridge.

Dr. Rainey's wife, who was Grace Priscilla Ogden, daughter of John Ogden of this city, died last August. They had no children.

JOHN STEIBLING IS DEAD.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Expires After Railway Accident—Roosevelt Protege.

John Steibling, Chief Deputy United States Marshal, right-hand man of Marshal Henkel, and for many years one of the best-known characters on the lower east side, died suddenly last night in the Hatfield House, at 41 Ridge Street. His death is supposed to have been the result of an accident a few days ago in which he was caught in a railroad wreck in the South, whither he had taken several Federal prisoners sentenced for long terms in the Atlanta prison.

Steibling, who was 62 years old, was a protégé of ex-President Roosevelt, who appointed him Chief Deputy Marshal shortly after he became President.

Many years ago Steibling was active in the old Twelfth Assembly District. He organized what was known as the Ivy Coterie, which became a menace to the organization of Leader John Simpson. Later the Ivy Coterie consolidated with Simpson's organization.

Lawrence Scudder Mott.

Lawrence Scudder Mott, a retired newspaper man, died yesterday at his home in Newark, N. J., of Bright's disease, aged 54 years. He was a legislative correspondent at Trenton, N. J., for a quarter of a century. He was graduated from Princeton University in 1877, and after leaving college worked on The Philadelphia Times. He was one of the original owners of The Newark Evening News, and was a member of its editorial staff for a time. After Mr. Mott left The News he became affiliated for a time with The New York Tribune, Mail and Express, and Commercial Advertiser. He is survived by a widow, two daughters, and one son.

Gen. Thomas L. Rosser.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., March 29.—Gen. Thomas Lafayette Rosser, aged 73, died to-night. He was a member of the class at West Point when ordered into the field by Lincoln, but he resigned and entered the service of the Confederacy at Montgomery as First Lieutenant. When the surrender came he refused to capitulate, and, cutting his way through the Union lines, took the shattered remnants of his command to Lynchburg and there disbanded them. When the war with Spain was declared he was appointed a Brigadier General of volunteers.

DIDN'T RECOGNIZE MISS TAFT.

President's Daughter Mingled with Visiting Teachers in Statuary Hall.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Miss Helen Taft, the daughter of the President, moved about among several hundred New England school teachers and students in Statuary Hall at the Capitol this afternoon, none of the New Englanders being the wiser. Miss Taft was in company with several yound friends, her party afterward visiting the House of Representatives, where they occupied seats in the executive gallery.

More than 2,000 tourists gathered from the schools of Connecticut and other New England States have been sightseeing in the capital for the last two days. Quite a number of them were in charge of several Capitol guides, when Miss Taft strolled through the Capitol late this afternoon. For a few moments the President's daughter joined the curious ones who were viewing the bronze and marble statues in Statuary Hall, and then, unrecognized, although many of the teachers had often seen her photograph, she summoned her companions and proceeded to the House galleries.

KILLED FROM AMBUSH.

Mississippi Planter Conducted Crusade Against White Cappers.

MEADVILLE, Miss., March 29.—Millard F. Byrd, a wealthy planter, was shot and killed from ambush as he was riding to his home yesterday. No trace of his assasins has yet been found.

Byrd was active for several years in a crusade against "white cappers," and it is thought that this may have been responsible for his death.

STONE OUTPOINTS DORMAN.

Fairmount A. C. Members See Good Sport in Special Bouts.

Manager Gibson's experiment of holding a special show last night for members of the Fairmont Athletic Club in the Bronx and their friends was an unquestioned success. The arena was well filled, and an excellent bill was furnished by the management. Four bouts were scheduled, and although all of them did not go the limit there was enough fighting to satisfy the most exacting. It is probable that the club materially increased its membership by the free entertainment.

Harry Stone defeated Jack Dorman after ten rounds of clever fighting in the main bout. Dorman failed to show his old-time form, althoug he still retains a stiff punch. Stone jabbed his man repeatedly, but avoided infighting, which was Dorman's strongest point. Although the first round was somewhat tame, the fighters warmed up as the contest progressed.

Dorman was best in the sixth, seventh, and eighth rounds, when he held his own with his clever opponent. Stone again took the lead in the ninth round. Dorman made a rally in the tenth, but could not overcome Stone's early lead.

The semi-final bout brought together Mickey McDonough and Jim Smith, a pair of hard-hitting middleweights. What the men lacked in science they more than made up in willingness. It was a slap-bang affair with Smith the aggressor, and he made a chopping block of his opponent for eight rounds. McDonough gamely took his punishment, but despite the advantage of eight pounds in weight was no match for Smith.

As a curtain-raiser Young McDonough and Young Mitchell engaged in a four-round bout. It was not a particularly lively exhibition, but McDonough earned the verdict.

The referee played an important part in the second bout by stopping the contest to save Tommy Ginty from a knockout. The bout was scheduled for six rounds, but in the second Mike Egan caught Ginty on the jaw with a hard right, which dropped the latter. Ginty staggered to his feet, but was compelled to grab the ropes for support. The contest up to the time it was stopped by the referee was hotly contested with honors about even.

NEWS OF THE FIGHTERS.

Paddy Sullivan, the "fighting Irishman," and Sammy Smith, have been matched for ten rounds in the star bout at the Sharkey Club to-night. Sullivan's recent victories over Kid Henry at Troy and Amby McGarry, show that he has come back to good form. Smith beat Bobby Wilson and Cy Smith in his last fights. Both Sullivan and Smith have been training hard for their go to-night. Jimmy Moran and Joe Ferguson, the boy who has a decision over Pal Moore, will be in the semi-final.

Declaring that he has injured his hand, Stanley Ketchel has canceled his contract to meet Jimmy Howard, the Southern champion, at Memphis on April 6.

The arena at Emeryville, Cal., where the Jeffries-Johnson fight is scheduled to take place July 4, will be "dry" on that day, according to James Gleason, one of the promoters. "Even if I were offered $3,000 in cash for a bar privilege for the arena, I would not consider the proposition," said Gleason. "I am afraid that if intoxicants were sold at the ringside, a race riot might be started by the followers of Jeffries and Johnson. The fans will have to go thirsty during the battle, for there will be no drink served."

Another date has been set for the fight between "Tommy" Burns, the American pugilist, and "Bill" Lang, heavyweight champion of Australia, for the Australian title. The new date announced is April 11, at Sydney. The fight was originally scheduled for March 28, and subsequently postponed to April 20.

Klaus Knocks Out Mantell.

BOSTON, Mass., March 29.—Frank Klaus of Pittsburg knocked out Frank Mantell of Pawtucket in the ninth round of their bout at the Armory Athletic Association to-night. Mantell had the affair won on points up to the middle of the sixth round, when an uppercut to the jaw put him down for the count. In the ninth, a succession of hard punches, followed by another uppercut to the jaw, put Mantell out for keeps.

CATHEDRAL BOYS BEST IN RELAY RACE

R. G. Schultz's Victory in 60-Yard Novice Event Protested and Medal Withheld.

The annual indoor meet of St. Ann's Junior Holy Name Society brought out several hundred athletes at the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory last night. The athletes represented all the clubs and organizations allied with the Catholic Athletic League and most of the events were closed.

The mile run furnished one of the most exciting races of the meet, Mr. Hughes, the Ozanam Athletic Association runner, coming up from behind in the last lap, beating out J. Murphy of the Knights of St. Anthony by less than an inch. Murphy ran a strong race, and led most of the distance. Hughes did not appear to be in the race at all until near the end, when he turned loose in a remarkable sprint.

An eight-lap relay, covering 1,408 yards, brought out a big field of nearly 100 runners, representing six organizations of the Catholic Athletic League. The event was run off in six heats, and was won by the Cathedral Boys' Club after a thrilling finish between G. Lynch of St. Ann's team and Urell of the Cathedral Boys' team, after a dash around the track on even terms. It was not until the final jump for the tape that Urell forged ahead by a fraction of an inch. The race was the best event of the night, and had the big crowd yelling itself hoarse over the result.

The 60-yard dash for novices was an easy victory for R. G. Schultz of the Church of the Nativity. Schultz won his heats by such large margins that he slowed up and waited for the field to catch up with him. His easy victory gave rise to the suspicion that he was not eligible to the novice class. It was asserted that Schultz, as a member of the Bedford Y. M. C. A., had competed in meets which barred him from the novice class. He denied this, however, but his medal was withheld pending an investigation.

The 440-yard relay for boys was won by the lads of the Church of the Immaculate Conception. The runners of this team took the lead at the start, and held it throughout the race. Municle took the first relay and led his competitors to the top by twenty yards. E. J. Shalvey of St. Ann's Church had to cover the 60-yard course in 7 seconds flat to win in the handicap event. He had a handicap of 11 feet, but won by a narrow margin.

Runners from the Cathedral Boys' Club carried off all the honors in the 300-yard handicap. John Urell won the event, closely followed by his two clubmates, Roberts and Barrett.

The three-mile open event brought out only a small field of runners, and A. Conroy, the Mott Haven cross-country runner, won the race by more than 100 yards from W. Powers, the Irish-American runner. The summaries:

60-Yard Dash, Novice, Closed to Catholic Athletic League.—Won by R. S. Shultz, Church of the Nativity; J. Cunningham, St. Ann's Church, second; J. Reilly, McCadden Lyceum, third. Time—0:07 1-5.

THAW SEES BROADWAY AGAIN.

Harry K. Thaw, happy to get another glimpse of Broadway, sped up that thoroughfare from the Criminal Court Building to the Hotel Astor in a taxicab yesterday afternoon, and later returned by the same route to the Tombs, where he held an informal reception for old friends among the guards.

Thaw's airing was made possible through the action of Judge Holt in deciding that while he is under subpoena in the suit brought by Clifford W. Hartridge against Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw for $94,000 in counsel fees for services in the first Thaw trial he need not return to Matteawan each night, but may be kept in the Tombs.

Thaw slept last night in Cell 110 on the seventh Tombs tier, in company with a Matteawan keeper. He seemed in an exceptionally jovial mood, and his physical appearance was better than at any previous visit to the city since his commitment to Matteawan. He was an interested listener at the trial yesterday, but his presence did no attract the number of people to the courtroom that assembled on the first day.

In the examination of Mr. Hartridge, which occupied both the morning and afternoon sessions, both Thaw and his mother made copious notes as the witness told in detail of his services for the family and of his visits to many resorts in search of witnesses for the Thaw defense. He tried to tell of the meeting of Thaw with Evelyn Nesbit and of the trip to Europe that followed, but was prevented by a ruling of the court.

One large item of his service, he said, was influencing newspaper reporters to write only friendly comment on the trial, and in this he testified that he succeeded in seeing the representatives of every New York newspaper at least once a day. This task, he asserted, continued from the time of White's killing to the end of the first trial.

When the witness specified that he had delivered three boxes of papers to Thaw, Mr. Kellogg of counsel for Mrs. Thaw objected, remarking that "a lawyer at Mr Hartridge's rates was a pretty expensive messenger."

Mrs. Thaw accompanied her son to the Tombs after the taxicab ride to the Hotel Astor for dinner.

HARBOR TUG MEN TO STRIKE.

Want 8-Hour Day by Thursday Midnight or Will Tie Up River Traffic.

No adjustment of the grievances of the 250 members of the American Association of Masters, Mates, and Pilots employed on railway tugs of the harbor and the East and North Rivers having been effected yesterday, officers of the association declared last night that a general tie-up of railway tug traffic was almost inevitable. General Manager Luther B. Dow of the association said:

"An ultimatum has been issued to the managers of all railway companies having tugs plying in the harbor and the East and North Rivers that unless the demand made by members of the association for an eight-hour day be granted by midnight on Thursday all those making the demands will resign at once, and a general tie-up of all railway tug traffic will ensue."

Conferences were held between officials of the association and Marine Managers Pollock of the New York Central and McGuire of the Lehigh Valley, but no adjustment was effected.

President Taft Takes Horseback Ride.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—President Taft varied his afternoon outings with a horseback ride to-day. He rode through Potomac Park and on the drive along the river. The park was filled with automobiles, carriages, and riders. The afternoon was like one in midsummer.

FEDERAL INSURANCE CONTROL

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 29.—Darwin P. Kingsley, President of the New York Life Insurance Company, made an earnest plea for Federal control of insurance at the annual banquet of the Life Underwriters' Association of Western Massachlusetts here to-night. He dwelt on the governmental problems which now menace the growth of insurance, and took issue with Senator Root, who renectly announced his opposition to National supervision, on the ground that the various branches of government at Washington have practically reached the limit of their powers.

PASTOR REBUKED BY COURT.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 29.—The Rev. Ernest L. Wismer, pastor of the Davenport Avenue Congregational Church, was summoned before Judge Wolfe of the Common Pleas Court today and declared to have been in contempt for writing a letter to a juror, Elbert M. Rose of North Branford, criticising the jury, and Rose in particular, for acquitting Albert Hollworth, a saloonkeeper, on charges of violation of the excise laws.

Judge Wolfe gave the clergyman a sharp rebuke, telling him that the criticism was tantamount to a "threat and species of intimidation."

YANKEES BRACE UP NEAR END OF GAME

Montreal Changes Pitchers and Then New York Pulls Out Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

ATHENS, Ga., March 29.—Though his Montreal club lost again to the New York Americans by a score of 6 to 5 this afternoon, Manager Edward Barrows is not satisfied that his old rival, George Stallings, has the better club. Barrows challenged for a third game to be played to-morrow morning, and was accommodated. The Montreal club will be unable to leave town before 3:30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, and both teams are anxious for practice. They will play at 10:30 A. M.

The game to-day was faster and more interesting than that of yesterday. The play was perhaps not as clean, so far as the box score indicates, but there was less misjudgment. Charlie Hemphill replaced Clyde Engel in left field, and Otis Johnson took a whirl at little Jimmy Austin's place at third base. Both hit the ball hard. Hemphill could not drive the leather safe, but only a phenomenal catch by Nattress in deep right field kept the veteran from a home run. Johnson made a hit and stole two bases, but he helped put Dick Carroll in the hole in the ninth inning by a wild and futile throw on a slow roller that Bailey had beaten anyhow.

Jack Warhop worked seven innings for the victors, and Dick Carroll finished the game. Warhop had a very bad inning. Hall's home run off him in the fourth drove in a couple of base runners. The little iron man was lucky to escape so easily, for with the bases full, only one out, and three counts already tallied, a miscue at the squeeze play retired the side. Joyce fanned and Mitchell doubled Colvin at the plate standing up. The run off Carroll in the ninth wasn't altogether big Dick's fault. Johnson's wild fling over Knight gave Bailey second base. The Canadian advanced on an out and scored on Colvin's swat to left. But if Dick had been to blame he atoned for his error in New York's half. His drive to left, which Joyce kicked, put him on second. Wolter poked one to the right field fence for the winning run, after Cree's sacrifice put Carroll on third.

Joyce hit Warhop for a homer in the first inning. Cree duplicated the performance at the expense of big Jim Wiggs in the second half. Mitchell put the Yankees in the lead in the second with a clip that scored Johnson from third. Otis hit with two down, stole second, and took third on Krichel's poor throw. Bumpus Jones pitched from the third to the seventh innings for Montreal. New York could do little with him. Keefe lost the game in the last three innings. The score:

SEYMOUR WIELDS BAT.

Special to The New York Times.

SHREVEPORT, La., March 29.—The New York Giants defeated Shreveport again before they left town this afternoon for Birmingham. The game was not scheduled, but as it was an excellent morning for practice Manager McGraw and Dale Gear decided to have a free practice game for the benefit of those fans who were disappointed in not seeing Mathewson pitch yesterday.

It was an easy victory for New York, as Pitchers Ames, Crandall, Mathewson, and Drucke felt like letting themselves out. Ames struck out every batter that faced him during his term of two innings. Seymour scored most of the runs for New York, and drove in the others. He made four clean hits out of as many times at the bat, and stole two bases. The Giants left here at 8 o'clock for Birmingham, Ala., where they play to-morrow. The score:

KLING WON'T PAY FINE.

Puts It Up to Chicago Club—Wants Increase in Salary.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 29.—John Kling is not worrying about the amount of fine the National Commission assesses in his case.

"I don't care what they fine me," he said in an interview published here to-day. "If Charles W. Murphy wants to pay my fine I shall play ball with the Chicago Club again. But I will not pay the fine myself."

Kling added that if he plays after being reinstated he will expect to receive a larger salary than he got during the season of 1908.

President Thomas J. Lynch of the National League yesterday refused to discuss the comments of President Ban Johnson of the American League on the action of the National Commission in the Kling case. Johnson is quoted as saying that Mr. Lynch made a mistake in siding with Chairman August Herrmann to reinstate Kling, but the American League President said he would not criticise Mr. Lynch's action because he was a new man in the office.

Mr. Lynch said that the full decision in the case would be given out to-morrow, and it would then be seen that the commission's action was fair to Kling, to the Chicago Club, and to organized baseball.

Brooklyn Wins on Few Hits.

Special to The New York Times.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 29.—Dahlen's Dodgers wound up their series here to-day with a clever victory over the Chattanooga team by a score of 2 to 1. It was a battle of the pitchers, with both sides fielding brilliantly, the big leaguers having just a shade the better of the game. The Chattanoogas outbatted them by twelve hits to five, but when it came to defensive work Dahlen's tribe was there.

The only tally registered by the locals was on a home run over the left field fence by Patterson. The Brooklyns made all their runs in the opening chapter, a pass to Burch, Hunter's single, a sensational double steal, and a wallop by Daubert turning the trick. After that the Brooklyns made only three scattered hits. The eighth inning showed up the Dahlenites badly, for they had the sacks filled with nobody out and failed to score.

Paul Sentelle left for Atlanta to-day. He will play shortstop for the Southern champions. The score:

President of O. and P. League Dead.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, March 29.—Samuel L. Wright, President of the Ohio and Pennsylvania Baseball League, died to-night after several weeks' illness. He was manager of the team here in 1907 and 1908, when Youngstown won the pennant, and was elected President of the league last January. Wright was 45 years old and was formerly a telegrapher.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Fordham University's baseball team will open its home season at Fordham Field, 190th Street and Third Avenue, on Friday afternoon in a game with the College of the City of New York team. Saturday the Bronx collegians will line up against St. John's College on the home field.

The Greater New York Department Store Baseball League will hold a meeting to-morrow night in the recreation room of R. H. Macy & Co.'s store, which will be the permanent meeting place of this association.

Garry Herrmann of the Cincinnati Club has accepted the resignation of Catcher Larry McLean, who was suspended for insubordination in the training camp. McLean is now asking to be reinstated, and probably will be at a decrease in salary. Herrmann refused to trade the player.

The Cleveland Club will open its new grounds on Thursday, April 21, and will have a large and distinguished attendance of baseball men from many cities. The Detroit Club will have the honor of being the first club to play against the Cleveland Club in its new home, and it is probable that the Mayor of Cleveland and President Ban Johnson of the American League will participate in the dedication.

RELIABILITY AUTO RUN IN NEW JERSEY

First Tour Under New Rules from New York to Atlantic City and Return.

A two-day automobile reliability contest from New York to Atlantic City and return on May 10 and 11, which was announced last night by the Motor Contest Association, 1,777 Broadway, will be the first touring competition to be conducted under the 1910 rules, recently promulgated by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association. This tour will take the place of the three-day-around-New-Jersey tour, which aroused a great deal of interest through the State last Summer, and will be followed one month later by a three-day reliability run known as around-Long-Island tour.

During a conference between Samuel M. Butler, Chairman of the A. A. A. Contest Board, and W. J. Morgan, President of the Motor Contest Association, the question of another race at Riverhead similar to the one in which Louis Chevrolet averaged seventy miles per hour last Summer was tentatively discussed, and this race, if it takes place, will be held on June 24 and 25, with the classes divided for a two days' meeting. These events are all that are scheduled at present by the Motor Contest Association, although a hill climb is under consideration.

The two-day Jersey contest will have its night stop in Atlantic City on the same night that a big delegation of Harrisburg motorists are due to arrive there as contestants in the Harrisburg club's Spring tour. On the run to Atlantic City the trip will be made by way of Lakewood, stopping there for the noon control and luncheon. On the return trip the tourists will pass over another route, stopping at Trenton for the noon control and covering substantially the same route that was adopted for the jubilee event last Summer.

Application will be made for a sanction covering a reliability contest in which penalties are imposed for time and road work only, according to the fixed schedule of penalties of the American Automobile Association. It will be open to stock cars according to the A. A. A. definition of "stock car," and each car will carry an observer appointed by a rival entrant. The general rules of the A. A. A. and the special rules applying to reliability contests will govern the event. Gold, silver, and bronze medals will be awarded for the first, second, and third highest scores in each class, and these prizes will be supplemented with official certificates.

SPORTING NEWS IN BRIEF.

With an average of 100 Willie Hoppe equaled the world's record of Jacob Schaefer at 18.2 balk line billiards in Los Angeles on Monday night in an exhibition game with Ora Morningstar. Hoppe made 400 in four runs, the third being 275, while Morningstar made 198, his highest run being 177.

Gov. Fred M. Warner of Michigan has accepted an invitation to speak at the banquet of the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers to be held at the Hotel Astor on April 7. The Banquet Committee, of which H. B. Joy is Chairman, announces that the other speakers will include Arthur Brisbane, Street Commissioner W. H. Edwards, and Charles Clifton. The toastmaster will be Job E. Hedges.

An attractive programme of military and athletic events has been arranged for the fifty-seventh games of the Seventh Regiment, to be held at the armory on Saturday evening. The card includes 93 yards, 220 yards, 440 yards, 880 yards, 1,000 yards potato race, half and one-mile roller skating, sack race, 220-yard hurdle, interscholastic relay, college relay, intercompany relay, tent raising contest, rescue race 352 yards, heavy marching order; wall scaling, 176 yards, two walls 10 and 8 feet, and military relay.

Stars of the athletic world will strive for the handsome prizes to be awarded in the diamond meet of the St. Malachy's Athletic Club in the Twenty-second Regiment Armory on Saturday evening. The prizes—diamond rings to first, second, and third men in all events—were donated by politicians and prominent persons in St. Malachy's parish, and have attracted the entries of the best men in the East. The feature event probably will be the quarter-mile handicap, in which Harry Gissing and his rival, Abel Kiviat, have been asked to start.

In accordance with a mail vote of the National Championship Committee, the gymnastic championships of the Amateur Athletic Union will be held on April 29 at the Bohemian Gymnastic Society clubhouse, 420 East Seventy-first Street, New York. These championships will be conducted under the auspices of the Amateur Athletic Union. The following events will be contested: Rings, horizontal bars, rope climb, side horse, long horse, parallel bars, tumbling, Indian club swinging, all-around championships. Entry blanks can be secured from James E. Sullivan, 21 Warren Street.

Umberto Blasi, the latest Italian importation in the running line, and one of the contestants in the Marathon Derby which will be run at the Polo Grounds next Saturday afternoon, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon on board the steamship Chicago. He is a stout looking little chap, built on the same lines as some of the other champions, and said he was in the best of health and ready for a hard race. He kept up work all the way across, running every morning and afternoon on the deck of the boat.

The Christ Church Athletic Association held its annual indoor games last night at the church auditorium. There were roller skating, sack, stilt, obstacle, hurdle, chariot, wheelbarrow, three-legged, and relay races, and a number of other events. The feature of the programme turned out to be the mounted wrestling, where teams of two—one boy sitting on another's shoulders—tried to pull each other down.

New Subscriptions for Special.

Five new subscriptions were received yesterday to the Saratoga Special, the two-year-old sporting stake of the Saratoga Association. With these additions the total is brought up to sixteen, which greatly exceeds the list of last season. The new ones to be sent in were two from James R. Keene and one each from August Belmont, Harry La Montagne, and Francis R. Hitchcock, Treasurer of the Coney Island Jockey Club. John E. Madden wired that he had mailed his entries from Kentucky, and it is probable that he will take at least one subscription in the Special, while he will be well represented in the other stakes that closed Monday at midnight.

DIXIE'S OWNER WILLING.

F. K. Burnham Will Give Hoosier Boy Handicap in Match Race.

Frederick K. Burnham, a prominent member of the Thousand Islands Yacht Club, whose Intruder, guaranteed to have a speed of 35 miles an hour, is now fast nearing completion at City Island, and who recently purchased Dixie II. from E. J. Schroeder, at a price reported to be upward of $10,000, said yesterday that thus far no races had been arranged for either of his craft with J. W. Whitlock's Hoosier Boy, champion of the Great Lakes and the Central West. But he signified his willingness for a race.

Dispatches from Buffalo had stated that Mr. Whitlock, who lives in Rising Sun, Ind., and Mr. Burnham, who resides in this city, had agreed on Buffalo as the place for the first race in a three-race series between their respective boats, because it was centrally located. The second was to have been held, report said, in New York waters, with the scene of the third contest, if a deciding one became necessary, left in doubt at the present time.

Mr. Burnham emphatically denied yesterday that he had entered into any such agreement, or that he had even been approached in that connection. He said:

"I will bet Mr. Whitlock anything he wants from $1,000 to $5,000 for one race, or the best two out of three between his Hoosier Boy and either my Intruder or Dixie II. And, in addition, I'll give him a handicap, so that he will not have any cause for complaint. The handicap can be figured, according to the American Power Boat Association ratings, if Mr. Whitlock wants it that way. If he desires a race, he'll find me more than willing, with either next July or August the time, and almost any old place the scene."

The final block and brake test of the eight-cylinder, 250 horse power Sterling engine which is to propel Intruder's hull will be made at Buffalo next Tuesday. Mr. Burnham and Henry Gielow, who is the designer of the craft, are going to Buffalo to witness it. Mr. Burnham said that the motor had turned up 261 horse power at 1,000 revolutions recently, and that several refinements made since then would probably see the engine delivering 275 horse power by the time Intruder was ready for her races.

"Mr. Gielow told me lately," Mr. Burnham said yesterday, "that I can 'bank on 31 or 32 knots an hour for Intruder.' I don't think so myself, because 36 or 37 mile boats are not turned out every day."

NEW VANDERBILT YACHT.

Harold Stirling Vanderbilt has placed an order with the Herreshoffs for a seventy-foot racing and cruising yacht. Mr. Vanderbilt, who, while still a Harvard undergraduate, owned and raced the forty-five-foot Trivia, a Herreshoff production, launched in 1902, wants a bigger boat with both racing and ocean cruising capabilities.

The terms of the order were that the new craft must be ready to go into commission before the end of next June, when her owner intends to use her for an extended cruise in foreign waters. She will be constructed of wood, with oaken keel and timbers, hard pine planking, and a teak deck. Her water line length will be fifty-seven feet, with moderate overhangs.

Her crew will consist of seven men, sufficient to handle her contemplated spread of 7,000 square feet of canvas. She will not be much, if at all, over six feet in draught and will be schooner rigged.

Billiards and Pool.

Two games were played last night in the three-cushion carrom billiard tournament at McGraw's Billiard Academy, Thirty-fifth Street and Sixth Avenue. In the first game Frank Becker, handicapped at 5, defeated Charles Hansell (3) in eighty-one innings by the score of 35 to 30. Becker's high run was 3 and Hansell's 3. The game was nip and tuck up to the seventy-fourth inning, when Becker ran away from his opponent. Among the spectators present were some old-time players, who said Becker made some of the best shots ever made on a billiard table. Hansell did some good bridge work, making three rail shots that were hair-raisers. In the second game, C. B. Beyers defeated C. H. Worrington by the score of 30 to 26. Beyer's high run was 3, three times, and Worrington's was 3, three times. Both men played at scratch and the game lasted eighty-one innings.

In the first game of the play-off of the triple tie in the amateur handicap pool tournament J. Schreyer, handicapped at 5, defeated "Kid" Andrews (3) by the score of 55 to 34. In to-night's game G. W. Hayman will battle with J. Schreyer for first place.

In last night's game of "Yannigans" three-cushion carrom handicap billiard tournament at John Doyle's Billiard Academy, Forty-second Street and Broadway, George Torrence defeated J. Matthews by the score of 20 to 17. In the continuation of the Class A pool tournament H. Phelps won from Dr. Howe by a score of 75 to 62. There will be games in both tournaments played this evening.

COACHING RECORD IN RUN TO LAKEWOOD

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., March 29.—The coaching record between Atlantic City and Lakewood, a distance of 75 miles, was reduced to-day by Paul A. Sorg, the New York Horse Show exhibitor, who covered the distance in 6 hours and 9 minutes. Mr. Sorg pulled up in front of the Laurel House 9 minutes after 2 o'clock this afternoon, having left Atlantic City at 8 o'clock this morning, thus reducing the record by 45 minutes. During the journey of 75 miles Mr. Sorg averaged over 12 miles an hour. The coaching party arrived in Lakewood in time to witness the polo carnival on the Georgian Court field.

Mr. Sorg started from Young's Hotel, Atlantic City, with the following guests on his coach: Charles A. Baudoine, J. P. McGowan, G. L. McHose, J. D. Armstrong, D. H. Gaines, E. W. Griffith, N. M. Smith, R. W. Bricey, and H. P. Martin. The party spent a week at the seashore for the horse show, and comprises the same persons who made the trip to Atlantic City a week ago. The start was made in splendid coaching weather, and a big crowd was on hand to speed the parting guests.

The first change of horses was made at Absecon, a distance of nine miles. The second stage of the journey to Port Republic was covered in record time, the stretch of eight miles of road being very good. The route then passed through New Gretna, Tuckerton, Manahawken, Forked River, Toms River, and Lakewood, where relays of fresh horses awaited the coaching party. The journey was made without incident.

Mr. Sorg will start on the second half of the journey at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning and expects to reduce the record between Lakewood and New York City. He is scheduled to reach the Holland House at 3 P. M., but expects to end the drive at least an hour before this time, if the present fine weather continues. The route to-morrow will be through Farmingdale, Freehold, Wickatunk, Tottenville, New Dorp, and St. George. The ferry will be taken from St. George, S. I., and the run made up Broadway and Fifth Avenue in New York.

Flanagan, Sheppard, Kiviat, Rosenberger, Ahearne, Keating, Cloughen, Collins, Archer, Porter, Robbins, Riley, Sullivan, Eller, McDonald, Bruce, McDonough, Stevens, and many other junior championship aspirants will give large handicaps to the lesser lights in their specialties.

AMERICAN SWIMMING RECORD.

An American swimming record was established last night at the events of the New York Swimming Association at the public bath, 292 West Sixtieth Street. The New York Athletic Club team made new figures for the 500-yard relay event, five men to a team, the time established being 5:07 2-5. The old record was held by the Illinois Athletic Club, with a mark of 5:09 4-5. The new record was made in a match race with the City Athletic Club quintet, the Winged Foot athletes scoring the victory in easy fashion, the margin of advantage at the finish being about 90 yards. The winning team was a representative group of swimmers, the personnel being Trubenbach, Reilly, Nerich, Daniels, and Goodwin. From the beginning the New York team was in the lead, and with each relay the advantage was increased. The summary:

500-Yard Relay, Match Race, New York A. C. and City A. C.—Won by New York A. C., with Trubenbach, Reilly, Nerich, Daniels, and Goodwin; City A. C., second, with Auerbach, Hallstein, Oppenheim, Herald, and Mulvey. Time—5:07 2-5, new American record.

60-Yard Swim, Open to High Schools.—Won by Moore, De Witt Clinton H. S.; Vallare, Newark H. S., second; Miller, Townsend Harris Hall, third. Time—0:56.

60-Yard Swim, Handicap.—Won by N. Keahn, unattached, (7 seconds;) I. Manley, New York A. C., (6 seconds,) second; R. L. Smith, Newark Y. M. C. A., (7 seconds,) third. Time—0:52 2-5.

40-Yard Women's Race.—Won by Miss Schroeder, New York Swimming Association; Miss Froesch, New York Swimming Association, second; Miss Wiser, National Women's Life Saving Association, third. Time—0:35.

HERE'S A FISH AND FROG STORY

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., March 29.—H. C. Horton of Midland Avenue, Montclair, who with two friends, George Haight and Russell Haight, also of Montclair, was fishing to-day at Gloss Pond, Verona, made a most remarkable catch. Pike had been biting freely and the trio had landed several of good size.

Horton says that while holding his rod he turned to speak to one of his companions, when something pulled his line so strong that it almost jerked the rod from his hand. He started to pull in and found that it took all his strength to do so. He finally landed the strange catch, which consisted of a pike weighing five and a quarter pounds, which had six big bullfrogs hanging on it. The frogs were the largest ever seen in this section, the combined weight of their hind legs being two and three-quarter pounds.

When the pike was landed it was bleeding freely from several wounds on its body. The catch has caused considerable curiosity among the fishermen of Montclair, who declare that they have never heard of such a catch before.

Motor Boats on the St. Lawrence.

There will be at least six new forty-footers on the St. Lawrence next season, all capable of at least thirty-three miles an hour, and all racing under the colors of the Thousand Islands Yacht Club. Commodore F. G. Bourne will race one equipped with two four-cylinder, 100 horse power Simplex engines. Mr. Harris of Orange will handle a forty-footer with a 225 horse power, V-type Jencick motor. A. R. Peacock of Pittsburg has a six-cylinder, 200 horse power Jencick motor boat under way, and Mr. Carriere will have a new craft, having an eight-cylinder, 300 horse power Jencick engine.

WHITE

CHAPTER I

It is not difficult for any student of motor car progress to recognize the QUALITY of the White gasoline car and to note its superiority over all other cars of moderate price. For example, the White is fitted with:

Long Stroke Engine

Four-speed Transmission

Honeycomb Radiator

Crucible Chrome-nickel Steel Frame

Bosch Magneto

Upholstery of Hand-buffed Leather

So it goes throughout the White car—the best materials which money can buy are used in every part. In fact, if the selling price of the White were one thousand dollars greater, there is no part of the car which could be built better or of more expensive material.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks in Moderate Recovery—Call Money Rates, 2¾@3 Per Cent.

BOND MARKET FIRMER

Monday's Weakness in High-Grade Issues Not Repeated—Rains in Winter Wheat Country Helpful.

Shortly after the opening of the stock market yesterday morning the various groups of traders whose bearish operations on Monday were attended with success renewed their campaign against prices, with the result that quotations materially lower than those in force at the close on the previous night were established for many active stocks. Even at these levels, however, no liquidation of moment was provoked, and recognition of this fact very soon prompted a covering movement, which, in connection with a moderate volume of investment buying in some of the standard shares, led to a vigorous rally. This held through the rest of the day, and left prices at its close from 1 to 2 points above the morning's low figures, and in all save a few instances substantially over the levels of Monday night. As a whole the day's news was of much more favorable tenor than the budget of the preceding day. The death of Justice Brewer at a moment when two of the most important corporation cases heard by the Supreme Court in years were under consideration, and on the eve of a decision, has confused the situation to some extent, although there appears to be no real reason why a verdict in the Tobacco case, at least, should be much delayed by this regrettable occurrence. Any unsettlement of sentiment arising from this source was much more than offset by the news of the visit of much needed rains to large areas of the Winter wheat country. Not only have Kansas, Nebraska, and Oklahoma received a plentiful supply of moisture over much of their extent, but very general rains needed throughout the West to prepare the soil for other crops are promised within the next thirty-six or forty-eight hours. The prolonged spell of warm weather which had created much anxiety west of the Mississippi and reflected in the grain markets had formed a factor in Monday's stock market appears to have been effectually broken. Another matter in which considerable satisfaction was taken was the stronger tone of the bond department of the Stock Exchange. It was still evident that the weight of new offerings, to which must be added the $48,686,000 of Atchison convertible bonds authorized yesterday, is weighing down prices, but there were not repeated yesterday, at least, the very sharp breaks witnessed on the preceding day in the highest class bonds. Current railroad earnings continue to exhibit the rather unpleasant tendency of absorption in operating expenses of all increases in gross revenues. It is true that operating conditions in February upon a number of the roads just now reporting for that month were unfavorable, but the further factor in current reports is the burden resting upon most of these properties to make up for the forced economies of earlier months. Gross earnings, it should be noted, continue to show gains over corresponding periods a year ago.

Unless an upturn of 15 points in demand sterling be excepted there was nothing forthcoming from the day's money market to offer a clue to the probable course of money through the rest of this week in the English capital. The Bank of England secured the bulk of the gold arriving in London from South Africa, but there still exists a feeling of considerable uncertainty in London regarding the bank's attitude toward the discount rate at Thursday's meeting. The situation is complicated by the pending fortnightly settlement, which may, however, serve the useful purpose of disclosing money market matters at their worst, unless it is anticipated in this respect by the struggle which is now fairly on in Parliament between the Government and its opponents.

TRADING IN BALTIMORE.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, March 29.—While the market was quiet and featureless the tone was inclined to softness. Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power preferred, which yesterday recovered 3 points from a previous decline, again lost the advance, having receded from 88 to 85. Northern Central declined ½. Seaboard 4s stamped were slightly easier. Shares, 325; bonds, $58,000.

Reason for Large Bond Issues.

A banker, commenting on the large bond issue announced yesterday by the Atchison, said it was true of this issue, as well as of a good many other recent issues of railroad bonds, that they had been hastened by the prospect of the passage of a law giving the Federal Government supervision over new stock and bond issues by railroads. The effect had been to crowd bond issues on the market faster than the market had been able easily to absorb them. The outcome, he said, had been greatly to impair the demand for bonds, which otherwise might have lasted much longer than it has. The bond market has given unmistakable signs of too much pressure, and the prospect of this new Federal regulation law is blamed by at least some bankers for the unfavorable change in the bond market which has taken place recently. So far as the Atchison issue itself is concerned, its success is assured by the underwriting of the issue, and in addition to this is the fact that the bonds, being convertible into stock, command a much better market than an ordinary 4 per cent. bond would have.

Rough Going for New Roads.

Another effect of the prospective regulation of new stock and bond issues by the railroads, as bankers see the matter, is that the restrictions likely to be put upon them would make the raising of capital even harder for new railroads than it is at present, if it did not limit new issues to present organizations. Built largely on hopes, a new road would find great difficulty in getting capital on the narrow terms likely to be allowed, and without the bait of profits in proportion to the risk the established lines would not have to worry much about the success of competitive building. "Such a situation," a banker said yesterday, "may be good for the railroads, but whether it proves good for the country is another matter. Whether it is good or bad for the bankers is also another matter, but the bankers may be depended upon to find profitable use for their funds in any case."

Second Largest Corporation.

The authorization by the stockholders of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company of the increase in capital stock, recommended by President Vail in the annual report, from $300,000,000 to $500,000,000, makes that company the second largest in the country, the largest being the United States Steel Corporation, with an authorized capitalization of $550,000,000 common and $400,000,000 preferred. The stockholders also increased the Directorate from eighteen to twenty-five. The new Directors cannot be authorized until the change in the by-laws has been filed at Albany. The new stock issue, President Vail has stated, is to provide for future contingencies.

Clark and Amalgamated.

Stories were current yesterday of negotiations between the Amalgamated interests and ex-Senator Clark for his Butte properties. Mr. Clark was in Salt Lake City yesterday, but it was said by close associates in New York that unless he had radically changed his views the negotiations, if such were on, would be likely to prove as ineffective as those of a few years ago. The former Senator retains his residence in Montana, and puts a sentimental value on the properties which were the foundation of his later fortune.

Jewelers Buy More Gold.

Along with diamond buying, the use of gold by the jewelers is a standard index of general prosperity. The figures of the Assay Office for the calendar year 1909 show that gold taken from the Sub-Treasury by the jewelry trade averaged $2,000,000 a month last year, or 26 per cent. more than in 1908.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Tuesday.

A slow retreat of the short interest on the Consolidated Stock Exchange was under way the greater part of the day. The bears showed a disposition to gather in some of the profits that had accrued to them on the short side, and many of them took advantage of the early break to buy at low prices. This, for the time, imparted relative firmness, compared with New York Stock Exchange quotations, but in the afternoon there was some renewal of bearish activity. Sales for the day totaled 108,770 shares, distributed among 57 different stocks.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, March 29.—Money was in increased demand for the settlement to-day. Discount rates were steady.

The Bank of Russia and India shared in the weekly gold arrivals, which amounted to nearly $5,000,000, at a reduction of ⅛d.

On the Stock Exchange the markets, with the exception of the American section, reopened with a cheerful tone. Home rails were firm, on expectations of good traffic statements, and trunk lines advanced on a favorable monthly report. A fair business was done in rubber shares and Kaffirs, but copper stocks declined in sympathy with Americans and the lower metal prices.

American securities opened firm, and from ½ to a point over parity. Later, reports of labor trouble and adverse crop and steel trade news caused a reaction, and stocks were offered rather freely. Wall Street offerings caused further losses in the afternoon, especially in Amalgamated shares, and the market closed weak and only a fraction above the lowest.

Money, 3½@3¾ per cent.; rate of discount in the open market for short bills, 3 13-16@3⅞ per cent.; for three months' bills, 3⅞ per cent.

PARIS, March 29.—Trading was dull on the Bourse to-day.

BERLIN, March 29.—Domestic and American securities were dull and lower on the Boerse to-day.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The Consular and Trade Report will note the following trade opportunities abroad. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of the item referred to:

4734. PANAMA CANAL SUPPLIES.—Sealed proposals in triplicate will be received at the office of the General Purchasing Officer of the Isthmian Canal Committee, Washington, for furnishing the following supplies:

1. Bids will be received until April 5 to supply gasoline launches, boiler feed pumps, steel, boiler tubes, chain, bolts, rivets, screws, copper, sheet zinc, lead, lead clamps, fusible plugs, collar bolt keys, saws, timber, carriers, files, jacks, pulleys, tallow pots, valves, vacuum gauges, cylinder cocks, paint and scrubbing brushes, water coolers, life preservers, hose, packing, gaskets, leather belting, chalk line, creosote oil, metallic brown, coach varnish, aqua ammonia, paper, &c.

2. Tenders are invited until April 18 for furnishing four steel rock and sand barges.

3. Tenders are invited until April 19 for supplying piles, staybolt iron, brass screws, sulphite of copper, yellow ocher, chrome green, and chrome yellow.

4,735. FULLERS EARTH.—An American Consul in Great Britain writes that large quantities of fuller's earth are used by the oil refiners in a large city there. While chemicals are used to a certain extent for the same purpose, there is still an active demand fo fuller's earth, and refiners are always ready to hear from dealers who can supply this product. The price, as stated, varies approximately between $54 and $78 per ton, according to quality.

4736. COTTONSEED OIL, OLEO OIL, LARD, &c.—A letter received from a firm in Germany, which is willing to represent American houses exporting cottonseed oil, oleo oil, lard, and similar products, claims to be thoroughly familiar with business conditions in Germany, and a New York banking establishment is given as a reference.

4,737. CANNED GOODS, VEGETABLES, FRUITS, AND PRESERVES.—A special agent of the Department of Commerce and Labor now traveling in the West Indies writes concerning the promising market for canned goods, vegetables, fruits, and preserves in one of those islands. Packers and exporters of these products are invited to correspond with the special agent, who is willing to go into the matter of finding suitable representatives.

4,738. PICKLES, PRESERVES, DRIED FRUIT, AND AMERICAN SARDINES.—In a recent report from a large German city an American Consular officer gives the address of a house which desires to represent American manufacturers of pickles, preserves, and dried fruit, and that have as yet no representation in Germany. Connections are wanted, also, with packers of sardines in this country. The report states that the above firm advertises extensively, and has representatives in many parts of Germany and Switzerland.

4,739. MACHINES AND ELECTRIC MOTORS.—An American Consul in Canada, in answer to an inquiry regarding trade conditions for washing machines and electric motors, states that the trade in these lines is on the increase, and that articles of merit should meet with successful sales. The name of a prominent firm interested in such goods is given, and also a list of dealers handling a general line of electrical supplies and washing machines.

4,740. COAL HOISTING APPARATUS.—A number of the most important navigation companies in a large European city have organized a small company with a view to determining the merits of the various classes of machinery for unloading coal. After the experiments are concluded the interested companies will be in a position to purchase hoisting machinery of the type demonstrated to be the best. It is understood that the port authorities will also require machinery of this character, and will be governed to a large extent by these tests. The engineer in charge seems favorably disposed to American firms.

4,741. FIELD FOR OCULIST AND OPTICIAN.—An American Consul in Mexico reports that at present there is no permanently established optical business in an important city of 20,000 inhabitants in his district. He states that this is a promising location for a man possessing ability and tact, and with some knowledge of Spanish or capable of learning it in a short time.

First Mortgage 5% Gold Bonds
Dated January 1, 1910 Due January 1, 1960
Optional on and after January 1, 1920, at 105 and interest. Interest payable January 1 and July 1. Coupon Bonds with privilege of registration as to principal. Denominations of $500 and $1,000.
Free of Tax in Pennsylvania and New Jersey
The Company agrees to reimburse the holder for all taxes, other than succession or inheritance taxes, assessed by the State of Pennsylvania upon the holder by reason of his ownership thereof as provided in the mortgage.
For complete information regarding these bonds reference is made to a letter addressed to us by Mr. C. H. Geist, President of the Atlantic City Gas Company, copies of which will be sent upon request. From this letter we summarize the following important statements:
1. Atlantic City Gas Company operates under a perpetual franchise and is the only company supplying gas for light, heat and fuel in Atlantic City and neighboring resorts.
2. Net earnings for the calendar year 1910, based on present actual consumption, are estimated at nearly twice the total amount of interest charges.
3. It is believed that it will be impossible to find a field in this country where there are greater opportunities for increased business.
The legality of the issue and validity of the franchise have been approved by John G. Johnson, Esq., and Joseph Slattery, Esq., of Philadelphia, and Norman Grey, Esq., of Camden, New Jersey. Copies of their opinions and of the mortgage may be seen at our offices.
Bonds of gas companies have an extraordinary record of nearly 100 years as secure investments, and now occupy a stronger position than ever.
We recommend these bonds for conservative investment and offer the unsold portion to investors, subject to advance in price without notice.

MORE MADE ON 80-CENT GAS.

Service Commission Also Shows Gains by Electric Light Companies.

The Public Service Commission issued further figures yesterday in support of its contention that the earnings of the lighting combination of the city have increased enormously despite the passage of the eighty-cent gas law.

The statement, made public yesterday, also showed that the net income of the New York Edison Company in 1909 was $4,719,807, an increase of $815,103 over 1908.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—With the exception of the establishment of a new low record for Lehigh Valley during the present movement and fluctuations in the traction stocks, the local market was almost stagnant to-day. Lehigh Valley quickly recovered its loss. The whole market was dull, and in some quarters there was a tendency to attribute the temporary losses in Lehigh Valley to a quick manoeuvre executed by the interests whose buying caused the recent jump in the stock, the movement being designed to press prices down. There was comparatively little trading in the traction stocks.

TREASURER'S OFFICE,
71 BROADWAY,

JAS. STEUART MACKIE, Treasurer.

New York, N. Y., March 25, 1910.

To the Stockholders of THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILWAY COMPANY:

Subject to the necessary authorization by the stockholders at a special meeting which has been called to convene April 28, 1910, this Company, pursuant to resolutions of the Board of Directors, adopted March 17, 1910, has sold to bankers (in order to insure the prompt provision of the necessary funds for its requirements), $31,390,000 bonds of the issue hereinafter described, with the agreement that the privilege be given to the holders of the common stock of the Company to subscribe at 93½ per cent. of the face amount thereof and accrued interest, upon the terms and conditions hereinafter stated, on or before May 10, 1910, for a face amount of such bonds equal to fifty per cent. (50%) of the par amount of their respective holdings of the common stock of the Company, as registered on its books at 3 o'clock P. M., April 5, 1910. The bonds referred to will be Four and One-Half Per Cent. Twenty-Year Convertible Gold Bonds, of an authorized issue limited to $37,200,000. The bonds will be convertible at the option of the holder on or at any time after May 1, 1911, and to and including February 1, 1920, at their face value, into paid-up shares of the common stock of the Company at $100 per share. The entire issue at the time outstanding, but not a part thereof, may be called for redemption by the Company on February 1, 1915, or on any semi-annual interest day thereafter, on ninety days' notice, at 102½ per cent. of the face value thereof and accrued interest, but if so called during the conversion period, the bonds may be converted up to and including the second day of January or July, as the case may be, next preceding the redemption date. Adjustment of accrued interest and current dividend will be made at the time of conversion.

The bonds will mature on February 1, 1930, and will bear interest from February 1, 1910, at the rate of four and one-half per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually on February 1 and August 1. The first coupon will be payable August 1, 1910. Both principal and interest will be payable in New York in gold coin of the United States of or equal to the present standard of weight and fineness, without deduction for any tax, assessment or governmental charge which the Company, or the trustee under the indenture providing for the issue thereof, may be required to pay thereon or to retain therefrom under any present or future law of the United States of America, or of any State, county, municipality or other taxing authority therein.

The principal and interest of the bonds will also be payable, at the option of the holder, in London, in sterling, at the fixed rate of exchange of $4.87 per pound sterling.

They will be issuable as coupon bonds each for the principal sum of $1,000, with the privilege of registration as to principal, and will be exchangeable upon reasonable terms for registered bonds without coupons, each for the principal sum of $1,000 or any multiple thereof that may be authorized by the Board of Directors. The registered bonds will, in like manner, be exchangeable for coupon bonds. Bonds may also be issued originally as registered bonds.

The indenture will contain appropriate provision to the end (1) that the Company shall not create any additional mortgage upon the lines of railroad owned by it at the date of the indenture or upon any part thereof without making effective provision in such mortgage that all bonds then outstanding, unpaid and unconverted, under such indenture shall be secured under such mortgage by a lien upon said lines of railroad, which lien shall be upon a parity with the lien thereupon enjoyed by any bonds or other obligations issued under such mortgage and secured thereby; (2) that so long as any of such convertible bonds are outstanding, unpaid and unconverted, no bonds in addition to $11,000,000, the amount thereof now outstanding, shall be issued under the Company's General Funding and Improvement Mortgage, dated January 2, 1909, and (3) that, during the life of the conversion privilege, the Company shall not issue any stock entitled to preference or priority over its common stock or distribute any capital stock by way of stock dividend.

Warrants specifying the amount of bonds in respect of which the stockholder is entitled to a subscription privilege and signed by the treasurer or an assistant treasurer will be mailed as soon as possible after the closing of the books on April 5, 1910, to each stockholder who has filed a permanent dividend order with the Company at the address indicated in such order; where dividends are collected by bankers, brokers, or others on powers of attorney or other authority, the warrants will be sent to such authorized parties for delivery to the stockholders, unless other instructions relative thereto shall have been received. Warrants not provided for as above may be obtained at this office not later than May 9, 1910.

Warrants entitling the holder to subscribe as hereinafter stated will be issued only for amounts of bonds of $1,000 or multiples thereof. For each fraction of a $1,000 bond in respect of which a holder is entitled to a subscription privilege, a fractional warrant will be issued. After May 9, 1910, all fractional warrants will be void and of no effect. No subscription may be made on a fractional warrant, but if surrendered on or before May 9, 1910, to the treasurer, with other fractional warrants aggregating an amount of $1,000, a subscription warrant for a $1,000 bond will be issued in exchange, and if the surrendered fractional warrants include a fraction in excess of $1,000, a new fractional warrant will be issued for such fraction. Fractional warrants desired by stockholders to complete full bonds, or fractional warrants which stockholders may desire to dispose of, must be bought or sold in the market, as the Company will not sell or purchase such fractions.

On the back of these warrants will be two forms. In case it is desired to subscribe, the first form is to be filled out and signed by the stockholders or by their assigns; but, in case it is desired to dispose of the subscription privilege, the second form, which is an assignment, is to be filled out and signed by the stockholder.

Where a warrant authorizes a subscription to two or more bonds, a stockholder who may wish to subscribe for a portion of the bonds covered by the warrant and dispose of the balance, or who may wish to dispose of a portion of the bonds covered by a warrant to one person and the balance to another or others, should return his warrant to this office on or before May 9, 1910, to be exchanged for other warrants, specifying in writing the number of warrants desired in exchange and the number of bonds to be covered by each. In no case, however, on such exchange will a fractional warrant be issued.

The price of subscription fo each $1,000 bond, payable in New York funds at the office of the United States Mortgage and Trust Company, 55 Cedar Street, New York City, in instalments, is as follows:

At the time of making subscription, on or before May 10, 1910	$500 00
On or before June 30, 1910	450 28

Subscriptions may be paid in full at the time of making the subscription on or before May 10, 1910, in which case the amount payable will be $947.37 per $1,000 bond, which includes accrued interest.

The warrants must be surrendered to the United States Mortgage and Trust Company by the stockholders, or by the persons to whom assigned, on or before May 10, 1910, accompanied by the payment either of the first instalment or of the full amount payable; all warrants not so surrendered, with such payment, on or before said date, shall be void and of no value.

Failure to pay the second instalment when and as payable will operate as a forfeiture of all the rights in respect of the subscription and the instalment previously paid.

The United States Mortgage and Trust Company will, on surrender of the warrants and payment of the first instalment, issue receipts, which shall be transferable by delivery merely, and which must be presented to the United States Mortgage and Trust Company on or before June 30, 1910, accompanied by the payment of the second instalment.

Upon payment in full of the subscription price delivery will be made by the United States Mortgage and Trust Company (unless the engraved bonds shall then be ready for delivery) of temporary bonds duly executed by the Company, which temporary bonds will be exchangeable for a like principal amount of engraved bonds when the same shall have been prepared.

It is anticipated that engraved bonds will be ready for delivery on or before June 30, 1910.

No subscription or assignment of this privilege will be recognized unless made on the forms of the Company.

No holder of stock of the Company shall be entitled to any of the above mentioned bonds, unless the terms of subscription herein specified are fully complied with.

The subscription and instalment payments must be made at the dates and in accordance with the provisions stated above. Checks or drafts in payment of subscriptions must be drawn in favor of The United States Mortgage and Trust Company, in New York funds, and for the exact amounts covering the respective instalments.

The bonds now offered are issued to provide funds, among other things, for the acquisition of a majority of the common capital stock of the Hocking Valley Railway Company and of a substantial interest in the capital stock of the Kanawha & Michigan Railway Company; for the acquisition from interests in control of pending foreclosure proceedings, who have agreed to acquire the same at foreclosure sale, of the properties of the Chicago, Cincinnati & Louisville Railroad Company or of securities representative thereof; for additions, betterments and improvements, for the purchase of additional motive power and equipment required by the increasing business of the Company, and for other corporate purposes.

DENIES KILLING OF THREE.

Man Accused of Triple Murder Moved from Jail to Avoid Lynching.

SCANDIA, Kan., March 29.—An inquest into the murder of Alazenger Lindahl, his son, Elmer, and his daughter, Eleanor, in a motor boat on the Republican River, began here to-day.

John Nordmark, who was also arrested yesterday and is charged with the murder, was hurried out of town this afternoon and taken to Bellevue to avoid a possible lynching, as the funeral of the Lindahls cause da great crowd to gather on the streets.

Nordmark was confronted with the bodies of Lindahl and his two children, but was unmoved. He declared he did not kill them.

The police left Nordmark in a room at a local hotel with an intimate friend of his. This man said he had a horse outside and would help Nordmark get to Nebraska if Nordmark would run out the back way.

"I have done nothing to run away from and I won't go," said Nordmark.

THREE JURIES PUZZLED.

They Have All Disagreed Over Miss Frazer's Jewel Theft.

A tired but stubborn jury, after deliberating twenty hours, was discharged with no verdict by Judge Rosalsky, in General Sessions yesterday, in the case of Archibald Allen, alias James Drexel, who is accused of robbing Miss Blanche Frazier of 140 Trinity Avenue, Atlanta, Ga.

Miss Frazier has come North three times at her own expense to tell what she knew of the disappearance of her diamonds, which had been her mother's and were valued at $4,300. They were taken from her forcibly, she says, in a room in West Twenty-third Street on Nov. 5 last. She is staying at the Hotel Astor.

Allen is a piano salesman living in South Orange, N. J. He has been tried twice, and each time the jury has disagreed. His defense, conducted by Charles Le Barbier, consists in an alibi and some testimony regarding iMss Frazier.

NEGROES IN BRAWL ON TRAIN.

One Killed and Another Dying After Razor Fight—Passengers in Panic.

ROANOKE, Va., March 29.—In a free-for-all fight among drunken negroes on a Norfolk & Western excursion train between Roanoke and Winslo, N. C., last night Jim Woods was cut to death, James Hairston was seriously stabbed, and over a score were more or less hurt.

A Coroner's jury at Martinsville to-night held four negroes for Woods's death. Two Roanoke detectives who went on the train to keep order were powerless to control the negroes. A panic prevailed on the train.

GIVE UP HUNT FOR BANKER.

Ohio Posses Abandon Search for Man Accused of Horse Stealing.

ELYRIA, Ohio, March 29.—The week's night and day search through half a dozen counties for Robert Green, a former banker of Waynetown, Ind., who escaped jail here a week ago yesterday, was called off to-day. Deputy Sheriff Peck, who led the search, says there is no reason to believe that Green is still in Ohio.

Ray Van Dusen, the turnkey, who was assailed by Green when he broke out of jail, where he was being held on a charge of horse stealing, is out of danger.

PACIFIC EXPRESS TO GOULDS.

Dominant Interest Takes the Stock Union Pacific Had Been Holding.

The Union Pacific, it was learned yesterday, has sold to the Gould interests $2,400,000 stock of the Pacific Express Company which the Union Pacific had held in its treasury for years. The Goulds absolutely control this express company, as all the stock which was not held by the Union Pacific was owned by the Missouri Pacific and the Wabash. The capital of the company is $6,000,000.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders yesterday Jay Gould and Kingdon Gould were elected Directors, to take the places made vacant by the resignations of J. Kruttschnitt and Erastus Young. F. C. Gontsch was elected a Director and General Manager, to take the place of S. B. Schuyler.

A couple of months ago the contract for the express business on the Union Pacific lines was transferred from the Pacific Express Company to the American Express Company, and at about the same time the American Express interests purchased the Southern Pacific's holdings of Wells Fargo & Co. stock.

MORE PARK BANK STOCK.

The Directors of the National Park Bank recommended to the stockholders yesterday an increase of $2,000,000 in the bank's capital stock, to be issued at $200 a share, adding $2,000,000 to the surplus of the bank, as well as an equal amount to its capital. The present capital of the bank is $3,000,000 and its surplus and undivided profits amount to $9,900,000.

This action fulfills expectations in the financial district, the business of the bank having grown largely in recent years.

A special meeting of the stockholders to approve the recommendation has been called for May 10. The last recorded bid for National Park Bank stock was 473. Dividends are being paid at the rate of 16 per cent. a year, or 4 per cent. quarterly.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, March 29.—There was a much better tone in evidence in the copper shares today than has been the case for some time. Buying orders were well distributed throughout the list and gains of from a fraction to over 3 points were recorded. Granby rallied 3 points to 46, Amalgamated sold up to 75⅛. Lake advanced nearly four points, to 68½; Indiana sold as high as 34, and North Lake sold up to 17½. The understone continued strong throughout the day, and the market closed steady at the advance.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Another important sale in the Greenwich Street loft section, where there has been considerable activity since the first of the year, was announced yesterday by H. L. Moxley & Co., who sold to an investor the new six-story fireproof building 487 and 489 Greenwich Street.

The property, which was owned by the St. John's Park Realty Company, was only recently completed, and is now fully rented for a long term of years.

Negotiations are said to be pending for the sale of a similar building on the same block.

Reported Sale of West 79th St. Plot.

It was reported yesterday that Weschler & Noel had sold the property 147 to 155 West Seventy-ninth Street, consisting of a plot 63 by 102.2, between Amsterdam and Columbus Avenues.

The parcel was purchased by Weschler & Noel last Fall, and work was started on a twelve-story apartment house, which is now well under way. The buyers will complete the structure. Plans have recently been filed for two other big apartments in the same block.

Synagogue Buys West Side Site.

The Congregation B'nai-Jeshurun, now located at Madison Avenue and Sixty-fifth Street, has purchased a new site at the northwest corner of Central Park West and Eighty-seventh Street.

Sells 96th St. and Madison Avenue.

A plot consisting of about three lots on the northwest corner of Ninety-sixth Street and Madison Avenue has been sold by George A. Morrison.

The parcel has frontages of 100.11 feet on the avenue and 89.9 on the street. The westerly line measures 103.8 feet, and runs along the line of the old Eastern Post Road.

The James Livingston Construction Company is reported to have resold the southeast corner of Park Avenue and Sixtieth Street, a plot 60 by 100.5.

Owing to the demolition of the buildings on the northwest corner of Park Avenue and Sixtieth Street for the erection of a twelve-story co-operative apartment house, the Froebel League Kindergarten and Mothers' Classes, which occupies the corner house, has purchased for its new home the former private residence of Clinton Gilbert, at 112 East Seventy-first Street. This is a four-story house on a plot 25 by 100.5, in the block to the east of the Presbyterian Hospital. Alterations will be made at once and the league will move in early in the Fall.

West Side Dwellings Change Owners.

George Dudley Waring has sold for W. P. Ward the houses situated at 158 to 164 West Fifty-eighth Street, making a plot 42 by 100. This property had been in the hands of the Ward family for over twenty-five years.

Thomas O'Neil and Frederick J. Kelly have sold 238 and 240 West Fifty-sixth Street, two four-story dwellings on plot 45 by 100.5, between Broadway and Eighth Avenue. The buyer is a client of the Taylor-Sherman Company.

Frank J. McRickard has sold 767 St. Nicholas Avenue, a four-story brownstone dwelling on lot 20 by 116, to a client for occupancy.

Builder Buys Block Front.

The entire block front on the north side of 183d Street between Washington and Bassford Avenues has been sold by W. A. Darling & Son for a client of Morris H. Hayman. It has frontages of 135.10 feet on 183d Street, 68.4 on Washington Avenue, 56 feet on Bassford Avenue, with a rear line of 135 feet.

The buyer is said to be a well-known Bronx contractor and builder, who will break ground immediately for the erection of a seven-story elevator apartment house.

Bronx Sales.

Walker & Burger, in conjunction with Kurz & Uren, have sold for Hugh D. Smyth to a client the plot, 75 by 100, on the south side of 167th Street, 25 feet east of Simpson Street.

Mooyer & Marston have sold for Mrs. J. F. Dickie of White Plains the southeast corner of City Island Avenue and Fordham Street. The buyer, Charles M. Moody, will improve the property, which is regarded as one of the most valuable parcels on City Island.

Clement H. Smith has sold for a client a plot, 75 by 130, on the west side of Carter Avenue, 75 feet south of Prospect Place.

The vacant plot, 50 by 100, on the west side of De Voe Terrace, about 250 feet north of Webb Avenue, has been sold by Frank J. McRickard to a builder, who will improve the property with detached frame dwellings.

Sales in Brooklyn.

James L. Brumley sold in the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange yesterday four lots on the west side of New York Avenue, beginning at a point 112 feet south of Sterling Place, for $95,200. The sale was made under foreclosure, and the property was purchased by the plaintiff, the Lawyers Mortgage Company.

Benjamin O. Pullin has sold the plot, 40 by 100, on the east side of East Thirty-eighth Street, 200 feet north of Clarendon Road, Flatbush, to an investor, and the two three-story flats at 1,988 and 1,990 Nostrand Avenue, for the P. Aronson Realty Company.

Frank A. Seaver has sold for the Ferriss estate fourteen lots and a frame dwelling at the northeast corner of Bay Ridge and Stewart Avenues, Dyker Heights.

Charles E. Rickerson has sold a plot, 20 by 100.2, on the north side of Eighteenth Street, 160 feet west of Tenth Avenue, for Honora Miller to a builder.

Suburban Sales.

The J. N. Kuh Realty Company has sold for Nora Mary Jones to John Kuttner 35 South Chase Avenue, a two-story and attic cottage, on lot 25 by 53, at Rockaway Beach.

E. Sharum has sold to the Armor Realty Company 400 lots at Toms River, N. J. Seven hundred and fifty acres of land in Emanuel County, Ga., were given as part payment.

John R. and Oscar L. Foley have sold the country estate of Daniel Daly, located at Blauvelt, Rockland County, N. Y., consisting of 163 acres, with over a mile of road frontage. The dwelling is of stone and frame, the original part of the house being over 100 years old.

The Henry M. Weill Company has sold for Mrs. Molly Christian to a buyer for occupancy the dwelling and garage at the corner of Madison and Fifth Streets, Lakewood, N. J., on plot 150 by 150. The dwelling was built by Bradford Gilbert.

Recent Buyers.

Burton S. Castles is the buyer of 43 West Thirty-eighth Street. Mr. Castles buys to protect the light on the west side of his new twelve-story loft building, at 39 and 41 West Thirty-eighth Street.

New York Theatre Sale Denied.

A very persistent rumor was current yesterday that the New York and Criterion Theatres, occupying the entire block frontage on the east side of Broadway, between Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth Streets, had been sold to a syndicate and that the plot would be improved in the near future with a building from which more remunerative returns might be obtained than is now possible with the amusement houses. Negotiations, it is understood, have been under way for some time for a radical change in this Broadway block, involving also several of the adjoining houses on the side streets. That anything definite, however, has been determined was denied at the offices of the New York Theatre Company, which holds the property. Among the officers of the company are Abraham L. Erlanger, Charles Frohman, William Harris, and Al Hayman.

Receiver of Rents.

Justice Newburger of the Supreme Court has appointed E. Clifford Potter receiver of the rents of 35 East Thirtieth Street, an elevator apartment house, on plot 65 by 98.9, pending a suit brought by Louis Livingston Seaman against the Thirty-five East Thirtieth Street Company and others to foreclose a second mortgage of $30,000. The prior mortgage is $310,000.

First Torrens Law Registry in Queens.

The first piece of property in Queens County to be registered under the Torrens law has just been recorded by William E. Finnegan, attorney for Charles Jordan. The property is a plot, 50 by 100 feet, on Hoffman Boulevard, near Grafton Avenue, Clarenceville, and was purchased from the Napier Development Company. Justice Garretson signed the order for the transfer of the land.

Apartment for Pinehurst Ave.

Plans have been filed for a six-story apartment house to be built from designs by C. B. Meyers, architect, and to contain suites for thirty-six families, at the northeast corner of Pinehurst Avenue and 179th Street for the Mentor Realty Company, Max Weinstein, President. It will be of brick finished with trimmings of terra cotta, with a frontage of 100.2 feet and a depth of 90 feet, and will cost $150,000.

Vanderbilt Stable for Offices.

Plans have been filed for making over the old Vanderbilt stable, at 505 Madison Avenue, a two-story edifice, into an office building for George W. Vanderbilt as owner, the change of occupancy being made from designs by Frank Goodwillie as architect.

Big 23d Street Loft.

Plans have been filed with Building Superintendent Miller for a new twelve-story loft building to be erected for the Robert Burns Realty Company from designs by Buchman & Fox, as architects, at 148 to 156 West Twenty-third Street, replacing the old iron-front loft and office building, which in turn had replaced the old-fashioned brownstone private residence of ante-bellum days. It will be of limestone trimmed with terra cotta in the modified Gothic style, finished with handsome tiers of bays. It is to have a frontage of 102½ feet and a depth of 88 feet, and will cost $275,000. It will be nearly opposite the new loft building to be erected at 153 to 157 West Twenty-third Street for the Irving Fischel Realty Company, which is to cost $215,000.

Notes.

The Title Guarantee and Trust Company loaned yesterday on first mortgage to the 40 East Twenty-second Street Company $220,000 for five years, at 4½ per cent., on the twelve-story and basement fireproof mercantile building located at 40 and 42 East Twenty-second Street.

The Real Estate Board of Brokers is about to publish a "monthly news bulletin" for distribution among its members. It is expected that the first copy will be out early in April.

E. Henry Eckhardt was the broker in the sale of 39 West Eighty-sixth Street, a five-story American basement residence, on lot 32.6 by 100.8, built by Luyster for Mrs. Powell, Harned & Delamater, to Helen D. Jenkins.

BUILDING MATERIAL.

Exteriors and Value.

THE drawing qualities of an apartment house or office building depend greatly upon the exterior.

It costs as much to lay a poor brick as a good one. The difference in cost of material may be but slight; but color, richness of tone, durability of color, may mean the success or failure of a building as an investment.

SANTA FE UNDERWRITTEN.

Rights to Stockholders at 102½ Selling Now for 1⅛.

The Directors of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé formally acted yesterday on the proposed issue of $43,686,000 of 4 per cent. convertible bonds, the sale of which to the road's stockholders was forecasted recently in THE TIMES. The bonds are to be offered to stockholders at 102½ to the extent of 14 per cent. of their present holdings. The entire issue has been underwritten by J. P. Morgan & Co., in association, it is understood, with the First National Bank and the National City Bank.

The proceeds of the sale will be used to provide increased facilities in the Santa Fé's rapidly growing territory.

Significance was attached in banking quarters to the fact that this further large issue of bonds is being put out months before the last payment falls due on the previous issue of $28,000,000 convertible bonds. The purpose of this is to provide for capital requirements in anticipation of the passage by Congress of the proposed law giving the Inter-State Commerce Commission supervision over railroad capital issues.

The new issue, like the previous one, will be payable in installments, $325 per $1,000 between June 1 and June 3, $350 between Dec. 6 and Dec. 8, and $350 between June 6 and June 8, 1911. The right to subscribe will be limited to the stockholders of record on April 19. Any convertible bonds of the company which may be exchanged into stock prior to April 19 will share in the right to subscribe to the new bonds. The subscription rights sold on the Curb yesterday from ⅞ to 1⅛, and the bonds "when issued" sold at 109⅞ and 110.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Leather Motor Cycle Saddles Are Held Dutiable at 45 Per Cent.

The Board of United States General Appraisers refused yesterday to disturb a ruling made by the customs authorities in a case affecting the classification of leather motor cycle saddles. The saddles were returned for duty at the rate of 45 per cent. under the provisions of the tariff for "manufactures of metal not specially provided for."

Wells, Fargo & Co., representing the importers, alleged that the duty should be at the rate of 35 per cent. as "manufactures in chief value of leather." General Appraiser Fischer overrules the claim in this language:

"On notice duly given in this case the importers failed to appear, and have offered no evidence in support of the claim filed in the protest. There are official samples before us, but, as no proof has been presented as to the component material of chief value in the articles, we are not warranted upon a mere inspection of the samples in disturbing the assessment of duty as made by the Collector. The protest is overruled and the decision of the Collector affirmed."

J. W. Porter of Chicago, who objected to the Government's assessment of 35 per cent. on a foreign-built yacht, failed to put in an appearance at the time set for the hearing in the case, nor was any testimony adduced in support of the contention that the vessel is not taxable. Judge Somerville therefore overrules the claim.

The Rhode Island Lace Works were defeated in an attempt to enter parts of lacemaking machines, such as bobbins and carriages, free of duty. Instead the Collector's assessment of 45 per cent. under the metal schedule is affirmed.

About ninety claims were filed aggregating $60,000. Alfred M. Simon, representing the West Side Bank, was elected Trustee. Henry B. Liabilities are $2,000, exclusive of a contested claim of $6,000. The assets consist of stock, $5,000, and accounts and good will estimated at $10,000 if the business can be continued. Among the creditors are R. Henderson, trustee, $5,050; Moore Brothers Gloss Company, $2,610, and M. Housman, $575. The company was incorporated in October, 1897, with a capital stock of $100,000.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

Wheat Lower on Rain Reports—Corn and Oats Irregular—Cotton Declines on the Texas Weather.

The weather was the keynote to the wheat market, and its effect was to bring a decline of about 1@1¼c a bushel on the active deliveries. Prices showed some recovery toward the close. The principal topic of discussion and the principal news was the weather report and the private dispatches as to how much rain was actually falling in the Southwest. The weather report showed a decided low barometer in the Rocky Mountain region slowly working into Kansas, showing general unsettled conditions from Texas northward to Nebraska. There was not, however, any important rainfalls shown on the map. Showers were reported in Oklahoma, but only traces in Kansas. Private dispatches said that there were showers at a number of points in Kansas, and the general appearances of the map was such as to create a bearish feeling and a belief that the actual break in the drought had come. The market was also influenced by the pressure of cash wheat. Receipts were fairly liberal West and Northwest. The total is in excess of last year, and Bradstreet's visible showed an increase for the week in the United States of 749,000 bushels, following an increase of 559,000 bushels in the previous week, compared with 843,000 bushels' decrease last year. World's visible supply increased 208,000 bushels, against a decrease of 780,000 bushels the previous week, and a decrease of 2,688,000 bushels a year ago. The report that 250,000 bushels of durum wheat had been taken for export had some effect, but durum wheat is at a discount of about 18c a bushel under No. 1 Northern, and 10c a bushel under Manitoba, No. 1 Northern, and the price is possibly responsible for the business. Cash prices quoted: No. 2 red, Winter, $1.25, in elevator; No. 2 red, spot, nominal, $1.26¼, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, opening, $1.24¾; No. 2 hard, Winter, nominal; No. 1 Northern, Manitoba, $1.18.

Corn was fairly active and weak during the morning, affected by the decline in other grain and the increase in the stocks at Chicago, both the total and the contract. The total stock is 11,810,000 bushels, nearly three times the total of last year, and the contract supply of 4,063,000 bushels is nearly five times that of last year. Late in the day, however, the market showed a good rally, partly due to reports of lighter receipts, and there was a decrease of 690,000 bushels in the visible supply, against an increase of 1,113,000 bushels last week. Cash corn quoted at: No. 2, nominal; No. 4, 62½c, and steamer, 65c, all elevator, export basis.

Oats were moderately active, and somewhat lower during the morning on the weather conditions and reports of showers in the Southwest. There were reports that a large amount of seeding had already been done as far north as Central Illinois. Prices rallied somewhat with corn, but closed only about steady. The visible supply showed an increase of 833,000 bushels, against a decrease of 34,000 bushels the previous week. Natural white oats quoted at 49@51c; white, clipped, 50½@53.

Provisions were very quiet, showing very little variation. The market sold off some on profit taking, but owing to the price of hog product the market closed steady.

COTTON.

The cotton market was active and weak at the opening and prices sold down quite easily. There was a good deal of pressure on the new crop deliveries, which showed the most heaviness, and about half of the previous day's advance was lost. The decline was due to the weather reports. The official map showed unsettled conditions all through the Southwest, with rains in Northern Texas and in Oklahoma. The rainfall, however, was light and the late private dispatches showed only scattered precipitation in Texas. As a general heavy rain is needed in Texas, the showers had little effect after the first decline. The reports from other sections of the belt showed rapid advance in all field work under the continued perfect weather conditions for advancing farm operations. The steadiness in the afternoon was due to the fact of the light rains reported and the steadiness in the near-by positions. There was evidence of support by the bull interest in May and July, and brokers supposed to be acting for the bull party bid for round lots of April. The local stock has been increasing of late and it is expected that a lot of about 12,000 bales of cotton will arrive in a few days from Liverpool. On the other hand, there were reports that some cotton was being shipped from here. There are also reports of some bidding by mill interests for cotton in New York.

COFFEE.

Coffee was very inactive and without feature. Prices were unchanged to 5 points lower. Total sales were 2,000 bags, largely in changing from near to distant positions. Havre closed unchanged to 5 points advance from the final of last Thursday, since which time the foreign markets have been celebrating the Easter holidays, and Hamburg was unchanged. The Brazilian markets were unchanged, with receipts at Rio and Santos amounting to 17,000 bags, against 20,000 last week and 10,000 last year. Spot coffee inactive but steady; 8 11-16@8¾ for Rio No. 7.

Buccaneering

No longer do the time-worn walls of Santa Marta resound with the fierce shouts and gun-fire of the Buccaneers.

Our 21 day cruise to all of these places is not quite as exciting, but it is more restful than Buccaneering. Try it for yourself.

Want Philosophy.

A few years ago a New York letter carrier wishing to move to California advertised in a San Francisco newspaper offering to exchange his position in New York with a postman located in California.

Several answers were received and the bargain was made whereby a Californian came to New York and the New Yorker went to California.

There are many men in New York who would be glad to get a good position in the country and there are hundreds in the country who would be glad to come to New York. A similar scheme of advertising might work all right in some cases.

The man who wants to go to the country can advertise for a position in plain English, and perhaps some merchant in a smaller town might be glad to have a man with city experience.

* * *

The man from the country has a good chance in the city, provided he can show he is made of good stuff. Some New York business men have a decided preference for country-bred men—there's something about the resourcefulness and good health of the average country boy or young man that seems to help them get along in the city.

Many men now prominent in New York, and some not so prominent, have come from the country—though, if the truth were known, there would probably be a surprisingly large list of those who don't make good and who go back home.

The whole thing is a matter of personality. But the man who comes to the city and has some ability is likely to find considerable sentiment in his favor and opportunities to get a chance to go to work.

* * *

What can you do?

Give the information in your advertisement; men in the city haven't time to investigate and surmise—get to the point, whether you are from the city or the country, and then it's up to you to make good on your advertisement.

* * *

If you don't feel capable of writing a good, strong, appealing advertisement, call or telephone The Times, 1000 Bryant—no extra charge for the writing.

GIRL MURDER LEADS ALDERMEN TO ACT

They Ask the Legislature to Make It a Crime to Send Young Women to Unknown Addresses.

LAWYER SILENCES WOLTER

Police Give Up Hope of Obtaining a Confession—Case to be Pushed with All Speed.

From concentrating their efforts on developing evidence to make certain the conviction of Albert W. Wolter on the charge of strangling Ruth Wheeler and burning her body in his rooms at 224 East Seventy-fifth Street, the police turned yesterday to the task of preparing their data for immediate use by the courts.

The police believe with District Attorney Whitman that the circumstances of the crime demand that the case should be pushed as rapidly as the law will permit. The clearness of the evidence makes it difficult for them to see where long delay can reasonably be interposed.

Outside of the progress made in shaping the evidence, the Wolter case received attention yesterday when the Aldermen decided to send a resolution to the Legislature declaring the need for a law making it criminal for any school, bureau, or intelligence office to send persons of tender age to addresses the nature of which they have in no way investigated.

The passing of the resolution was followed by a statement from License Commissioner Herman Robinson that he would to-day forward to the Legislature a bill providing that all private schools and all theatrical employment bureaus in the State shall come directly under the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Licenses. Commissioner Robinson declared that the change in the law was imperative because the courts have held that his department had no power to interfere with private schools, notwithstanding the fact that they advertise in many cases that they guarantee places.

"These schools, therefore, are free from any kind of inspection," he said, "and wholly escape regulation. This department about three years ago haled this very school that sent the Wheeler girl on her unfortunate errand into court on the charge of conducting an employment agency without a license, but the courts did not sustain my action, on the grounds that the law did not put this class of institutions in my department."

The resolution passed by the Aldermen set forth the need for remedial legislation in this way:

> Whereas, The brutal murder of Ruth Wheeler has aroused the people of this city to such a pitch that steps should be taken to the end that there may be no possibility of the recurrence of such a crime,
>
> And Whereas, Blame to a degree can be laid at the door of the agency or place from which girls are sent to prospective employers on application, for the reason that no system of inspection or measure of care is in vogue whereby the danger of sending girls to places of peril might be avoided.
> Therefore be it Resolved, That the Legislature now in session be and is hereby respectfully requested to so amend the present law relating to intelligence offices and other places from which persons of not wholly mature age are sent for employment, so that no such persons are sent unless an inspection and investigation have been made or information lodged which will make it absolutely safe for any person thus sent in quest of a position.

Alderman Keneally, who introduced the resolution, declared in speaking in its behalf that "these business colleges have agents going around soliciting young girls to take a course in stenography for a fee. They guarantee to secure them employment. And this is the kind of positions they get them. If such a law as I propose had been in force an immature girl such as Ruth Wheeler would never have been sent to such a place."

The District Attorney took the first step toward obtaining a speedy trial of Wolter yesterday by issuing Grand Jury subpoenas to all the witnesses in the case, calling for their appearance at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

This action, eliminating a Coroner's inquest, stung Coroner Holtzhauser to the quick, as he has worked incessantly since the discovery of the Wheeler girl's burned body to prepare evidence for an inquest in the Coroners' court. He lost no time in sending his own process servers out after he had heard that the District Attorney had taken action, and the result was that all of the more important witnesses were served with a duplicate set of subpoenas, the latter requiring their presence before the Coroner at 9:30 o'clock to-day.

It was said in the District Attorney's office that no representative would be assigned to the inquest. Police officials, including Capt. Hughes, who directed the precinct detectives in the work that brought forth most of the important evidence, said they would ignore the Coroner's papers.

While no formal statement could be obtained from District Attorney Whitman, it is known that he is adverse to having the witnesses closely questioned by the Coroner, for the reason that it will make public the prosecution's evidence, while the defense will not be required to outline any of its plans. Following the indictment of Wolter it is hoped to begin his trial a week from Monday before Judge Foster, in Part V. of General Sessions.

Friends of Wolter yesterday hired W. D. Scott, a lawyer, to look after Wolter's interests. He took charge with an iron hand yesterday morning, appearing at the Tombs at 8 o'clock to prevent Wolter from writing the letter to Katie Müller he had promised the police that he would send, asking her if he should tell them all he knew.

"There will be no letter to Katie," said the lawyer, after he had been admitted to see his client. "And there will be no more talking, and this case will not be rushed to trial next Monday, either. It will go to trial when I am fully prepared, and not until that time."

So completely had Lawyer Scott restored the spirits of Wolter after his collapse of Monday evening that when the police inquisitors called to see him yesterday they found him as defiant as when first arrested and ready to parry every question with the curt reply: "Go ask my lawyer about it. He will do all the talking."

Wolter's lawyer expressed his belief in his client's innocence and in his ability to develop a defense which will save him from conviction.

On inquiring into the record of Lawyer Scott the police found that he was formerly District Attorney of Sioux Falls, S. D., and while serving in that capacity acquired a reputation as one of the most pugnacious officials that had ever held the place. They quickly concluded that it would be futile to try to press the advantage obtained over Wolter on Monday, and all they could do was to take what consolation they could in their faith that their evidence is so complete that they can safely consider it immaterial whether Wolter confesses or not.

Their only fear now is that the lawyer will fight to the limit to obtain every legal delay, and will press all possible technicalities to slow up the rapid progress they hope to make.

Inspector Titus, Capt. Carey, and Capt. Hughes of the East Sixty-seventh Street Station spent yesterday in going over their case with Assistant District Attorney Turnbull and preparing a complete report upon it for the information of District Attorney Whitman. When their report was filed Mr. Whitman appointed his chief assistant, Frank Moss, to conduct the Grand Jury hearing and to represent the District Attorney's office at the trial.

Two important bits of evidence were obtained during the day. Miss Jennie Fisher, a clerk in a five and ten cent store in Third Avenue, near 116th Street, identified Wolter as the man to whom she sold a paint brush and can of black paint on Thursday afternoon between 2 and 3 o'clock. Wolter's chief claim in asserting that he could prove an alibi was that he had bought this paint in the morning, and that therefore the painting of the fireplace had no bearing upon the murder.

Miss Fisher, who came to the Tombs in company with Detective England, was asked to pass along a line of thirteen men drawn up in Tier 5 of the Tombs. When near the centre of the line she stopped, put her hand on Wolter's shoulder, and said: "That's the man I sold the paint to."

Wolter surprised the police by admitting at once that the girl was right and that he, too, remembered her as the young woman who sold him the paint and the brush.

"I recalled the incident," said Miss Fisher, "because the red-handled brush I sold the man was the last one in stock and that made me fix it in my mind especially clear. I am positive it was in the afternoon and not in the morning."

Coroner Holtzhauser, who was formerly a marble worker, made a close examination of the black paint on the marble base of the fireplace in the Seventy-fifth Street house yesterday morning. He found that the black paint had not been laid directly upon the marble, but that the coating of blood stains over which it had been brushed was so thick that often they could be traced beneath the black overcoating, and could be seen when it was scraped away. This find, the Coroner believes, will completely do away with any claim that the paint had another purpose than to cover up the evidence of the crime.

The attempted identification of Wolter by girls from the rescue mission conducted by the Probation Society was not corroborated yesterday. Mary Weisman had been brought by Maud Miner, Secretary of the society, to the Tombs, and had said that Wolter looked like a man she had spoken to in a resort in Thirty-ninth Street. Two employes of the café yesterday failed to pick Wolter out of a line, and when police officials had picked him out for them they insisted that they had never seen him before.

Prof. Larkin of the College of Physicians and Surgeons reported to Coroner Holtzhauser that Miss Wheeler had been assaulted before her death in the Wolter flat. He made a number of microscopical tests which may figure largely in the evidence before the Grand Jury, and he is now at work upon the painted marble slab which has been removed from Wolter's rooms in Seventy-fifth Street.

The funeral of Miss Wheeler took place yesterday, and the body was buried in the family burial plot in Richmond Hill, L. I. The funeral procession consisted of nine carriages, all occupied by close friends and relatives of the dead girl. At the cemetery they listened to simple commitment prayers read by the Rev. John F. Steen, who had previously preached a funeral sermon at the Wheeler home. As no announcement had been made of the funeral or the time the burial would take place, there was no one present at the grave except the immediate members of the funeral party.

TRAIN HITS CAB; TWO DEAD.

Party on Way to Wedding Run Down at a Crossing in Massachusetts.

WAVERLY, Mass., March 29.—Charles A. Bryer of Centre Harbor, N. H., and Ernest M. Harlow, a cab driver, were killed, and Mr. Bryer's wife, Katherine, was seriously injured to-night, when a cab in which they were on their way to a wedding was struck by a train on the Fitchburg Division of the Boston & Maine Railroad at the Waverly Centre crossing. The wedding, which was that of Mrs. Bryer's sister, Miss Flett, daughter of George C. Flett, First Selectman of the town, was postponed as soon as news of the accident reached the church.

Mrs. Bryer's injuries may prove fatal. She is 21 years old and was married only a year ago. Her husband was 28 years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryer had employed Harlow to drive them from the Flett residence to the First Congregational Church, where the wedding was to have been held. The driver attempted to get over the crossing ahead of the train and misjudged the distance. Mr. Bryer was mangled under the wheels of the train, while his wife was thrown to one side of the track, suffering severe injuries. The body of Harlow was found in the cowcatcher of the engine when the train was stopped.

WEALTHY MAN MISSING.

No Trace of V. R. Delnoce Since He Left Home to Visit a Cemetery.

Much mystery surrounds the disappearance of Vincent R. Delnoce, a wealthy resident of 8 Neptune Avenue, New Rochelle, who has been missing since last Saturday, and for whom the police have sent out a special alarm.

Mr. Delnoce is a friend of Second Deputy Police Commissioner Kirby, who also conducted a search among different hospitals and police stations without getting any trace of the missing man.

Mr. Delnoce is a retired business man and owns much property in New Rochelle. At one time he was a dealer in dress goods at 605 Broadway, Manhattan. He is a member of the Wykagyl Golf Club on North Street, New Rochelle, and on Friday afternoon last, when he played several games, he appeared to be in good spirits.

On Saturday morning he took a train to this city, intending to visit the graves of his parents in Woodlawn Cemetery, but after that all trace of him was lost. The members of Mr. Delnoce's family are much worried, as they fear he has met with foul play. He is 45 years old and 5 feet 9 inches in height. He wore a dark suit and a tan overcoat.

WILSON FORESEES DEMOCRATIC VICTORY

Head of Princeton Declares at Elizabeth Dinner the Party's Opportunity Has Come.

RULE FOR INDIVIDUALS OVER

We Must Take the Government Out of the Business of Patronage, He Tells "Dollar Dinner" Guests.

ELIZABETH, N. J., March 29.—More than 600 guests attended the Democratic "dollar dinner," given under the auspices of the Democratic City Executive Committee of Elizabeth at Turn Hall in High Street, to-night. The speakers were President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton, United States Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma, the Rev. Dr. Otis A. Glazebrook, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church of this city, and Charles F. O'Brien of Jersey City. In his address President Wilson said:

"The signs and portents of the time are all certainly most encouraging to those who believe that the Democratic Party can be serviceable to the country at this juncture. It would seem that everywhere the thought of men, who are anxious for the welfare of the country, is turning against the present policies and purposes of the Republican Party, and that the day when the Democratic Party must take charge of affairs is almost at hand. But it would be a great mistake to consider these circumstances as merely a party opportunity.

"Let us ask ourselves, first, then, what our standards are? Why do we assure ourselves that we can advise and lead the country better than the Republicans can? The Republican Party has sought to serve the Nation by showing its confidence in those who are the most conspicuous leaders of the country's business and of its economic development.

"Whatever their thought may have been their action has shown that their confidence was not in the views and desires of the people as a whole, but in the promotion of the interests of the country at the hands of those who chiefly control its resources.

"In the second place, it is our conviction that the interests, by which I mean the men whose energies are concentrated upon particular enterprises established under the conditions of existing law, cannot see the welfare of the country as a whole or in true proportion and perspective.

"A third fundamental principle upon which I believe Democratic Party action should rest is that the individual, not the corporation, the single living person, not the artificial group of persons existing merely by permission of the law, is the only rightful possessor alike of rights and of privileges.

"It is imperatively necessary, if Government is to be kept pure and impartial, that its officers should not themselves be made partners or managers of the great corporate enterprises through which the public is served. Our regulation of public interests must be legal regulation and not direct management. It is bad enough to have the modern overgrown corporations to restrain and control. It would be infinitely worse if they were combined with Government itself, and a partnership formed which could not be broken up without attacking our very governors themselves.

"In the second place it is clearly our duty, so soon as we get the opportunity, to take the Government out of the business of patronage, the business of granting favors and privileges, of arranging the laws so that this, that, or the other group of men may make large profits out of their business, and draw it back to the function of safeguarding rights, general, not particular, rights, the rights which make not so much for the 'prosperity,' which enables small groups of individuals to pile up enormous fortunes, as for a general stimulation, a universal opportunity for enlightenment and justice. I am thinking, of course, of tariff legislation. Whatever may be our views with regard to the policy vaguely called the policy of protection, it is clear that in fact it has long since, as dealt with by Congress, ceased to be a policy of protection and become a policy of patronage, a policy of arrangement by which particular interests in the country may be sure of their profits, whether the country profits by their enterprise or not.

"We are told that the present extraordinarily high prices of commodities of all sorts is due not to the tariff, but to the fact that we are not producing enough to keep up with the daily demand, and that this is particularly true with regard to the things we eat and have daily need of. Take meat, for example, and see what the truth is. The truth is that the meat trust has been able to control the meat market to such an extent that scores of ranchmen have been driven out of the cattle-raising business because it was unprofitable. The short supply of meat is due to the monopoly created by the meat trust. It is true, therefore, that the supply is short compared with the vast demand, but it has been made short by the operation of a trust unquestionably fostered by the legislation of the Government.

"I dare say that the same might be shown to be true with regard to the grains. There have been some very interesting and disgraceful chapters of railroad history which have meant that the men in control of the capital of the country have often used the railways to create such disadvantage of shipment on the part of farmers whom they did not care to favor, that the shipment of grain to market became unprofitable and the supply was again checked by monopoly, the monopoly of the bigger shippers.

"In the third place, it is one of the chief duties of the Democratic Party to initiate such reform, alike in local and in Federal Government, as will secure economy, responsibility, honesty, fidelity. The processes of reform which will secure these neglected objects are processes of simplification, not processes of elaboration, not processes which multiply the instrumentalities of Government unnecessarily and therefore its expenses, but the processes which make for the simplest, most straightforward, and business-like conduct of affairs.

"And finally, it seems to me that it is the duty of the Democratic Party to challenge the people by every possible means to depend upon themselves rather than upon fostering powers lodged in groups of individuals. There have been very encouraging signs in recent years, particularly in some of our smaller cities, that we have at last come upon a time when the people are arousing themselves to give over being dependent upon men whom they cannot watch and are taking direct charge, at any rate of their local Governments. There is no reason why this process should not extend to the Governments of the States and in effect to the Government of the Nation. A simplification of electoral processes will do much to accomplish this. Government can be put in such form as to be easy to understand, easy to criticise, easy to restrain. It should be the study of every sincere Democrat to promote the measures by which these things can be accomplished."

REVIVES OLD TELEPHONE SUIT

BOSTON, March 29.—An old telephone contest dating back fifteen years, between the National Telephone Manufacturing Company and the American Bell Telephone Company, came up before a jury in the United States District Court to-day, on the former's suit to recover $500,000 for malicious persecution.

The Portsmouth company asserts that the Bell company brought a suit in 1895 based upon the alleged infringement of the Berliner patent. The Bell company lost the suit, but the Portsmouth concern says that its business was tied up so long because of the delay in the settlement of the case that it was forced out of business.

COLD STORAGE LAW VETOED BY GAYNOR

WHY IT WOULD BE USELESS

An Inspector in Every Wholesale and Retail Place Would Be Necessary, He Says—Awning Licensing Withdrawn.

Mayor Gaynor sent his first important veto to the Aldermen yesterday. He disapproved the ordinance recently passed by the board calling for the tagging of all pieces of cold storage food with their date of entrance and extraction, declaring that in his mind the provisions of the ordinance could not be enforced with any benefit to the public. He also told the board that "a cardinal rule for lawmakers was not to pass laws which were not enforceable."

After the receipt of Mayor Gaynor's veto of the cold storage ordinance yesterday the Aldermen immediately voted to recall from him the ordinance passed by them last week establishing a system of license fees for the erection of storm doors and awnings, under which it was said it would be possible for a property owner, on payment of $5 a year, to build a glass and tin roof about any building in the city as high as the second story, except on Fifth Avenue, Broadway, and the Bowery.

The matter was referred to the Law Committee on motion of Alderman Dowling, the Tammany leader, who was the father of the ordinance, and also of the cold storage measure.

In his letter the Mayor says:

> It may well be that some food products may become unwholesome by being held in cold storage longer than a given time. That period, it may be, could be scientifically established by investigation, and food products which lay in cold storage up to such limit could be impounded in the storage warehouse and destroyed unless put to some use other than human food. It may be the Board of Health already has this power.
>
> This ordinance does not try to accomplish that end, but requires all foods in cold storage to be tagged with the date they come in and the date they go out, and that all retailers display the same tag on the article to their customers. The enforcement of this would be impossible, and a cardinal rule for lawmakers is not to pass laws which are not enforcible.
>
> It would be necessary to place Inspectors not only in all of the cold storage warehouses, but in every retail place, even to make an attempt to enforce it, and if all that were done the shifting of tags could scarcely be stopped, even if we indulge the belief that all of the Inspectors would be honest.

Swears Off Rogers Personal Tax.

H. H. Rogers appeared before the Tax Board yesterday, and swore off the personal tax assessment of $15,000,000 against the estate of his father. He declared that the money is all invested in stocks, mortgages, and other securities, which are already taxed in other ways.

is modern and sanitary. It stands for refinement, hygiene, cleanliness, as against what is unmodern, wasteful, and often germ-laden—the common soap cake.

The SOAPATOR furnishes each user individual soap.

They Can't Understand How I Do It.

¶ When I figure my profit on a Spring Suit or Overcoat, I don't have to reckon big ground floor rent, big expenses and losses from charge accounts.

¶ About 75% of my store is on the second floor. If it was all on the ground floor my expenses would be doubled. That's why my $20. Overcoats are worth twenty United States Gold Dollars.

¶ Ever stand before a mirror with a Kuppenheimer, Washington or Society Brand suit on? Then come in to-day and let me introduce you to your Spring Suit affinity—anywhere from $15, to $45.
